France Sells Wheat
Value In Old Age

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

IN THESE DAYS every nation, on every continent, seeks economic independence of every other nation. Before the big war France imported wheat; now, although some of her finest grain regions were devastated by the war, France is selling surplus wheat to England.

NICARAGUA has shipped her first 1,000 bales of cotton to Japan, England plans great cotton production in the Sudan, "to be independent of this country," and, with Ethiopia under control, Mussolini will be able to raise all the cotton he wants with cheap labor and plenty left over to sell.

All this bothers the thoughtful American cotton grower and will bother him more as England, Brazil and Russia increase cotton production.

EDOUARD HERRIOT, former French premier, says America is "on another planet," as regards future financial help for France.

Our country ought to be "on another planet" as regards dependence on anything in Europe, Africa or Asia. The North American continent should be as independent of the rest of the world as Mars is of the earth, and it could be that.

THE COMMANDING officer of the big French liner Normandie, Captain Pugnet, is compulsorily retired, because of age, only fifty five years old. Ordinarily Europeans appreciate the experience and wisdom that come with age and keep good men working as long as possible. The commander of a great ship, responsible for thousands of lives is an exception; he must be in the prime of physical as well as mental condition. Commander Pugnet once went sixty-three hours without leaving the bridge of his ship.

THE BIG WAR taught the world a lesson. Because Alexander ruled the world at twenty-three, and Napoleon had almost conquered Europe in his thirties, conquerors were supposed to need extreme youth. The big war was won by old men; two of them, Lloyd George and Clemenceau, supplied the thought and energy, while Foch supplied technical military knowledge. Any one of them was old enough to be the great grandfather of Alexander the Great.

IN THE UNITED STATES successful men work too hard, too fast, too long hours, eat foolishly, too rapidly, ruin digestion early; "Half of what they eat keeps them alive; the other half keeps the doctors alive." Nevertheless in many lines, particularly the great railroad and other corporations there is too early compulsory retirement.

If the late, original J. Pierpont Morgan had been a corporation official instead of being the financial boss of many corporations, he would have been retired "by rule" at the height of his powers.

FORTUNATELY, exception is made for our supreme court justices, whose work requires maturity, knowledge and the independence of hasty public emotion, possessed by age.

Chief Justice Hughes supplies an example of great usefulness combined

LOCOMOTIVE KILLS MAN AT SHREVEPORT

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—R. C. McCutcheon, 60, foreman for R. O. Marks, local contractor, was fatally injured about noon today when struck by a switch engine of the Louisiana and Arkansas railroad, in the Silver lake bottom yards here.

McCutcheon was engaged in supervising excavation work being done by the Marks contracting firm for the Cotton Belt railroad, preparatory to laying some trackage. McCutcheon, witnesses said, apparently did not hear the locomotive and stepped directly onto the tracks in front of the train. He was struck by the rear of the locomotive and dragged from some distance along the tracks before the engine could be brought to a stop.

JUDGE COMMENDS JURY AND STATES TRIAL WAS FAIR

Defendant Shows No Emotion But Sister Breaks Into Tears

CONDEMNED BLACK TO GO TO DEATH IN GAS CHAMBER

Jurors Out Hour, But One Says Only One Ballot Was Required

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Martin Moore, gaunt black man, was convicted today of slaying little blonde Helen Clevenger with a pistol in her Battery Park hotel room here July 16 and was sentenced to die October 2 in the state gas chamber.

Judge Don Phillips asked the negro:

"Martin, have you anything to say?"

His huge arms folded across his chest, the six-foot-three former hallboy shook his head and then murmured almost inaudibly:

"I want to thank the jury."

Turning to the jury, Judge Phillips said:

"He says he wants to thank the jury."

Then the judge asked Moore:

"Have you anything else to say, Martin?"

The defendant shook his head.

Joseph F. Clevenger, 61-year-old father of the slain five-foot-one New York university student, rubbed his pale cheek briskly with his hand as Foreman John S. Hersey read the verdict in the hot, packed courtroom.

A slender, yellow sister of the defendant broke into tears, but if the verdict stunned Moore he failed to show it. As throughout the trial, he maintained an appearance of apathy.

Ordered to his feet for the verdict, he slowly raised his lank figure from his chair and balanced himself with

MISSISSIPPI WILL VOTE ON TUESDAY

Five Congressmen And One U. S. Senator Will Be Named In State

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Democratic voters of Mississippi will go to the polls Tuesday to say whether or not they are satisfied with the state's present representation in congress.

Of the state's delegation of nine, five of its congressmen and its senior senator must face the test of the ballot box.

One congressman, Wall Doxey of the second district, was renominated without opposition; another, Congressman Aubert Dunn of Meridian, did not offer for re-election, and Junior Senator Bilbo's term does not expire until 1940.

Tuesday's primary is limited to the congressional campaign, as the only other state official up for re-election, Justice W. D. Anderson of the supreme court, had no opposition, and the legislature gave Gov. Hugh White the authority to appoint the state's three highway commissioners heretofore elected.

COWBOY WOULD WED BUT WIFE OBJECTS

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—P. (Peavine) Dinkins, young cowboy and broncho buster, admitted here Saturday that he had gotten into a lot of "hot water" as the result of his offer Wednesday to marry Miss Charlotte Thompson, of London, who expressed her desire in a letter to Governor Henry Blood of Utah to marry a cowboy.

Dinkins sheepishly admitted that he had received a telephone call from a woman at Beaumont, Tex., about the matter, and, incidentally, the caller was Mrs. P. Dinkins and she wanted to know the "why and wherefore" of his offer she had read about in the newspapers.

He said Saturday that he would devote his time for the present to broncho riding and leave the romancing to those who know feminine impediments.

AUTO PILFERER CAPTURED HERE

Carl Dixon Reputedly Confesses Minor Thefts From Cars In City

With the arrest yesterday of Carl Dixon, 21-year-old white man living at 211 Jefferson street, police expressed the belief they had captured the person who has been pilfering articles from parked cars on the streets of the city.

Dixon reputedly confessed that he had been stealing from cars for the last five months and gave a list of articles which he had taken, some of which were recovered by the police and returned to the owners.

Dixon was arrested by Police Officer J. M. Busby after a complaint had been filed by P. B. Brooks of Belzoni, Miss. Brooks told police that while his car was parked in front of the Frances hotel yesterday morning where he was eating breakfast, two coats, one belonging to himself and the other to his son, were stolen from his car.

Brooks furnished a description of a man he noticed standing by his car when he entered the hotel coffee shop. The description was taken by Officer Busby and the latter left headquarters with the intention of searching for the man.

About three quarters of an hour later Busby saw Dixon leaving a church on Jackson street. At the same time Brooks and his family were also passing the church and when Busby arrested Dixon they identified the latter, who was allegedly wearing one of the stolen coats and had the other coat and a shirt wrapped in a parcel.

At police headquarters Dixon told

NAVY REPORTS PERFECT SCORE IN PISTOL TEST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The navy department reported today a perfect score in the standard marine pistol marksmanship test made at Parris Island, S. C., yesterday for the first time in the history of the service.

The successful marksman was Major William P. Richards, a native of Spokane, Wash., and a 1917 graduate of the naval academy.

A message of congratulations was sent to him by Major General John H. Russell, commandant of marines.

The test includes a total of 45 shots, slow and rapid fire and at a bobbing target.

GAS RATE ORDER FOR BROWN IS EXTENDED

FARMERVILLE, La., Aug. 22—(Special)—A compromise order issued by Harvey G. Fields, public service commissioner for the third district, granting a reduction of minimum gas rates of a dollar on natural gas to users outside West Monroe, at Brown and Bawcomville, has been extended by the commission until January 1, 1937, and that the order will be signed at the next meeting of the commission.

The order was granted as the result of litigation brought as A. S. Nappier against the Natural Gas company.

PENSION DATA IS STUDIED BY ERA

Harry J. Early Says Work Should Be Finished By September 1

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Parish units of the state emergency relief administration are verifying data in old age assistance cases as foundation for rendition of such assistance when the joint state, federal and parish school security program foe goes into effect.

Harry J. Early, state relief director, said the work should be finished by September 1.

"We are going over all old age assistance cases," he said, "and securing all the information regarding age, residence and need in the prescribed form."

Mr. Early said there was some misconception, reflected by applications, as to eligibility for aid. He explained assistance would go only to persons over 65 whose means were insufficient to maintain normal living standards, and who conform with other requirements.

HENRY PADGETT DIES SUDDENLY

Young Radio Announcer Stricken At KMLB While Conducting Program

Stricken with a heart attack while engaged in announcing a radio program over Station KMLB, Henry Padgett, 24, died suddenly at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

News of his death came as shock to the hosts of friends Mr. Padgett had made in this city during the past two years. His death was wholly unexpected. He was alone in the control room of the broadcasting station at the time, and the first intimation that anything was wrong came when the station engineer became aware that the program scheduled to occur at 10:30 was not being given. Attaches of the station entered the control room and found the announcer slumped in his chair, with his heart faintly beating. He died immediately afterwards.

Mr. Padgett was well known to radio audiences not only in the Monroe area but throughout the country. He was born in Dixon, Tenn., and received his early education in his native community. After graduating from high school he came to Louisiana and entered Centenary college at Shreveport, where he attended three years. During his student days he was a member of the Centenary "Blues Orchestra" and took part in radio broadcasts over Station KTBS in Shreveport. He was a feature vocalist of considerable renown and sang over station WSM at Nashville after leaving Centenary, and later joined the Lloyd Huntley orchestra, which appeared in radio programs at St. Paul, Boston and other large cities of the country.

He came to Monroe two years ago

16 Sobbing Russians Hear Prosecutor Demand Lives

Not One Utters Plea For Mercy As Final Statements Made

By Charles P. Nutter

MOSCOW, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Broken, sobbing men facing certain death before a firing squad heard their lives demanded tonight as the Russian government closed its case against 16 plotters for its overthrow.

Not one uttered a plea for mercy.

Two of the defendants, who admitted their conspiracy to assassinate Dictator Joseph Stalin and seize power, collapsed and had to be led from the courtroom.

The others sobbed their final statements. Although they were tear-blinded and almost exhausted by the strain, they declared their readiness to face the executioners' rifles.

As the trial came to its climax, Maikil Tamsky, one of the officials implicated in the conspiracy testimony, died suddenly in his home near Moscow.

Officials said Tamsky, head of the Soviet state publishing house, had committed suicide because "he became entangled in the conspiracy of counter-revolutionary terrorists."

One of the prisoners, T. Reingold, broke into a wild, hysterical oration, shouting: "I have raised my hand against Stalin. I expect no mercy."

Gregory Zinovieff and Leon Kameneff, once co-rulers of Russia with Stalin whom they admit plotting to kill, sat slumped in their chairs, motionless and abject. Not one defendant spoke to another during the tense moments while the hysterical Reingold reviled them.

"Excuse me, Zinovieff," he raved. "You may not like what I am saying, but I must talk. Zinovieff and Kameneff instructed me to kill Stalin.

"Whatever our fate may be, whether or not we are shot physically, we already have been shot morally."

Prosecutor Andrey J. Vishinsky delivered a castigation of each prisoner, limited only by his vocabulary, and to escape further tongue-lashings the defendants unanimously waived the first of two final court appearances

SEVERAL HIGHWAY PROJECTS IN THIS SECTION PLANNED

L. P. Abernathy Gives Assurance Of Program While On Visit In Monroe

FUNDS TO BE VOTED ON BY PEOPLE IN NOVEMBER

Roads From Bastrop To Arkansas Line And From Mer Rouge To Bonita Seen

Assurance of several highway projects to be undertaken in the Monroe area from funds produced by the forthcoming $30,000,000 bond issue, which will be voted on by the people next November, was given by L. P. Abernathy, chairman of the state highway commission, during a brief visit to Monroe Saturday.

One of the projects, Mr. Abernathy said, is the hard surfacing of highway number 204 from Bastrop to the Arkansas state line to connect with the road to Crossett, Ark. If there is sufficient money available for the purpose, the chairman stated, the road will be built of concrete. Otherwise, it will be black topped.

Another project is that of highway 165 from Mer Rouge to Bonita, which will be completed under federal aid, and will be of concrete. This project will include the construction of an overpass over the Missouri Pacific track near Bonita. The overpass will be erected entirely from federal funds, Mr. Abernathy said.

Completion of the concrete road from Alto to Mangham is also included in the commission's program. The highway from the Ouachita parish line to Alto is now under construction.

Mr. Abernathy was asked whether the commission has under considera-

YOUTH, CHILD ON PICNIC DROWNED

Five Others Rescued When Motorboat Overturns Near Minden

MINDEN, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Talmadge Bradford, 21, and Norma Lee Squires, 4 years old, drowned in Dorcheat bayou, about three miles west of Minden, at 3:30 p.m. today. They were members of a picnic party. Five others were rescued.

The pair drowned when a motor boat in which they were riding foundered after the motor suddenly stopped.

Other persons in the boat were, Robert Langston 24; Edith Thompson, 18; Jim Ella Thompson, 16; Grant Squires, 5, and May Kennedy, 16. All persons on the outing were Minden residents.

When the boat began to sink all occupants jumped into the water. One of the small girls, Jim Ella Thompson, grabbed Bradford about the neck and asked him to save her. The pair started toward the bank. About 15 feet from the shoreline Bradford sank, but other members of the party on the bank rescued the child.

THOUSAND BANDITS KILL 32 JAPANESE

TOKYO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—A thousand bandits killed 32 Japanese subjects and two Manchoukuans in a raid on the walled town of Fusung, near the Korean border of Manchoukuo, Domei news agency dispatches reported today.

They said the well organized and heavily armed bandit army swarmed into Fusung last Sunday, overpowered the small Japanese garrison and razed more than two-thirds of the buildings.

The bandits carried off hostages when several Japanese army bombing planes from Singking forced them to retreat.

The bandits apparently singled out Japanese or Koreans for their victims. Of those killed three were soldiers, two policemen and 27 civilian residents.

A Japanese infantry column from Supingkai occupied the town after the airplanes routed the marauders.

The attack was the high spot in a marked revival of bandit activities in eastern and central Manchoukuo.

FLOYD B. OLSON

GOVERNOR OLSON, MINNESOTA, DIES

Farmer-Labor Executive Succumbs Of Stomach Ailment In Rochester

ROCHESTER, Minn., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Floyd B. Olson, of Minnesota, the nation's only Farmer-Labor governor, died here tonight.

The governor, who was 44 years old and who long was prominent in state and national political circles, succumbed to a stomach ailment at 8:20 p.m. (central standard time) in the famous Mayo clinic.

With him at the time of death were Mrs. Olson; his daugher, Patricia; Maurice Rose, the chief executive's personal aide; Drs. Hunter Sheldon and Carl Hygaard, and three nurses, Miss Lunetta Judd, Miss Irma Sasson, and Miss Elizabeth Hogan.

Barred from the hospital, a crowd stood on the street outside the building, awaiting the final outcome.

Abe Harris, political affiliate and long-time friend of the governor, informed Marvin McIntyre, President Roosevelt's secretary, of the death. President Roosevelt was to have visited Governor Olson August 31.

Floyd B. Olson, a Scandinavian who spoke Yiddish fluently, and who was the only governor of Minnesota to rebuke the state's supreme court, was a self-styled "radical."

He explained that he was not a radical in the sense of being a Communist, but as the dictionary defines the word, meaning, "One who holds

FOUR HURT WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

One Suffers Broken Wrist And Another Fractured Collar Bone

R. F. Easterwood, a mining man living at Hotel Monroe, suffered a broken wrist and Edmond Jarred of Estill, Miss., received a broken collar bone when two automobiles in which they were passengers collided on highway 80, four miles east of Calhoun, Saturday night.

The cars were driven by C. E. Welch, who also lives at Hotel Monroe, and E. J. Stafford of Estill, Miss. They escaped serious injury, although both suffered cuts and bruises.

Both cars were badly damaged. The car driven by Welch was on its way to Monroe, while Stafford was going toward Mississippi.

Easterwood was brought to the Monroe hotel, where a physician set the broken wrist, while Jarred received treatment at a doctor's office here.

J. L. KEENAN NAMED TO HEAD HOTEL MEN

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Louisiana Hotel association, meeting here today in convention, elected J. L. Keenan of Monroe, president, succeeding Seymour Weiss. Monroe was selected as convention city for 1937.

Other officers elected were: George W. Newman, of Homer, first vice-president; Mrs. Emma Michie, Lake Charles, second vice-president; A. P. Gardner, Shreveport, third vice-president; Arthur F. Landstreet, New Orleans, fourth vice-president; George W. Thomas, Lafayette, fifth vice-president; J. W. Stimpson, New Orleans, secretary-treasurer, and Al L. White, Breaux Bridge, sergeant-at-arms.

MADRID PROMISES SATISFACTION IN KAMERON TANGLE

Strong Pressure Brought By Great Britain To Get Apology

OTHER NATIONS TO STOP ARMS SHIPMENTS SOON

England First To Stop Sending Munitions to Belligerents

(By Associated Press)

The door to united European neutrality in the Spanish civil war was opened tonight with the promise of the Madrid government that it would settle speedily the "Kamerun incident" protested twice by the Nazi government of Germany.

Through its minister of state, Augusto Barcia, the Madrid government declared it was discussing "with all the care required by their importance" the German demands for apologies for the reported search of the German vessel Kamerun by Spanish government armed seamen.

The German government also demanded assurances that such an "incident" would not recur, and insisted on return of a German plane reported to be sequestered in Spain. Of this latter demand there was nothing said officially in Madrid, but it was authoritatively stated in London that Great Britain exerted strong pressure on Madrid to smooth out this dispute, as well as the Kamerun incident.

If the "affronts" charged by the German government were disposed of satisfactorily, European observers felt the most difficult stumbling block to the proposed French neutrality pact would be removed.

Italy already has promised to place an embargo on arms shipments to the

CANADA TREATY INCREASES TRADE

Gain Of 24 Per Cent Shown In Imports And Exports To U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Federal economists reported today that movement of farm products to and from Canada had jumped 24 per cent during the first six months of the reciprocal trade treaty.

An analysis prepared by the agricultural department's bureau of foreign crops and markets showed the percentage of increase for exports and imports of agricultural products to be identical, as compared with the same period during 1935.

The trade figures were made public shortly after Secretary Roper forecast negotiations for a reciprocal trade agreement with Great Britain. Returning from Europe, Roper said the "Canadian trade agreement has arrested" British attention.

The citrus industry in this country and cattlemen in Canada were said to be chief beneficiaries in agricultural trade between the two nations.

Agricultural exports to Canada for the the first six months of this year were $25,408,000 compared with $20,545,000 for the first half of last year, a gain of $4,863,000 or 24 per cent.

Farm products sent here from Canada in the first half of 1936 were valued at $35,954,000 compared with $28,896,000 in 1935, a gain of $7,058,000, also 24 per cent.

Non-agricultural products from Canada rose from $100,398,000 for the first half of last year to $123,886,000 this year, a boost of $22,888,000 or 23 per cent.

Non-agricultural products moving into Canada were $158,344,000 for the first half of this year to $123,886,000 last year, a boost of $22,888,000 or 23 per cent.

AUTO PILFERER CAPTURED HERE

Carl Dixon Reputedly Confesses Minor Thefts From Cars In City

With the arrest yesterday of Carl Dixon, 21-year-old white man living at 211 Jefferson street, police expressed the belief they had captured the person who has been pilfering articles from parked cars on the streets of the city.

Dixon reputedly confessed that he had been stealing from cars for the last five months and gave a list of articles which he had taken, some of which were recovered by the police and returned to the owners.

Dixon was arrested by Police Officer J. M. Busby after a complaint had been filed by P. B. Brooks of Belzoni, Miss. Brooks told police that while his car was parked in front of the Frances hotel yesterday morning where he was eating breakfast, two coats, one belonging to himself and the other to his son, were stolen from his car.

Brooks furnished a description of a man he noticed standing by his car when he entered the hotel coffee shop. The description was taken by Officer Busby and the latter left headquarters with the intention of searching for the man.

About three quarters of an hour later Busby saw Dixon leaving a church on Jackson street. At the same time Brooks and his family were also passing the church and when Busby arrested Dixon they identified the latter, who was allegedly wearing one of the stolen coats and had the other coat and a shirt wrapped in a parcel.

At police headquarters Dixon told

MAN DROWNS WHEN CHASED BY SNAKE

PIEDMONT, Ala., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Leaping into Hurricane creek as a moccasin squirmed into a small fishing boat, Robert Crabbe, 40, drowned last night.

The body was recovered by divers today.

NAVY REPORTS PERFECT SCORE IN PISTOL TEST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The navy department reported today a perfect score in the standard marine pistol marksmanship test made at Parris Island, S. C., yesterday for the first time in the history of the service.

The successful marksman was Major William P. Richards, a native of Spokane, Wash., and a 1917 graduate of the naval academy.

A message of congratulations was sent to him by Major General John H. Russell, commandant of marines.

GAS RATE ORDER FOR BROWN IS EXTENDED

FARMERVILLE, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—A compromise order issued by Harvey G. Fields, public service commissioner for the third district, granting a reduction of minimum gas rates of a dollar on natural gas to users outside West Monroe, at Brown and Bawcomville, has been extended by the commission until January 1, 1937, and that the order will be signed at the next meeting of the commission.

The order was granted as the result of litigation brought as A. S. Nappier against the Natural Gas company.

PENSION DATA IS STUDIED BY ERA

Harry J. Early Says Work Should Be Finished By September 1

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Parish units of the state emergency relief administration are verifying data in old age assistance cases as foundation for rendition of such assistance when the joint state, federal and parish school security program foe goes into effect.

Harry J. Early, state relief director, said the work should be finished by September 1.

"We are going over all old age assistance cases," he said, "and securing all the information regarding age, residence and need in the prescribed form."

Mr. Early said there was some misconception, reflected by applications, as to eligibility for aid. He explained assistance would go only to persons over 65 whose means were insufficient to maintain normal living standards, and who conform with other requirements.

HENRY PADGETT DIES SUDDENLY

Young Radio Announcer Stricken At KMLB While Conducting Program

Stricken with a heart attack while engaged in announcing a radio program over Station KMLB, Henry Padgett, 24, died suddenly at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

News of his death came as shock to the hosts of friends Mr. Padgett had made in this city during the past two years. His death was wholly unexpected. He was alone in the control room of the broadcasting station at the time, and the first intimation that anything was wrong came when the station engineer became aware that the program scheduled to occur at 10:30 was not being given. Attaches of the station entered the control room and found the announcer slumped in his chair, with his heart faintly beating. He died immediately afterwards.

Mr. Padgett was well known to radio audiences not only in the Monroe area but throughout the country. He was born in Dixon, Tenn., and received his early education in his native community. After graduating from high school he came to Louisiana and entered Centenary college at Shreveport, where he attended three years. During his student days he was a member of the Centenary "Blues Orchestra" and took part in radio broadcasts over Station KTBS in Shreveport. He was a feature vocalist of considerable renown and sang over station WSM at Nashville after leaving Centenary, and later joined the Lloyd Huntley orchestra, which appeared in radio programs at St. Paul, Boston and other large cities of the country.

He came to Monroe two years ago

16 Sobbing Russians Hear Prosecutor Demand Lives

Not One Utters Plea For Mercy As Final Statements Made

By Charles P. Nutter

MOSCOW, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Broken, sobbing men facing certain death before a firing squad heard their lives demanded tonight as the Russian government closed its case against 16 plotters for its overthrow.

Not one uttered a plea for mercy.

Two of the defendants, who admitted their conspiracy to assassinate Dictator Joseph Stalin and seize power, collapsed and had to be led from the courtroom.

The others sobbed their final statements. Although they were tear-blinded and almost exhausted by the strain, they declared their readiness to face the executioners' rifles.

As the trial came to its climax, Maikil Tamsky, one of the officials implicated in the conspiracy testimony, died suddenly in his home near Moscow.

Officials said Tamsky, head of the Soviet state publishing house, had committed suicide because "he became entangled in the conspiracy of counter-revolutionary terrorists."

One of the prisoners, T. Reingold, broke into a wild, hysterical oration, shouting: "I have raised my hand against Stalin. I expect no mercy."

Gregory Zinovieff and Leon Kameneff, once co-rulers of Russia with Stalin whom they admit plotting to kill, sat slumped in their chairs, motionless and abject. Not one defendant spoke to another during the tense moments while the hysterical Reingold reviled them.

"Excuse me, Zinovieff," he raved. "You may not like what I am saying, but I must talk. Zinovieff and Kameneff instructed me to kill Stalin.

"Whatever our fate may be, whether or not we are shot physically, we already have been shot morally."

Prosecutor Andrey J. Vishinsky delivered a castigation of each prisoner, limited only by his vocabulary, and to escape further tongue-lashings the defendants unanimously waived the first of two final court appearances

SEVERAL HIGHWAY PROJECTS IN THIS SECTION PLANNED

L. P. Abernathy Gives Assurance Of Program While On Visit In Monroe

FUNDS TO BE VOTED ON BY PEOPLE IN NOVEMBER

Roads From Bastrop To Arkansas Line And From Mer Rouge To Bonita Seen

Assurance of several highway projects to be undertaken in the Monroe area from funds produced by the forthcoming $30,000,000 bond issue, which will be voted on by the people next November, was given by L. P. Abernathy, chairman of the state highway commission, during a brief visit to Monroe Saturday.

One of the projects, Mr. Abernathy said, is the hard surfacing of highway number 204 from Bastrop to the Arkansas state line to connect with the road to Crossett, Ark. If there is sufficient money available for the purpose, the chairman stated, the road will be built of concrete. Otherwise, it will be black topped.

Another project is that of highway 165 from Mer Rouge to Bonita, which will be completed under federal aid, and will be of concrete. This project will include the construction of an overpass over the Missouri Pacific track near Bonita. The overpass will be erected entirely from federal funds, Mr. Abernathy said.

Completion of the concrete road from Alto to Mangham is also included in the commission's program. The highway from the Ouachita parish line to Alto is now under construction.

Mr. Abernathy was asked whether the commission has under considera-

YOUTH, CHILD ON PICNIC DROWNED

Five Others Rescued When Motorboat Overturns Near Minden

MINDEN, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Talmadge Bradford, 21, and Norma Lea Squires, 4 years old, drowned in Dorcheat bayou, about three miles west of Minden, at 3:30 p.m. today. They were members of a picnic party. Five others were rescued.

The pair drowned when a motor boat in which they were riding foundered after the motor suddenly stopped.

Other persons in the boat were: Robert Langston, 24; Edith Thompson, 18; Jim Ella Thompson, 10; Grant Squires, 5, and May Kennedy, 16. All persons on the outing were Minden residents.

When the boat began to sink, all occupants jumped into the water. One of the small girls, Jim Ella Thompson, grabbed Bradford about the neck and asked him to save her. The pair started toward the bank. About 15 feet from the shoreline, Bradford sank, but other members of the party on the bank rescued the child.

THOUSAND BANDITS KILL 32 JAPANESE

TOKYO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—A thousand bandits killed 32 Japanese subjects and two Manchoukuans in a raid on the walled town of Fusung, near the Korean border of Manchoukuo, Domei news agency dispatches reported today.

They said the well organized and heavily armed bandit army swarmed into Fusung last Sunday, overpowered the small Japanese garrison and razed more than two-thirds of the buildings.

The bandits carried off hostages when several Japanese army bombing planes from Singking forced them to retreat.

The bandits apparently singled out Japanese or Koreans for their victims. Of those killed three were soldiers, two policemen and 27 civilian residents.

A Japanese infantry column from Supingkai occupied the town after the airplanes routed the marauders.

The attack was the high spot in a marked revival of bandit activities in eastern and central Manchoukuo.

GOVERNOR DIES

FLOYD B. OLSON

GOVERNOR OLSON, MINNESOTA, DIES

Farmer-Labor Executive Succumbs Of Stomach Ailment In Rochester

ROCHESTER, Minn., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Floyd B. Olson, of Minnesota, the nation's only Farmer-Labor governor, died here tonight.

The governor, who was 44 years old and who long was prominent in state and national political circles, succumbed to a stomach ailment at 8:20 p.m. (central standard time) in the famous Mayo clinic.

With him at the time of death were Mrs. Olson; his daugher, Patricia; Maurice Rose, the chief executive's personal aide; Drs. Hunter Sheldon and Carl Hygaard, and three nurses, Miss Lunetta Judd, Miss Irma Sasson, and Miss Elizabeth Hogan.

Barred from the hospital, a crowd stood on the street outside the building, awaiting the final outcome.

Abe Harris, political affiliate and long-time friend of the governor, informed Marvin McIntyre, President Roosevelt's secretary, of the death. President Roosevelt was to have visited Governor Olson August 31.

Floyd B. Olson, a Scandinavian who spoke Yiddish fluently, and who was the only governor of Minnesota to rebuke the state's supreme court, was a self-styled "radical."

He explained that he was not a radical in the sense of being a Communist, but as the dictionary defines the word, meaning, "One who holds

One Suffers Broken Wrist And Another Fractured Collar Bone

R. F. Easterwood, a mining man living at Hotel Monroe, suffered a broken wrist and Edmond Jarred of Estill, Miss., received a broken collar bone when two automobiles in which they were passengers collided on highway 80, four miles east of Calhoun, Saturday night.

The cars were driven by C. E. Welch, who also lives at Hotel Monroe, and E. J. Stafford of Estill, Miss. They escaped serious injury, although both suffered cuts and bruises.

Both cars were badly damaged. The car driven by Welch was on its way to Monroe, while Stafford was going toward Mississippi.

J. L. KEENAN NAMED TO HEAD HOTEL MEN

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Louisiana Hotel association, meeting here today in convention, elected J. L. Keenan of Monroe, president, succeeding Seymour Weiss. Monroe was selected as convention city for 1937.

Other officers elected were: George W. Newman, of Homer, first vice-president; Mrs. Emma Michie, Lake Charles, second vice-president; A. P. Gardner, Shreveport, third vice-president; Arthur F. Landstreet, New Orleans, fourth vice-president; George W. Thomas, Lafayette, fifth vice-president; J. W. Stimpson, New Orleans, secretary-treasurer, and Al L. White, Breaux Bridge, sergeant-at-arms.

MADRID PROMISES SATISFACTION IN KAMERON TANGLE

OTHER NATIONS TO STOP ARMS SHIPMENTS SOON

England First To Stop Sending Munitions to Belligerents

(By Associated Press)

The door to united European neutrality in the Spanish civil war was opened tonight with the promise of the Madrid government that it would settle speedily the "Kamerun incident" protested twice by the Nazi government of Germany.

Through its minister of state, Augusto Barcia, the Madrid government declared it was discussing "with all the care required by their importance" the German demands for apologies for the reported search of the German vessel Kamerun by Spanish government armed seamen.

The German government also demanded assurances that such an "incident" would not recur, and insisted on return of a German plane reported to be sequestered in Spain. Of this latter demand there was nothing said officially in Madrid, but it was authoritatively stated in London that Great Britain exerted strong pressure on Madrid to smooth out this dispute, as well as the Kamerun incident.

If the "affronts" charged by the German government were disposed of satisfactorily, European observers felt the most difficult stumbling block to the proposed French neutrality pact would be removed.

Italy already has promised to place an embargo on arms shipments to the

CANADA TREATY INCREASES TRADE

Gain Of 24 Per Cent Shown In Imports And Exports To U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Federal economists reported today that movement of farm products to and from Canada had jumped 24 per cent during the first six months of the reciprocal trade treaty.

An analysis prepared by the agricultural department's bureau of foreign crops and markets showed the percentage of increase for exports and imports of agricultural products to be identical, as compared with the same period during 1935.

The trade figures were made public shortly after Secretary Roper forecast negotiations for a reciprocal trade agreement with Great Britain. Returning from Europe, Roper said the "Canadian trade agreement has arrested British attention.

The citrus industry in this country and cattlemen in Canada were said to be chief beneficiaries in agricultural trade between the two nations.

Agricultural exports to Canada for the the first six months of this year were $25,408,000 compared with $20,545,000 for the first half of last year, a gain of $4,863,000 or 24 per cent.

Farm products sent here from Canada in the first half of 1936 were valued at $35,954,000 compared with $28,896,000 in 1935, a gain of $7,058,000, also 24 per cent.

Non-agricultural products from Canada rose from $100,988,000 for the first half of last year to $123,886,000 this year, a boost of $22,888,000 or 23 per cent.

Non-agricultural products moving into Canada were $158,344,000 for the first half of this year to $123,886,000 last year, a boost of $22,888,000 or 23 per cent.

FOREIGN LEGION AIDS REBELS' MADRID PUSH

Swarthy veterans of many campaigns in Morocco, these Spanish foreign legionnaires, now fighting on the Spanish mainland in the rebel army under Gen. Francisco Franco, are seen bringing in prisoners captured in attacks on government forces near Seville. Franco has depended heavily on these soldiers, who are deadly snipers, to help turn the tide of crucial battles in the drive on Madrid. It is a custom of the legionnaires, when they get into the thick of a battle, to discard uniform coats and fight naked from the waist up, exposing wildly tattooed arms and chests.

3:30-4:00—Girls give play. Dorothy Walters.

4:00-5:00—Baseball game. Boys and girls.

5:15—Bathing beauty contest.

5:30—Swimming.

Much interest has been shown during the past week in the tournaments on our playgrounds. These contests were held to determine who would be entered in the junior Olympics to compete against the champions of other playgrounds.

The junior Olympics were held Friday, August 21, at Barkdull Faulk.

The day was a big success and a good time had by each and every one who attended.

"All good things must come to an end." This seems to be true concerning the playgrounds, which will close August 20. The boys and girls who have been attending the playground and taking part in the many activities do not give this date, August 28, a very cordial welcome.

It is necessary to close because of school starting soon and the time will be occupied with the preparation for school.

Each playground has planned a special program for the closing day of the playground season.

The afternoon playground at Atkinson has made plans for a treasure hunt and a picnic.

REPORT GIVEN

JONESBORO, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—A report of George P. Mackey, manager of the Hodge cannery, shows that 92,862 cans of vegetables were canned at that institution this season. Mr. Mackey said the plant will be enlarged next year.

SALES MANAGER WITH FIRM HERE

R. S. Abbott Joins Milner-Fuller Co.; Fred Hartman Also With Concern

R. S. Abbott, of New Orleans, who for the past 20 years has occupied some of the most important positions in the Ford Motor company organization in various parts of the country, is now associated with Milner-Fuller, Inc., in Monroe as sales manager, it was announced Saturday by L. P. Milner.

Mr. Milner also announced that Fred Hartman, of Jackson, has been appointed Lincoln sales representative with Milner-Fuller, Inc.

Mr. Abbott, who has already assumed his duties with the Monroe company, first joined the Ford Motor organization nearly 20 years ago when he was placed in charge of the Ford Motor company at Atlanta, a position he occupied for eight years. He was transferred to Houston as southeastern regional manager, and three years later went to Philadelphia as branch manager and regional manager for the southeastern and eastern divisions. From this post he was promoted in 1931 to Chicago as branch manager, a position only second to that of New York in the Ford Motor group.

Resigning this post, he has been for the last two or three years engaged in organization work in various divisions of the company.

He has come to Monroe to remain permanently, Mr. Milner said. "In Mr. Abbott, we have a great acquisition, one who knows thoroughly every angle of the Ford Motor business.

Mr. Abbott is married, and has one son who is living in New Orleans. Mr. and Mrs. Abbott are making their home in an apartment at Savoy court.

Fred Hartman, Lincoln sales representative, has had an experience of 10 years with the Ford Motor company and other automobile organizations. He is moving here with his family to take up his permanent residence in the city.

HEAD SALES DEPARTMENTS

R. S. Abbott, left, and Fred Hartman, right, have joined the Milner-Fuller, Inc., as heads of the sales departments. Mr. Abbott will serve as sales manager and Mr. Hartman will act as Lincoln sales representative for the company.

GRASS FIRES LAID TO ARID WEATHER

The continued dry spell was indirectly blamed by the fire department as having caused four grass fires Saturday all of which resulted from burning trash which quickly ignited grass that has been dried out by the excessive heat.

The calls were to North Fifth and Hilton streets, Gordon avenue and Forrest street, a lot belonging to the Missouri-Pacific railroad on Pear street and at the 4000 block of DeSiard street. The fires were quickly put out with no damage to property.

Because of the danger resulting from fire the public was cautioned by firemen against burning trash near dry grass, and property owners are asked to see that all trash fires near vacant lots are put out before they leave the vicinity.

A fire said to have started when a tank of cleaning fluid was ignited threatened the plant of the Monroe Steam laundry at 428 South Grand street Saturday morning. The blaze is believed by firemen to have been caused when a lighted match was carelessly thrown near the tank. The fire was quickly brought under control without any damage being reported.

MORE THAN 18 MILES PER GALLON ON TRIP OVER MOUNTAINS

Red Rock, Oklahoma
June 19, 1936

Doonges Motor Company
Tonkawa, Oklahoma

Gentlemen:

I have just returned from a two weeks' trip in which I covered more than 4800 miles and I am so well pleased with the performance and economy of my new Ford V-8 that I want to tell you about it.

Our car, a Fordor Sedan with Trunk, accommodated seven of us on this trip which took us through the mountains of Colorado, Wyoming and into Washington State. On the return trip there were nine of us and we came back through Salt Lake City and Denver.

On this trip we passed over six of the Rocky Mountain Passes and we marveled at the ease at which the car took these steep grades and the rare intervals at which we bought gasoline, for upon our return, by dividing the total miles traveled by the total number of gallons of gasoline bought, we found that we had averaged over 18 miles to the gallon for the entire trip which I think is unusually good considering the load we carried and the roads covered.

The car has given us perfect performance and I am well pleased and proud of my new car.

Yours very truly
A. R. Stout

FOREIGN LEGION AIDS REBELS' MADRID PUSH

Swarthy veterans of many campaigns in Morocco, these Spanish foreign legionnaires, now fighting on the Spanish mainland in the rebel army under Gen. Francisco Franco, are seen bringing in prisoners captured in attacks on government forces near Seville. Franco has depended heavily on these soldiers, who are deadly snipers, to help turn the tide of crucial battles in the drive on Madrid. It is a custom of the legionnaires, when they get into the thick of a battle, to discard uniform coats and fight naked from the waist up, exposing wildly tattooed arms and chests.

5:15—Bathing beauty contest.
5:30—Swimming.

Much interest has been shown during the past week in the tournaments on our playgrounds. These contests were held to determine who would be entered in the junior Olympics to compete against the champions of other playgrounds.

The junior Olympics were held Friday, August 21, at Barkdull Faulk.

The day was a big success and a good time had by each and every one who attended.

"All good things must come to an end." This seems to be true concerning the playgrounds, which will close August 20. The boys and girls who have been attending the playground and taking part in the many activities do not give this date, August 28 a very cordial welcome.

It is necessary to close because of school starting soon and the time will be occupied with the preparation for school.

Each playground has planned a special program for the closing day of the playground season.

The afternoon playground at Atkinson has made plans for a treasure hunt and a picnic.

REPORT GIVEN

JONESBORO, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—A report of George P. Mackey, manager of the Hodge cannery, shows that 92,662 cans of vegetables were canned at that institution this season. Mr. Mackey said the plant will be enlarged next year.

SALES MANAGER WITH FIRM HERE

R. S. Abbott Joins Milner-Fuller Co.; Fred Hartman Also With Concern

R. S. Abbott, of New Orleans, who for the past 20 years has occupied some of the most important positions in the Ford Motor company organization in various parts of the country, is now associated with Milner-Fuller, Inc., in Monroe as sales manager, it was announced Saturday by L. P. Milner.

Mr. Milner also announced that Fred Hartman, of Jackson, has been appointed Lincoln sales representative with Milner-Fuller, Inc.

Mr. Abbott, who has already assumed his duties with the Monroe company, first joined the Ford Motor organization nearly 20 years ago when he was placed in charge of the Ford Motor company at Atlanta, a position he occupied for eight years. He was transferred to Houston as southeastern regional manager, and three years later went to Philadelphia as branch manager and regional manager for the southeastern and eastern divisions. From this post he was promoted in 1931 to Chicago as branch manager, a position only second to that of New York in the Ford Motor group.

Resigning this post, he has been for the last two or three years engaged in organization work in various divisions of the company.

He has come to Monroe to remain permanently, Mr. Milner said. "In Mr. Abbott, we have a great acquisition, one who knows thoroughly every angle of the Ford Motor business.

Mr. Abbott is married, and has one son who is living in New Orleans. Mr. and Mrs. Abbott are making their home in an apartment at Savoy court.

Fred Hartman, Lincoln sales representative, has had an experience of 10 years with the Ford Motor company and other automobile organizations. He is moving here with his family to take up his permanent residence in the city.

HEAD SALES DEPARTMENTS

R. S. Abbott, left, and Fred Hartman, right, have joined the Milner-Fuller, Inc., as heads of the sales departments. Mr. Abbott will serve as sales manager and Mr. Hartman will act as Lincoln sales representative for the company.

GRASS FIRES LAID TO ARID WEATHER

The continued dry spell was indirectly blamed by the fire department as having caused four grass fires Saturday all of which resulted from burning trash which quickly ignited grass that has been dried out by the excessive heat.

The calls were to North Fifth and Hilton streets, Gordon avenue and Forrest street, a lot belonging to the Missouri-Pacific railroad on Pear street and at the 4000 block of DeSiard street. The fires were quickly put out with no damage to property.

Because of the danger resulting from fire the public was cautioned by firemen against burning trash near dry grass, and property owners are asked to see that all trash fires near vacant lots are put out before they leave the vicinity.

A fire said to have started when a tank of cleaning fluid was ignited threatened the plant of the Monroe Steam laundry at 428 South Grand street Saturday morning. The blaze is believed by firemen to have been caused when a lighted match was carelessly thrown near the tank. The fire was quickly brought under control without any damage being reported.

JUDGE COMMENDS JURY AND STATES TRIAL WAS FAIR

one ham-like hand on a chair in front of him, his head drooping slightly.

The jury was out almost an hour, although one member said only one ballot was necessary to decide the case.

The defense filed notice of an appeal to the state supreme court after Judge Phillips denied a motion that the verdict be set aside.

Conviction in the four-day trial came as the swift climax to a day largely devoted to arguments by counsel for and against the negro, who once confessed and then denied that he crept through the hotel's familiar aisles and out to wash blood from his hands in a driving rain after the killing.

The jury agreed with the contention of Solicitor Zeb V. Nettles and prosecuting officers that the confession was valid and conformed to facts known about the crime prior to Moore's arrest. It turned aside the defense contention that the 22-year-old negro confessed only after being subjected to beatings with a rubber hose in his cell.

Judge Phillips praised the jury for its decision and said Moore had received a fair trial. The same view was taken, for the most part, in a statement by the Rev M. L. Breeding, an observer for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who said, however, "There are some few points in the trial that are not quite clear to me.

"We will take the matter up with our main office in New York on helping the appeal of Martin Moore. In the main the procedure was orderly and apparently fair, but there are certain questions in my mind. . . . Our only object in watching the trial was to see that Moore was given a just trial. We are not interested in trying to obstruct justice if he is guilty."

Helen Clevenger was shot and her face battered in her room at the Battery Park hotel about 1 a.m. July 16 while a thunderstorm roared.

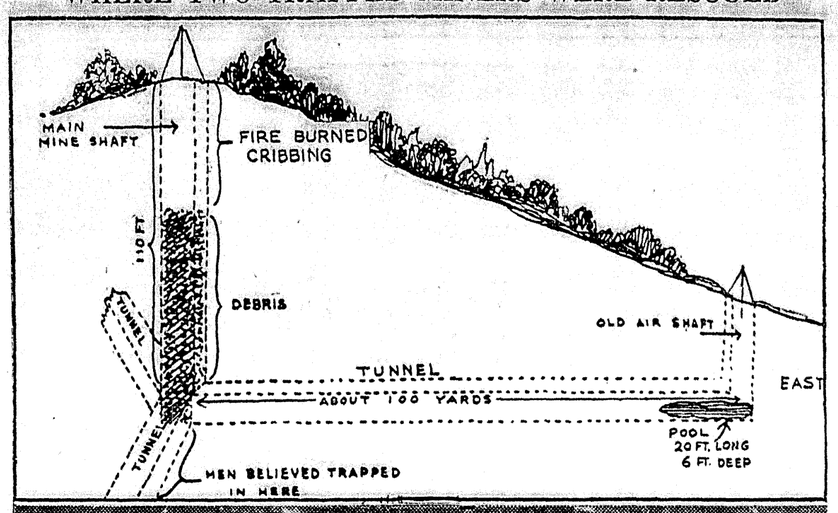
Her body was found at 8:30 a.m. by her uncle, Prof. W. L. Clevenger, of North Carolina State college at Raleigh. She had been traveling with him in this section on what her father, of Staten Island, N. Y., described at the trial as an "educational and recreational" tour.

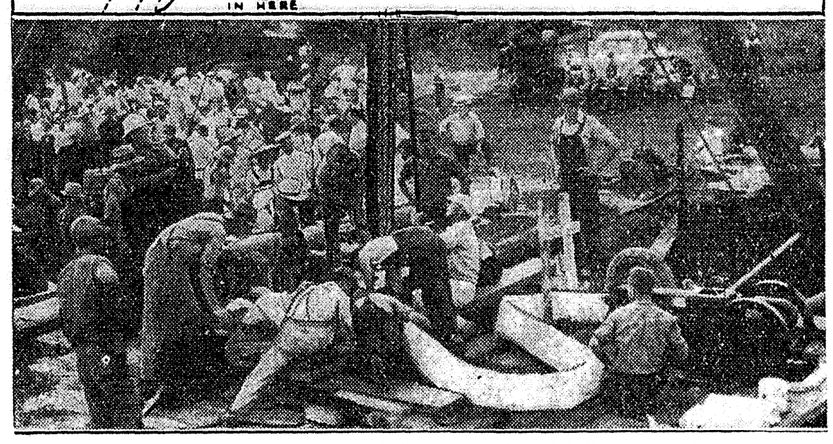
Pajama-clad, she lay, legs crumpled behind her, almost in the door of her room where in the confession he later repudiated, Moore said he left her after killing her in panic when she screamed as he entered her room with the intention of robbing it.

She had been shot through the lung. Her face was mutilated, apparently by the pistol butt. The confession, which Moore later disavowed, said he slugged her with the pistol as she went to her knees, screaming for help, after the shot failed to silence her.

Trampling with the fore feet is the method used most commonly by the elephant in dealing out death to an enemy.

WHERE TWO TRAPPED MINERS WERE RESCUED





Defied by gas and wreckage, rescue workers rushed on relentlessly in their fight to reach four miners entombed in a collapsed mine tunnel near Moberly, Mo. The diagram at top illustrates graphically the efforts being made to save the men. The first attempt was made through the air shaft at right but when this failed workers dug out the debris-clogged main shaft. Below is the scene at the top of the main shaft as a giant hose was pressed into service to pump oxygen to the rescue workers clearing out the debris. When the entombed men were reached two of them were alive but the other two had been dead since a short time after they were trapped. (Associated Press Photo) still to be granted them under the law.

RUSSIANS HEAR CALL FOR DEATH

This procedure automatically robs the state of rebuttal and gives the prisoners the last word in the fantastic case, during which they confessed their plot to substitute a Fascist reign of terror for the Soviet regime in order to restore to power the exiled Leon Trotzky whom the state charged instigated the plot.

The case—one of the strangest in all the history of the Soviet union—likely will be concluded Sunday with the verdict of the three judges expected to be delivered shortly.

When the actual executions demanded by Vishinsky would take place was problematical inasmuch as some witnesses may be needed for subsequent trials, at least two of which have already been assured.

"Murder was the sole plank in their political platform," Vishinsky declared bitterly in his four-hour argument, during which he omitted few epithets in his characterizations of the defendants.

"They planned to walk to power over the corpses of the leaders of this country," he said. "They are mad dogs and must be shot—everyone of them!"

Vishinsky's excoriation, coupled with his demand for firing squads, left little likelihood the accused conspirators would be spared.

If they are shot it will mark a break with the Bolshevik past, for never before has the "old guard" of Bolshevism been faced with a firing squad.

Many died, but in action or in bed. Heretofore unmanageable dissidents like Trotzky were banished.

eclipses the congressional races in general interest.

State Sen. Frank Harper of Hattiesburg, who polled 1,500 votes in a campaign for the senate two years ago, is a third entry.

The senatorial race has drawn two other prominent political figures into the battle, and brought new alignments of factions and figures.

On the side of Senator Harrison is Mississippi's industrial-minded governor, Hugh L. White, pleading for Senator Harrison's reelection as a "prime need" of Mississippi.

In the opposite camp, Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo has denounced his colleague as a "tool of the monied interests," and has stumped the state in an effort to elect Conner, his one-time political foe.

The candidates will close their campaigns with a last minute appeal to the voters Monday.

Dixon confessed to stealing two coats and a fountain pen from an automobile belonging to L. E. Hayden, Jr. One of the coats and the fountain pen were recovered.

The police also traced a suit which had been stolen by Dixon from E. P. Maxwell, who was a boarder at the same house where Dixon was staying.

Dixon is being held in the city jail and will face state charges on larceny counts.

tion the reconstruction of the present black top highway between Grayson and Alexandria.

"Yes, it has," he answered, "It could hardly be otherwise, with all the pressure that is being brought to bear by various communities and property owners along that highway. That road will eventually have to be concreted, but how soon that can be done is hard to say. We will have to determine that matter when we know where the money necessary to do it is to come from."

"The highway department has a big task ahead of it," Mr. Abernathy went on, "and we are trying to work out a program that will extend our roads into every area and give to the people at large the best system in the country. That cannot be done all at once, but we are working toward a definite goal and we are going to see to it that every dollar contributed for highways will be expended for that purpose."

Mr. Abernathy announced that he had appointed Reese Major of Monroe as traveling auditor of the department, with the idea of keeping an accurate check on all highway projects throughout the state. The position is a new one, created by the present chairman of the commission.

Another feature of the highway department's activities under the present administration will be the creation of a group of "floating maintenance crews" to keep graveled roads in first-class condition. The equipment operated by these crews will include a new type seven-ton grader, which will travel from parish to parish, working over the graveled roads. The graders will be worked three in a group, and two or three groups will operate throughout the state. After the "floating crew" as finished its work in a parish, the roads will be left in charge of the state highway crews operating in the parish, which will be expected to keep the roads in a high state of efficiency. The "floating maintenance crews" are expected to be organized and at work by January 1 next.

Mr. Abernathy's visit to Monroe was the first he has made to his home here since his appointment to his present post. His office was thronged with visitors throughout the day.

"I am glad to see my many friends," he said, "and wish I could stay longer. A little later I hope to come and spend several days at home."

He planned to leave this morning for Baton Rouge.

GOVERNOR OLSON, MINNESOTA, DIES

the most advanced of progressive views."

Militant and colorful, he dominated state affairs as governor for six years starting in January, 1931, winning three successive terms. In the eyes of leaders of other parties, he was the personification of the Farmer-Labor organization. His political creed made him thousands of political foes, but many men who fought him in the political arena liked him personally and he was the only Farmer-Labor leader with whom many of the chiefs of other parties would pal.

He often claimed he was a poor politician, because he preferred the direct method of frontal attack in any situation. This was especially exemplified in 1932 when the legislature investigated state highway contracts. The Minnesota supreme court's ruling on one phase of the case prompted Olson to "publicly rebuke" the tribunal in an address which was widely publicized.

As governor, he advocated and signed laws imposing a state income tax, a chain store tax, creating a state highway commission, establishing minimum hours and wages for state highway workers, an old age pension plan, and a mortgage for higher taxes on concentrated wealth and utilities and an unemployment insurance plan.

As the nation's only Farmer-Labor governor, there was talk in 1935 and 1936 that he was a likely third-party presidential candidate. But his ill-health muted this speculation. He had undergone a major operation at the Mayo clinic in Rochester early in 1936, ostensibly for an old ailment, ulcers of the stomach. But though there were denials, the belief persisted that surgeons found him suffering from cancer.

The governor was the son of Paul O. Olson, who migrated to Minneapolis from Norway and became a lumberjack. His mother, Ida Aria Nelson, was a native of Sweden. Floyd Bjornstjerne Olson was born to them November 13, 1891. The father, an admirer of the great Norwegian poet, Bjornson, selected the middle name. The mother demanded her son be given a "strictly American" name and chose Floyd.

The family was poor and young Olson sold newspapers, labored through vacations beside his father in a lumber yard and worked his way through high school by ushering in an old nickelodeon. There he met Ada Drejcem. They were married in 1917.

Meantime, Olson had wandered up into Canada and on to Alaska in search of gold. He came back to Minneapolis, got through the Northwestern college of law and was admitted to the bar in 1915. As junior member of a law firm which defended James A. Peteson, Minneapolis attorney, in a World war sedition trial, Olson said he decided to become a "left-winger" when he heard the verdict convicting Peterson for writing a book which contended that the war was a conflict for profit.

HYDE PARK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt notified tonight of the death of Governor Olson of Minnesota, said the nation had lost "a personality of singular force and courage."

His statement follows:

"The nation has lost a personality of singular force and courage in the death of Governor Olson. Year by year since he assumed the governorship of a great commonwealth he had become a more massive figure in our national life. He had unbounded faith in the wisdom and the honesty of the common man. As a public official he never shirked the responsibilities of office nor compromised with the truth as he saw it."

The president also sent a personal message of condolence to Mrs. Olson.

Had he been president of a railroad, doing other work important to the country he would have been expected to retire, long since.

It is fortunate that the writers of the constitution realized the value of mature wisdom, that more than offsets the physical weakness of old age. Benjamin Franklin who was 70 when he signed the Declaration of Independence, was about 80 when the constitution was adopted.

ADDRESSING 300,000 followers, and wildly applauded, Hitler said: "Germany is equal to any nation on earth." It may be true, although everything about the next war is uncertain; some genius of the air might settle the fight quickly. Discipline and courage, on the ground might make little difference.

AND HITLER'S problem, like the Kaiser's in 1914, might not be "equality with any nation," but with a COLLECTION of nations.

Today, with airplanes, any nation might invade the heart of any other nation within a few hours. No prediction is safe except that, win or lose, the war would not pay.

MUSSOLINI immediately after his conquest, instructed Marshal Badoglio to decree freedom for all slaves in Ethiopian territory, under Italian control.

Slavery existed throughout Ethiopia, in all regions controlled by Haile Selassie, including Addis Ababa, and it was an unpleasant slavery; "Owners had an almost unquestioned power of life and death over their slaves. Upon the latter the grossest inhumanities were often inflicted."

To end that kind of slavery should help offset the use of machine guns and poison gas, choicest weapons of the white race.

Spanish belligerents if other European powers would promise to do the same.

Great Britain was the first to declare an absolute arms embargo.

France is the proponent of the neutrality plan.

Within war-torn Spain herself Fascist rebel forces pushed on toward Madrid, fighting, their leaders said, to capture the government capital "within a short time."

The insurgent forces tonight were consolidating newly won positions on the outskirts of Toledo, only 30 miles south of Madrid, preparatory to launching a final assault which they hoped would carry the government defenders of Toledo before them, leaving a virtually unimpeded route to Madrid.

The rebel warship Espana late in the day resumed its bombardment of the Irun-San Sebastian sector.

An aerial battle between government and rebel planes over Tuesca was reported, with no casualties. The government planes, it was reported, chased the rebel airmen back toward Zaragosa.

The United States reaffirmed officially its policy of stringent neutrality with a "moral" arms embargo.

one ham-like hand on a chair in front of him, his head drooping slightly.

The jury was out almost an hour, although one member said only one ballot was necessary to decide the case.

The defense filed notice of an appeal to the state supreme court after Judge Phillips denied a motion that the verdict be set aside.

Conviction in the four-day trial came as the swift climax to a day largely devoted to arguments by counsel for and against the negro, who once confessed and then denied that he crept through the hotel's familiar aisles and out to wash blood from his hands in a driving rain after the killing.

The jury agreed with the contention of Solicitor Zeb V. Nettles and prosecuting officers that the confession was valid and conformed to facts known about the crime prior to Moore's arrest. It turned aside the defense contention that the 22-year-old negro confessed only after being subjected to beatings with a rubber hose in his cell.

Judge Phillips praised the jury for its decision and said Moore had received a fair trial. The same view was taken, for the most part, in a statement by the Rev. M. L. Breeding, an observer for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who said, however, "There are some few points in the trial that are not quite clear to me.

"We will take the matter up with our main office in New York on helping the appeal of Martin Moore. In the main the procedure was orderly and apparently fair, but there are certain questions in my mind. . . . Our only object in watching the trial was to see that Moore was given a just trial. We are not interested in trying to obstruct justice if he is guilty."

Helen Clevenger was shot and her face battered in her room at the Battery Park hotel about 1 a.m. July 16 while a thunderstorm roared.

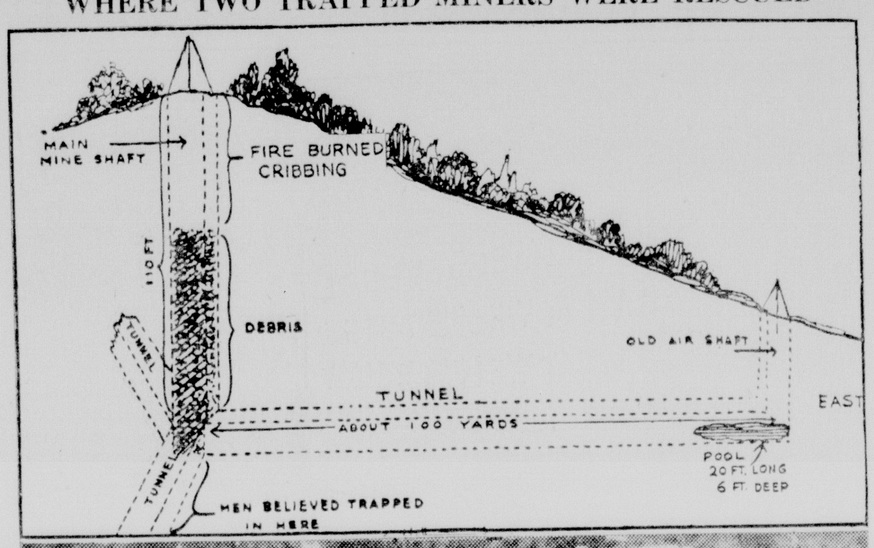
Her body was found at 8:30 a.m. by her uncle, Prof. W. L. Clevenger, of North Carolina State college at Raleigh. She had been traveling with him in this section on what her father, of Staten Island, N. Y., described at the trial as an "educational and recreational" tour.

Pajama-clad, she lay, legs crumpled behind her, almost in the door of her room where in the confession he later repudiated, Moore said he left her after killing her in panic when she screamed as he entered her room with the intention of robbing it.

She had been shot through the lung. Her face was mutilated, apparently by the pistol butt. The confession, which Moore later disavowed, said he slugged her with the pistol as she went to her knees, screaming for help, after the shot failed to silence her.

Trampling with the fore feet is the method used most commonly by the elephant in dealing out death to an enemy.

WHERE TWO TRAPPED MINERS WERE RESCUED



Defied by gas and wreckage, rescue workers rushed on relentlessly in their fight to reach four miners entombed in a collapsed mine tunnel near Moberly, Mo. The diagram at top illustrates graphically the efforts being made to save the men. The first attempt was made through the air shaft at right but when this failed workers dug out the debris-clogged main shaft. Below is the scene at the top of the main shaft as a giant hose was pressed into service to pump oxygen to the rescue workers clearing out the debris. When the entombed men were reached two of them were alive but the other two had been dead since a short time after they were trapped. (Associated Press Photo) still to be granted them under the law.

This procedure automatically robs the state of rebuttal and gives the prisoners the last word in the fantastic case, during which they confessed their plot to substitute a Fascist reign of terror for the Soviet regime in order to restore to power the exiled Leon Trotzky whom the state charged instigated the plot.

The case—one of the strangest in all the history of the Soviet union—likely will be concluded Sunday with the verdict of the three judges expected to be delivered shortly.

When the actual executions demanded by Vishinsky would take place was problematical inasmuch as some witnesses may be needed for subsequent trials, at least two of which have already been assured.

"Murder was the sole plank in their political platform," Vishinsky declared bitterly in his four-hour argument, during which he omitted few epithets in his characterizations of the defendants.

"They planned to walk to power over the corpses of the leaders of this country," he said. "They are mad dogs and must be shot—everyone of them!"

Vishinsky's excoriation, coupled with his demand for firing squads, left little likelihood the accused conspirators would be spared.

If they are shot it will mark a break with the Bolshevik past, for never before has the "old guard" of Bolshevism been faced with a firing squad.

Many died, but in action or in bed. Heretofore unmanageable dissidents like Trotzky were banished.

eclipses the congressional races in general interest.

State Sen. Frank Harper of Hattiesburg, who polled 1,500 votes in a campaign for the senate two years ago, is a third entry.

The senatorial race has drawn two other prominent political figures into the battle, and brought new alignments of factions and figures.

On the side of Senator Harrison is Mississippi's industrial-minded governor, Hugh L. White, pleading for Senator Harrison's reelection as a "prime need" of Mississippi.

In the opposite camp, Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo has denounced his colleague as a "tool of the monied interests," and has stumped the state in an effort to elect Conner, his one-time political foe.

The candidates will close their campaigns with a last minute appeal to the voters Monday.

Dixon confessed to stealing two coats and a fountain pen from an automobile belonging to L. E. Hayden, Jr. One of the coats and the fountain pen were recovered.

The police also traced a suit which had been stolen by Dixon from E. P. Maxwell, who was a boarder at the same house where Dixon was staying.

Dixon is being held in the city jail and will face state charges on larceny counts.

tion the reconstruction of the present black top highway between Grayson and Alexandria.

"Yes, it has," he answered. "It could hardly be otherwise, with all the pressure that is being brought to bear by various communities and property owners along that highway. That road will eventually have to be concreted, but how soon that can be done is hard to say. We will have to determine that matter when we know where the money necessary to do it is to come from."

"The highway department has a big task ahead of it," Mr. Abernathy went on, "and we are trying to work out a program that will extend our roads into every area and give to the people at large the best system in the country. That cannot be done all at once, but we are working toward a definite goal and we are going to see to it that every dollar contributed for highways will be expended for that purpose."

Mr. Abernathy announced that he had appointed Reese Major of Monroe as traveling auditor of the department, with the idea of keeping an accurate check on all highway projects throughout the state. The position is a new one, created by the present chairman of the commission.

Another feature of the highway department's activities under the present administration will be the creation of a group of "floating maintenance crews" to keep graveled roads in first-class condition. The equipment operated by these crews will include a new type seven-ton grader, which will travel from parish to parish, working over the graveled roads. The graders will be worked three in a group, and two or three groups will operate throughout the state. After the "floating crew" as finished its work in a parish, the roads will be left in charge of the state highway crews operating in the parish, which will be expected to keep the roads in a high state of efficiency. The "floating maintenance crews" are expected to be organized and at work by January 1 next.

Mr. Abernathy's visit to Monroe was the first he has made to his home here since his appointment to his present post. His office was thronged with visitors throughout the day.

"I am glad to see my many friends," he said, "and wish I could stay longer. A little later I hope to come and spend several days at home."

He planned to leave this morning for Baton Rouge.

GOVERNOR OLSON, MINNESOTA, DIES

the most advanced of progressive views."

Militant and colorful, he dominated state affairs as governor for six years starting in January, 1931, winning three successive terms. In the eyes of leaders of other parties, he was the personification of the Farmer-Labor organization. His political creed made him thousands of political foes, but many men who fought him in the political arena liked him personally and he was the only Farmer-Labor leader with whom many of the chiefs of other parties would pal.

He often claimed he was a poor politician, because he preferred the direct method of frontal attack in any situation. This was especially exemplified in 1932 when the legislature investigated state highway contracts. The Minnesota supreme court's ruling on one phase of the case prompted Olson to "publicly rebuke" the tribunal in an address which was widely publicized.

As governor, he advocated and signed laws imposing a state income tax, a chain store tax, creating a state highway commission, establishing minimum hours and wages for state highway workers, an old age pension plan, and a mortgage for higher taxes on concentrated wealth and utilities and an unemployment insurance plan.

As the nation's only Farmer-Labor governor, there was talk in 1935 and 1936 that he was a likely third-party presidential candidate. But his ill-health muted this speculation. He had undergone a major operation at the Mayo clinic in Rochester early in 1936, ostensibly for an old ailment, ulcers of the stomach. But though there were denials, the belief persisted that surgeons found him suffering from cancer.

The governor was the son of Paul O. Olson, who migrated to Minneapolis from Norway and became a lumberjack. His mother, Ida Aria Nelson, was a native of Sweden. Floyd Bjornstjerne Olson was born to them November 13, 1891. The father, an admirer of the great Norwegian poet, Bjornson, selected the middle name. The mother demanded her son be given a "strictly American" name and chose Floyd.

The family was poor and young Olson sold newspapers, labored through vacations beside his father in a lumber yard and worked his way through high school by ushering in an old nickelodeon. There he met Ada Drejcem. They were married in 1917.

Meantime, Olson had wandered up into Canada and on to Alaska in search of gold. He came back to Minneapolis, got through the Northwestern college of law and was admitted to the bar in 1915. As junior member of a law firm which defended James A. Peteson, Minneapolis attorney, in a World war sedition trial, Olson said he decided to become a "left-winger" when he heard the verdict convicting Peterson for writing a book which contended that the war was a conflict for profit.

HYDE PARK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt notified tonight of the death of Governor Olson of Minnesota, said the nation had lost "a personality of singular force and courage."

His statement follows:

"The nation has lost a personality of singular force and courage in the death of Governor Olson. Year by year since he assumed the governorship of a great commonwealth he had become a more massive figure in our national life. He had unbounded faith in the wisdom and the honesty of the common man. As a public official he never shirked the responsibilities of office nor compromised with the truth as he saw it."

The president also sent a personal message of condolence to Mrs. Olson.

Importance Of Little Things

"I get so tried of doing the same little old things," a woman complained. "I can do them so easily by this time, I can do them in my sleep. But I want to be doing the big things, not just my little part. I never get any credit for that."

Her ambition was fine. It was an incentive and stimulation to her. She was young enough to have a blessed confidence in herself, and not the slightest doubt that she could do the big things all by herself. But she overlooked an important fact. Even granting her ability to do as she dreamed, there are precious few big things that are ever accomplished by anyone alone. That is practically an impossibility. They are always made up of the innumerable smaller or disassociated efforts of a number of people, each doing that small part as well as he can, so that the big thing as a whole can become cumulative and grow to be a big thing.

The mistake of the young woman is one that most human beings make. They only see the big thing, the accomplished fact. They never take into consideration all the little things, behind the scenes, that have gone into making up the whole. Even so simple a thing as making a dress, or building a toy, has to be begin with someone's vision, with the drafting of the pattern, or the model, before it can even be started on the way to production. A score of operations have to be followed, many of them almost trival, but each with its own importance in the finished scheme. It seems simple and easy when it's all done, but there have been a good many unacclaimed fingers in the pie, which, if absent, would have made completion impossible.

The whole depends entirely upon the care given to each little part done. Nothing grows of itself, and a lack in any of the steps necessary, can easily make a failure instead of a success. Even the living of life is a day by day affair, and it can be a grand whole, or spoiled just by a failure somewhere along the line to do some little thing well, which has threatened it entirely.

So don't despise the little hum-drum things that may seem dull and uninteresting for you to have to do. Don't decry an eventual ability to do them easily and well because you have done them so often. They are just as important to the finished whole, whatever it may be, as any part of the thing itself. If you let weariness, boredom, or discouragement trick you into doing a sloppy job, you'll soon find out how that one weak place has affected everything else, and how really important you were. Big things are merely an accumulation of small things welded together, and built soundly by a number of little things well done.

THIS IS DEMOCRACY

No one can tune in very long on the current presidential campaign without developing a pretty good case of distrust of the professional name-callers. With the campaign still in its early stages, candidates seem to have gone at one another tooth and nail, and there seems to be no limit or let-up to the battle. It's just a good old American custom, that's all.

Nobody is rebuked for his campaign utterances. There may be a few proprietary restrictions on the freedom of speech and of the press, but fundamentally the campaign goes along with the throttle wide open.

You may not like the name-calling, but it's democracy in the raw. And you have the inherent right to do a little calling of your own. That's a privilege not to be sniffed at in these days of totalitarian states.

TRANS-ARCTIC AIRLINE

One thing bothered Russian Airmen Sigismund Levanevsky and Victor Levchenko as they took off from Los Angeles on the first leg of their trans-Arctic flight to Moscow. They feared the weather wouldn't be bad enough.

Assigned by the Soviet to chart the course of a proposed Moscow-American airmail and passenger line, these two flyers were wholly sincere when they told reporters, "We're out to find the worst weather the Arctic can produce."

They wanted, they explained, to test the worst conditions of the route for the "future guidance" of aviation.

Thus, it appears, the day of the trans-Arctic flight is not far distant. Aviation stops at no frontier.

SAVING A CITY'S YOUTH

Henceforth, New York's wayward children are going to be pals of the policemen. It's all part of Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine's new program aiming at prevention of juvenile delinquency.

To do this, organized play groups are being planned and athletic contests will be held, with the bluecoats always on hand as "reg'lar" pals instead of dreaded bugaboos. Thus does Commissioner Valentine hope to swing the problem child into the right path, automatically killing the crime germ in embryo.

Ancient Blood Lust

By BRUCE CATTON

If all Americans were to be judged by the kind of bizarre, blood-thirsty crowds that have been congregating at the scenes of major crimes and public executions, we certainly would classify as a morbidly murderous sort of people.

For a time it appeared that we had reached an all-time low in the Hauptmann case. The public's behavior in New Jersey the night Bruno Richard Hauptmann paid his price for the murder of the Lindbergh baby resembled nothing more closely than the torchlight frivolity of the old-time political rally. But that, apparently, wasn't our worst.

It seems now that Americans reached their goriest height (or depth) the other day down in Owensboro, Ky., where, amidst the overtones of carnival merry-making, 15,000 people saw a 22-year-old negro plunge to his death from the gallows for the murder of a 70-year-old woman.

Surely the most sanguinary of the Roman holidays couldn't have eclipsed this scene. Wrote United Press eye-witnesser, Frank Leary:

"The crowd was in a holiday mood. Only a moment before the arrival of the negro from Louisville, vendors of hot dogs and lemonade shouted their wares. In some of Owensboro's homes all night 'hanging parties' were in progress, beer and sandwiches the refreshments. . . . Through the night the crowd had swarmed the streets. . . . But it was not ill-natured or violent. It appeared to be enjoying a 'hangman's holiday.'"

Then came the execution. Continues Leary:

"The crowd, pressing tightly around the gallows, was not disorderly, but only out for a good time. Fifty per cent of them were from out of town—sensation seekers from Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky. Many children, including young babies, were carried on the shoulders of parents who had stayed up all night."

After the trap was sprung, a few in the group, swarming over the execution scene, tried to seize the black death cap. Deputy sheriffs, however, held back the souvenir hunters. The show was over!"

Here was a spectacle to shock the nation. It was the sort of aboriginal affair, carried out by a few thousands, that casts irreparable reflection on the entire country.

NEW YORK Day by Day by O. O. McIntyre

My trouping friend of the Ohio river show boats, Billy Bryant, has turned out an autobiographical book about his experiences in theatricals along the mud flats. He calls it, appropriately enough, "Children of Ol' Man River," for the Bryants are truly that.

Although born in Brooklyn, the Bryants had their genesis in the old time western medicine show and finally drifted into show boating at a town four miles from Gallipolis, O.—Pt. Pleasant, W. Va.

They are somewhat a tradition along the levee towns of the Ohio. They come seasonally like spring rains and winter freeze-overs. For 30 years they have drifted lazily up and down the Ohio and Mississippi and are welcomed like old friends.

Billy Bryant's company includes his father and mother, his sister Josephine, his wife and their young daughter. All appear in the melodramas they present—tear jerkers such as East Lynne, Ten Nights in a Barroom and The Fast Mail. And each does an olio turn.

The family life of the show boat folk is closely knit. They are in a way clannish and rarely separate. The consideration among them is something heartening, a gesture that seems often to have vanished from a higher speed civilization.

Billy Bryant is a sentimentalist, but without illusions. He presents his tawdry plays with a tongue in his cheek. Once he dreamed of being a great actor himself—and he is far from being a "ham"—but in the end he went back to Ol' Man River, where he will end his days. Billy goes to Gallipolis every year in his river season, always goes around to my home and reports to me by postcard how things are. The town, as all towns he visits, likes him.

I know many actors but none who believes so firmly in the fine things of life, the happy home, the stern duties of parenthood, the responsibilities of being a good son and a serene faith in the Bible and its promises. If you have ever lived along the river you will enjoy his book. It is simply but at times poignantly written. There are heart breaks in show boating.

No one is a heftier fan of George M. Cohan than this commentator, but evidently his appeal is not universal. I notice a writer in Liberty fears time will lay a cold and clammy hand on Cohan's contributions to the stage, bracketing him with Corse Payton and T. Daniel Frawley because of his flair for writing anachronistic comedies and songs that dazzle by virtue of the incongruous.

And in the mail the other day came this letter from an astute and modern historian—which does not sway me—but makes an interesting subject controversial. Said he:

"I have aways remained unshaken in my belief that Cohan's success has been meretricious. His comedies of the past few years have been flops because they have been fakes. Th audience doesn't know whether to take them as literal or allegorical; philosophic or merely humorous.

"The reason is that Georgie doesn't probably know himself. Figuratively speaking, he has gathered, during his long theatrical career, a collection of drama ingredients for all the world like the rows of bottles behind a bartender.

"He puts in a jigger of this, a pony of that and a dash of something else and calls it a play. Lacking sincerity, such concoctions fail. Again he has substituted mere speed of movement and volume of output for soldier values. If you can bear it, compare one of these Cohan offerings with S. M. Behrman's "End of Summer." Too bad you, who admire him so, and I who hold no grievance but merely think him a showman more than an actor and playwright cannot live long enough to see how posterity will evaluate Cohan. I believe that as a playwright and actor he will be regarded as a first class hoofer, rating top billing at the old Palace."

Variety reports all the American orchestras as doing quite well with London engagements this summer. For some time it was a little bit of whatho to give American entertainers the bird. But so many of their own were coming over to America to receive unusually enthusiastic receptions that Britain began to feel a trifle ashamed and to touch off a little hands across the sea stuff.

The medical profession is in an upset about the increase of suits for malpractice during the past few years—an increase that is alarming. It is a variant of the old heart balm racket and of course merely a shakedown of blackmailing shysters. But it has often spoiled a promising career. So much so that a battle front among the medicos is being organized.

The police have been making their seasonal flight on bad mannered dogs around town. Well enough, too, for many owners are careless. Yet in my own neighborhood I cannot help but reflect that in the zeal to rebuke dogs and their owners there are several clip joints that get away with almost everything but murder—and perhaps a little of that for all the public knows—and nothing is done about it.

The Roanoke Times, in an office upset, left out this column for two days recently. Then they ran an editorial saying the protests were the loudest they ever heard. It seems to me every one of their subscribers has sent me that editorial and this is—to repeat a favorite Major Bowes solecism—to thank them each and every one.

The business of selling flowers and flower seeds began in New York City, in 1802, Grant Thorburn, a nailmaker, lost his job, and, when neighbors admired his wife's geraniums, conceived the idea of selling potted plants.

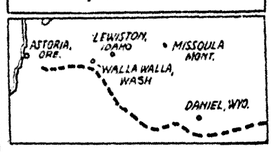
First section of the world's largest irrigation project, which eventually will provide water for 5,000,000 acres of land through 6400 miles of canals, has been in service in India since 1932.

Beer glasses should never be washed in soapy water, according to "bar etiquette." They should be dipped in very hot water, then in cold, and beer should never be drawn in a dry glass.

If the hydrogen in a teaspoonful of water is converted into helium, about 100,000 kilowatt hours of energy, or $10,000 worth of electrical current, is set free.

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein



LATE word from Washington is that the new Oregon territory centennial stamp will go on first day sale July 14. The stamp will be 3 cents in value and will be the size of the current special delivery stamp. First day sales will be held only in Lewiston, Idaho; Astoria, Ore.; Missoula, Mont.; Walla Walla, Wash., and Daniel, Wyo.

The central design will be an outline map of the old Oregon territory, which now comprises Idaho, Oregon, and Washington, and parts of Montana and Wyoming. The map will show the old Oregon Trail and historic points in this territory where first day sales will be made.

First day covers may be sent to postmasters at each of the cities mentioned, accompanied by postal money orders covering the cost of the stamps required. Not more than 10 covers may be sent to each postoffice.

The Washington Airmail Society has led a movement requesting the Postoffice Department to include a new 6-cent airmail stamp in its proposed army and navy series.

• • •

The army and navy set, by the way, will be delayed somewhat in production. First issue is not expected until about the middle of August.

Looking ahead to 1938, a special commission is planning a request for a stamp commemorating the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg.

• • •

Your Health

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

(Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

Cataracts of the eyes develop in so many different ways, and are so confusing to the average person, that the condition has been exploited by quacks.

Specialists in diseases of the eyes, however, are convinced that there is no cure for cataract by treatment with drops in the eye, or by use of injections into the body, or by any other easy method. Only actual removal of the cataract by surgical operation after it has developed is seen as a cure.

A cataract is any opacity of the lens of the eye or of its capsule. Obviously, this interferes with vision.

Specialists classify cataracts according to the portion of the eye which is concerned; the consistency of the cataract, whether hard, soft or fluid; the extent of its development; whether partial, complete, stationary, or progressive; and finally, whether it is the kind of cataract that occurs in most old people as they get well along in years.

When cataracts develop in people under 35 years of age, the cataracts, usually are soft. In older people, there develops a form known as senile cataract.

This is a degenerative condition, the cause of which is not known. It is quite common after 50 years of age, although occasionally it may be seen in younger people.

Both eyes almost always are involved when cataracts are present. Usually one develops before the other.

Sometimes cataracts develop fully in a few months. In many cases years are required for complete development. In many instances a cataract will become stationary.

Doctors find that the correction of errors of refraction by the use of suitable eyeglasses is important for treatment in the incipient or early stages. Sometimes the sight can be improved by wearing smoked glasses, which aid in dilating the pupil of the eye, permitting more light to enter.

There are isolated instances in which cataracts have shown spontaneous improvement.

There seems to be some evidences that a person's nutrition plays a considerable part in control of a developing cataract.

Sometimes people with cataract feel better if certain drops of local anesthetics, or similar substances, are placed in the eye at fairly frequent intervals. However, there does not seem to be any certainty that such method really helps.

Hence, anyone with a cataract should get immediate advice of a competent specialist in diseases of the eye. The physician will carefully watch the growth and development of the cataract and will, at the proper time, arrange for its removal.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—As the extent of the drouth disaster begins to be realized, it becomes increasingly likely that we will hear more and more about crop insurance.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace has been promoting the idea. There is also at least a hint that Gov. Alf Landon has been studying it, with a view to a possible pronouncement later.

Both the Hoover and Roosevelt administrations have established farm relief programs and neither program has proved satisfactory.

The old federal farm board is a sad memory. The AAA crop control programs have been messed up by drouth and the supreme court, even assuming they were otherwise sound.

No one knows how the current soil conservation program will turn out, but it is obvious enough that farmers need some protection against the ravages of nature and that it may be good political medicine to propose some such plan for them.

Furthermore, the "ever-normal granary" plan, which Wallace suggests should be combined with any system of crop insurance, presumably would also serve to protect consumers from violent fluctuations in food prices such as occurred in the case of meat last year and will soon be repeated.

Collect Valuable Data

AAA officials are working on plans for crop insurance covering all possible risks to wheat. Regardless of whether a New Deal or a Republican administration decides that a federal system of insurance is a good thing, the records of the AAA will prove invaluable in determining the extent to which the system would be feasible.

These records cover individual farms for six years and although they cover only farmers who participated in AAA programs and the period is about the worst that American agriculture has ever had, there was no prior data on which an actuarial study might be made.

Great areas are likely to produce practically nothing in very dry years and bumper crops in years of heavy rainfall. The succession of drouth years, 1930, 1934 and 1936, however, has struck many of the best farming sections.

Jardine Cited Snags

Even in 1928, Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardine was reporting that every year thousands of beginners in farming and farmers with heavy interest charges to meet "are economically ruined or seriously crippled in their future production programs by reason of unexpected failure or destruction of their growing crops."

At the same time, Jardine pointed out some difficulties in the way of a crop insurance system. A uniform-rate plan, or even an approach to it, he said, would result in discrimination against the better farming sections and would unduly encourage bringing more submarginal land into production.

Complaints from localities where insurance premiums were high because of severe crop hazards would be likely to lead to dangerous political pressure for rate revision. It would also be difficult to make sure that policy holders lived up to requisite conditions.

Foggy on Premium Rates

One proposal suggested at AAA would insure the farmer for up to 75 per cent of his crop. Ideas about how to fix the premium rate seem rather hazy thus far. One plan would determine the average annual crop deficiency over a six-year period and then work out a similar average for the individual farm.

A rate would be worked out on the basis of each average and then the two rates would be averaged together to compute the premium rate to the acre.

Officials seem to favor collecting premiums in the form of grain rather than in cash and collecting them only in years of excess production. This would both draw off surplus from the market and build up the "ever-normal granary," which would be simply a system of holding grain in storage against lean years.

Importance Of Little Things

"I get so tried of doing the same little old things," a woman complained. "I can do them so easily by this time, I can do them in my sleep. But I want to be doing the big things, not just my little part. I never get any credit for that."

Her ambition was fine. It was an incentive and stimulation to her. She was young enough to have a blessed confidence in herself, and not the slightest doubt that she could do the big things all by herself. But she overlooked an important fact. Even granting her ability to do as she dreamed, there are precious few big things that are ever accomplished by anyone alone. That is practically an impossibility. They are always made up of the innumerable smaller or disassociated efforts of a number of people, each doing that small part as well as he can, so that the big thing as a whole can become cumulative and grow to be a big thing.

The mistake of the young woman is one that most human beings make. They only see the big thing, the accomplished fact. They never take into consideration all the little things, behind the scenes, that have gone into making up the whole. Even so simple a thing as making a dress, or building a toy, has to be begin with someone's vision, with the drafting of the pattern, or the model, before it can even be started on the way to production. A score of operations have to be followed, many of them almost trival, but each with its own importance in the finished scheme. It seems simple and easy when it's all done, but there have been a good many unacclaimed fingers in the pie, which, if absent, would have made completion impossible.

The whole depends entirely upon the care given to each little part done. Nothing grows of itself, and a lack in any of the steps necessary, can easily make a failure instead of a success. Even the living of life is a day by day affair, and it can be a grand whole, or spoiled just by a failure somewhere along the line to do some little thing well, which has threatened it entirely.

They are somewhat a tradition along the levee towns of the Ohio. They come seasonally like spring rains and winter freeze-overs. For 30 years they have drifted lazily up and down the Ohio and Mississippi and are welcomed like old friends.

Billy Bryant's company includes his father and mother, his sister Josephine, his wife and their young daughter. All appear in the melodramas they present—tear jerkers such as East Lynne, Ten Nights in a Barroom and The Fast Mail. And each does an olio turn.

The family life of the show boat folk is closely knit. They are in a way clannish and rarely separate. The consideration among them is something heartening, a gesture that seems often to have vanished from a higher speed civilization.

Billy Bryant is a sentimentalist, but without illusions. He presents his tawdry plays with a tongue in his cheek. Once he dreamed of being a great actor himself—and he is far from being a "ham"—but in the end he went back to Ol' Man River, where he will end his days. Billy goes to Gallipolis every year in his river season, always goes around to my home and reports to me by postcard how things are. The town, as all towns he visits, likes him.

I know many actors but none who believes so firmly in the fine things of life, the happy home, the stern duties of parenthood, the responsibilities of being a good son and a serene faith in the Bible and its promises. If you have ever lived along the river you will enjoy his book. It is simply but at times poignantly written. There are heart breaks in show boating.

No one is a heftier fan of George M. Cohan than this commentator, but evidently his appeal is not universal. I notice a writer in Liberty fears time will lay a cold and clammy hand on Cohan's contributions to the stage, bracketing him with Corse Payton and T. Daniel Frawley because of his flair for writing anachronistic comedies and songs that dazzle by virtue of the incongruous.

And in the mail the other day came this letter from an astute and modern historian—which does not sway me—but makes an interesting subject controversial. Said he:

"I have aways remained unshaken in my belief that Cohan's success has been meretricious. His comedies of the past few years have been flops because they have been fakes. Th audience doesn't know whether to take them as literal or allegorical; philosophic or merely humorous.

"The reason is that Georgie doesn't probably know himself. Figuratively speaking, he has gathered, during his long theatrical career, a collection of drama ingredients for all the world like the rows of bottles behind a bartender.

"He puts in a jigger of this, a pony of that and a dash of something else and calls it a play. Lacking incerity, such concoctions fail. Again he has substituted mere speed of movement and volume of output for soldier values. If you can bear it, compare one of these Cohan offerings with S. M. Behrman's "End of Summer." Too bad you, who admire him so, and I who hold no grievance but merely think him a showman more than an actor and playwright cannot live long enough to see how posterity will evaluate Cohan. I believe that as a playwright and actor he will be regarded as a first class hoofer, rating top billing at the old Palace."

Variety reports all the American orchestras as doing quite well with London engagements this summer. For some time it was a little bit of whatho to give American entertainers the bird. But so many of their own were coming over to America to receive unusually enthusiastic receptions that Britain began to feel a trifle ashamed and to touch off a little hands across the sea stuff.

The medical profession is in an upset about the increase of suits for malpractice during the past few years—an increase that is alarming. It is a variant of the old heart balm racket and of course merely a shakedown of blackmailing shysters. But it has often spoiled a promising career. So much so that a battle front among the medicos is being organized.

The police have been making their seasonal flight on bad mannered dogs around town. Well enough, too, for many owners are careless. Yet in my own neighborhood I cannot help but reflect that in the zeal to rebuke dogs and their owners there are several clip joints that get away with almost everything but murder—and perhaps a little of that for all the public knows—and nothing is done about it.

The Roanoke Times, in an office upset, left out this column for two days recently. Then they ran an editorial saying the protests were the loudest they ever heard. It seems to me every one of their subscribers has sent me that editorial and this is—to repeat a favorite Major Bowes solecism—to thank them each and every one.

The business of selling flowers and flower seeds began in New York City, in 1802. Grant Thorburn, a nailmaker, lost his job, and, when neighbors admired his wife's geraniums, conceived the idea of selling potted plants.

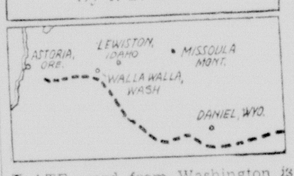
First section of the world's largest irrigation project, which eventually will provide water for 5,000,000 acres of land through 6400 miles of canals, has been in service in India since 1932.

Beer glasses should never be washed in soapy water, according to "bar etiquette." They should be dipped in very hot water, then in cold, and beer should never be drawn in a dry glass.

If the hydrogen in a teaspoonful of water is converted into helium, about 100,000 kilowatt hours of energy, or $10,000 worth of electrical current, is set free.

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein



LATE word from Washington is that the new Oregon territory centennial stamp will go on first day sale July 14. The stamp will be 3 cents in value and will be the size of the current special delivery stamp. First day sales will be held only in Lewiston, Idaho; Astoria, Ore.; Missoula, Mont.; Walla Walla, Wash., and Daniel, Wyo.

The central design will be an outline map of the old Oregon territory, which now comprises Idaho, Oregon, and Washington, and parts of Montana and Wyoming. The map will show the old Oregon Trail and historic points in this territory where first day sales will be made.

First day covers may be sent to postmasters at each of the cities mentioned, accompanied by postal money orders covering the cost of the stamps required. Not more than 10 covers may be sent to each postoffice.

The Washington Airmail Society has led a movement requesting the Postoffice Department to include a new 6-cent airmail stamp in its proposed army and navy series.

The army and navy set, by the way, will be delayed somewhat in production. First issue is not expected until about the middle of August.

Looking ahead to 1938, a special commission is planning a request for a stamp commemorating the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg.

* * *

Your Health

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

(Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

Cataracts of the eyes develop in so many different ways, and are so confusing to the average person, that the condition has been exploited by quacks.

Specialists in diseases of the eyes, however, are convinced that there is no cure for cataract by treatment with drops in the eye, or by use of injections into the body, or by any other easy method. Only actual removal of the cataract by surgical operation after it has developed is seen as a cure.

A cataract is any opacity of the lens of the eye or of its capsule. Obviously, this interferes with vision.

Specialists classify cataracts according to the portion of the eye which is concerned; the consistency of the cataract, whether hard, soft or fluid; the extent of its development; whether partial, complete, stationary, or progressive; and finally, whether it is the kind of cataract that occurs in most old people as they get well along in years.

When cataracts develop in people under 35 years of age, the cataracts, usually are soft. In older people, there develops a form known as senile cataract.

This is a degenerative condition, the cause of which is not known. It is quite common after 50 years of age, although occasionally it may be seen in younger people.

Both eyes almost always are involved when cataracts are present. Usually one develops before the other.

Sometimes cataracts develop fully in a few months. In many cases years are required for complete development. In many instances a cataract will become stationary.

Doctors find that the correction of errors of refraction by the use of suitable eyeglasses is important for treatment in the incipient or early stages. Sometimes the sight can be improved by wearing smoked glasses, which aid in dilating the pupil of the eye, permitting more light to enter.

There are isolated instances in which cataracts have shown spontaneous improvement.

There seems to be some evidences that a person's nutrition plays a considerable part in control of a developing cataract.

Sometimes people with cataract feel better if certain drops of local anesthetics, or similar substances, are placed in the eye at fairly frequent intervals. However, there does not seem to be any certainty that such method really helps.

Hence, anyone with a cataract should get immediate advice of a competent specialist in diseases of the eye. The physician will carefully watch the growth and development of the cataract and will, at the proper time, arrange for its removal.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—As the extent of the drouth disaster begins to be realized, it becomes increasingly likely that we will hear more and more about crop insurance.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace has been promoting the idea. There is also at least a hint that Gov. Alf Landon has been studying it, with a view to a possible pronouncement later.

Both the Hoover and Roosevelt administrations have established farm relief programs and neither program has proved satisfactory.

The old federal farm board is a sad memory. The AAA crop control programs have been messed up by drouth and the supreme court, even assuming they were otherwise sound.

No one knows how the current soil conservation program will turn out, but it is obvious enough that farmers need some protection against the ravages of nature and that it may be good political medicine to propose some such plan for them.

Furthermore, the "ever-normal granary" plan, which Wallace suggests should be combined with any system of crop insurance, presumably would also serve to protect consumers from violent fluctuations in food prices such as occurred in the case of meat last year and will soon be repeated.

Collect Valuable Data

AAA officials are working on plans for crop insurance covering all possible risks to wheat. Regardless of whether a New Deal or a Republican administration decides that a federal system of insurance is a good thing, the records of the AAA will prove invaluable in determining the extent to which the system would be feasible.

These records cover individual farms for six years and although they cover only farmers who participated in AAA programs and the period is about the worst that American agriculture has ever had, there was no prior data on which an actuarial study might be made.

Great areas are likely to produce practically nothing in very dry years and bumper crops in years of heavy rainfall. The succession of drouth years, 1930, 1934 and 1936, however, has struck many of the best farming sections.

Jardine Cited Snags

Even in 1928, Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardine was reporting that every year thousands of beginners in farming and farmers with heavy interest charges to meet "are economically ruined or seriously crippled in their future production programs by reason of unexpected failure or destruction of their growing crops."

At the same time, Jardine pointed out some difficulties in the way of a crop insurance system. A uniform-rate plan, or even an approach to it, he said, would result in discrimination against the better farming sections and would unduly encourage bringing more submarginal land into production.

Complaints from localities where insurance premiums were high because of severe crop hazards would be likely to lead to dangerous political pressure for rate revision. It would also be difficult to make sure that policy holders lived up to requisite conditions.

Foggy on Premium Rates

One proposal suggested at AAA would insure the farmer for up to 75 per cent of his crop. Ideas about how to fix the premium rate seem rather hazy thus far. One plan would determine the average annual crop deficiency over a six-year period and then work out a similar average for the individual farm.

A rate would be worked out on the basis of each average and then the two rates would be averaged together to compute the premium rate to the acre.

Officials seem to favor collecting premiums in the form of grain rather than in cash and collecting them only in years of excess production. This would both draw off surplus from the market and build up the "ever-normal granary," which would be simply a system of holding grain in storage against lean years.

Tension of the grave international situation created by the Spanish revolution was increased by presence of these German warships in Moroccan waters. Loyalists charged that the battleship Deutschland, top photo, steamed between Ceuta forts and an attacking government warship, forcing the latter to cease firing on the rebel defenses. The Admiral Scheer is shown below. Berlin officials disclaimed any aid to the rebels, declaring the ships were on the scene only to protect German nationals.

BUS LINES MAY RUN TO COLLEGE

Plans Being Formulated For Conveying Students Here

Operation of bus lines between Northeast Center and various cities and towns of Northeast Louisiana is being proposed for the coming fall, stated Dean C. C. Colvert Saturday.

J. D. Russell, Jr., superintendent of LaSalle parish schools, is said to be advocating the operation of a bus from Jena, Tullos, Good Pine, Trout, Urania, Olla, Clarks, Grayson, Kelly and Columbia, picking up students all along the route.

It is also proposed to run a bus from Delhi and Rayville if sufficient number so desire, and a bus from Bastrop is said to be a possibility.

It is urged that it is far cheaper for students to live at home and pay bus fare than to be away at college.

Several bus lines to the local college were operated last year with success.

TWO NEGROES HURT IN CAR ACCIDENT

A white man and seven negroes narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when three automobiles collided about four miles east of Monroe on highway 80. Edward Parks, negro, received a broken arm, and Ora Lee Jones, negro woman, suffered minor lacerations about the head and right arm. The white man, a Mr. Montgomery of Collinston, was uninjured.

Harvey Hall, negro, 916 Arkansas avenue, and Walter Collins, employe of the Union Oil mill in West Monroe, were placed in the parish jail charged with reckless driving.

According to witnesses, the Hall negro, with Collins, was driving west. Other passengers in his car were three negro women, Gertie Johnson, Ora Lee Jones and Ophelia Murray, all of 309 Eighth street. His automobile struck the car driven by Edward Parks, who was driving east, then collided with Mr. Montgomery's car, which was following closely behind the Parks negro's motor. A. Hall, negro, was riding with the Parks negro. They reside on Mrs. Mary Phillips' place on Bayou DeSiard.

The accident was investigated by the sheriff's department.

'BETTER HOUSING' BUREAU OPERATED

A "better housing" information bureau has been established at 801 Ouachita bank building by the federal housing administration for the purpose of stimulating activity in the building and allied trades and to assist those who are interested in housing problems, according to an announcement made Saturday.

The office will provide the public with information concerning the procedure to be followed to obtain loans through the federal housing plan and which may be used for repairing and improving property, financing new construction, financing the purchase of homes and refinancing existing construction.

The new information bureau is sponsored by the city of Monroe in cooperation with the WPA in order to speed up the building program in the city.

AUTOS PILFERED

Two instances of automobile pilfering were reported to the police Saturday, when Joe Frangle of Rayville complained that two hand levels, a camera and a metal tape were taken from his car sometime Friday night while it was parked in front of St. Francis sanitarium.

HEAD OF GREECE PICKS SUCCESSOR

Grooming Comparatively Little Known Colonel For Dictatorship

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Greece, which restored King George last winter, recently came under the dictatorship of its premier, General John Metaxas. DeWitt MacKenzie, for 20 years in European service for the Associated Press, tells how the aging Metaxas is reported to be grooming a successor.)

By DeWitt MacKenzie
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—General John Metaxas, Greece's new dictator, is said by highly placed Greeks in this country to be training a comparatively young and little known colonel to succeed to the dictatorship when age compels the 65-year-old general to retire.

Metaxas' choice is stated to have fallen on Col. Theodore Skylakakis, a brilliant and extremely forceful man of about 43, whom the general appointed minister of interior.

This would seem to answer two pressing questions which have been puzzling not only foreign countries but the Hellenes themselves:

Is the dictatorship merely a temporary expedient or does Metaxas intend to perpetuate it?

If the totalitarian rule is to continue, who will take the place of the aging general—about the last of the strong men of the country?

It would seem on the face of it that Metaxas does intend to continue the dictatorship, and he is creating his own strong man to follow in his steps.

Skylakakis is a Spartan—and Sparta through long centuries has been synonymous of strength of character and absolute fearlessness.

He is a man of ideas and great initiative. He distinguished himself as an army officer, and in that stern school of discipline learned the art of commanding others. Now he is being schooled in state craft by his master, who also is his close friend.

Metaxas is said to regard Skylakakis so highly that the latter is the general's right hand.

Skylakakis' views naturally coincide in the main with those of the dictator. The colonel is for a totalitarian state such as Mussolini and Hitler have established. This eliminates Democracy as America knows the term. He is said to be an ardent Fascist.

While Metaxas never has declared openly for any of the political "isms," it is known that he, too, leans strongly toward Fascism. Observers in Greece are wondering whether he intends to form a party similar to Il Duce's Fascist organization.

Most express the belief that the energetic dictator has begun what will be extensive activities designed to win him supporters outside the army, which thus far has stood solidly behind him.

One of his first moves that particularly attracted the attention of the masses was to announce that he would use the salaries of the members of the dissolved parliament—about $450,000 yearly—to establish soup kitchens for the destitute.

Another stroke was the appointment of George Demithratos, who came from the "working class," as undersecretary of state for national economy. This gesture is said to mean a renewed interest by the government in labor, which has been boiling with unrest.

Eros

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Loftin of Rochelle spent the week-end here with relatives.

Mrs. B. C. Williamson and daughter have returned from a visit to Van Buren, Ark., where they were guests of Mrs. A. J. Addis.

Miss Orlean Rogers has returned from Indian Village, where she visited Miss Reba Gaston.

J. M. Bunn and Jesse Gunter have returned from a visit to Hot Springs, Ark., and Dallas, Tex.

Mary Brooks has returned from a visit to St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Eunice Holliway visited relatives in Alexandria during the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Norton White entertained a number of young people in honor of their daughter, Elizabeth, who celebrated her sixth birthday.

Games were played, and ice cream served to the following guests: Daniel, Delbert and Sellue Brockner, Francis and Mary Ethredge, Maxine Elliott, Freddie Jean Morris, Garland Dunn, Katie Love and James Prestidge, Bettye Loe Neil, Eula May and Aldine Smith, Lila May Reece, G. M. Dunn, Edith Boyett, Norton and Elizabeth White.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. D. J. Brockner, Mrs. D. F. Brooks and Mrs. Fred Morris.

Dr. B. C. Land of Winnfield is conducting a revival meeting at the Olla Baptist church. He is assisted by Rev. E. M. Daffin. Herbert Joyner of Alto is song leader, and Miss Bernice Smith is pianist.

Karen Morley, wife of Director Charles Vidor, lives on a cliff estate overlooking the sea, with only one entrance from the land side. When the iron gates are opened, a loud gong rings, dogs bark, and servants are warned.

IMPROVEMENTS AT L. T. I. PROPOSED

Swimming Pool, Gymnasium Among New Features Considered

Dr. Harvey Dillon, superintendent of the Louisiana Training institute, stated Saturday that extensive improvements have been given approval by Gov. Richard W. Leche as a result of a recent visit paid to the institute.

As soon as practicable, the superintendent was given to understand, a swimming pool will be prepared, a gymnasium and other athletic equipment installed, and in all probability a laundry will be erected. Buildings needing repairs will be overhauled.

It is the understanding that the governor, together with the board at the institute and the new superintendent, are working to make the place an outstanding one of its kind.

It is said that an honor system is proposed for installation. Boys will be rewarded for excellence in studies, and the school curriculum broadened and standardized.

The institution, the only one of the kind in Louisiana, has in the past played an important role in training boys to become useful citizens and it is expected that it will serve an even broader purpose when plans that are now in contemplation are carried into execution.

SOLID WALNUT

This beautiful 4-piece solid Walnut Bedroom Suite consisting of: High poster bed, large chest, beautiful vanity and bench; priced as an August Sales Special at only $175

The Katharine Franklin From The Days of The Hermitage and Andrew Jackson!

Prior to that period of American history known as the "gilded age" of the early nineties much of the aristocracy of the land had commissioned cabinet makers to create for them furniture true to the fashion of the time. This trend of design bore marks of the affluence of that period later to be known as the early Victorian.

Only the better examples created during this era have remained as the heirlooms of today. Each piece of this grouping has been copied from those models now in the bedroom of lovely Katharine Franklin, a direct descendant of President Andrew Jackson. The rosebud hand carvings and attractive bead moldings add to each piece an ornamentation of interest and refinement.

No finer cabinet woods could be used than the solid American Walnut. The full beauty of this wood is enhanced by the soft and mellow hand-antiqued patina.

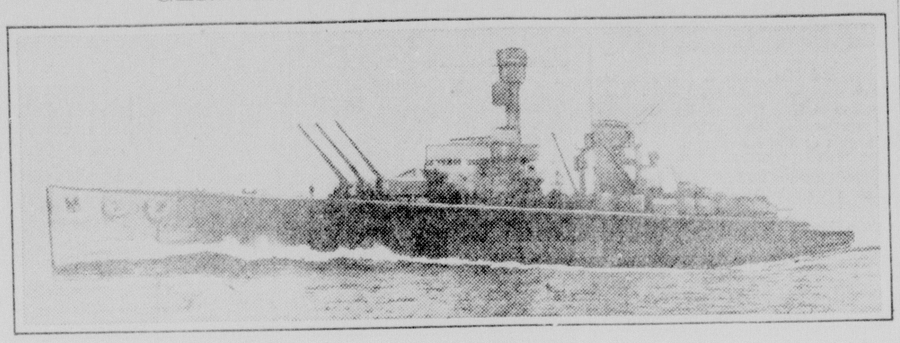
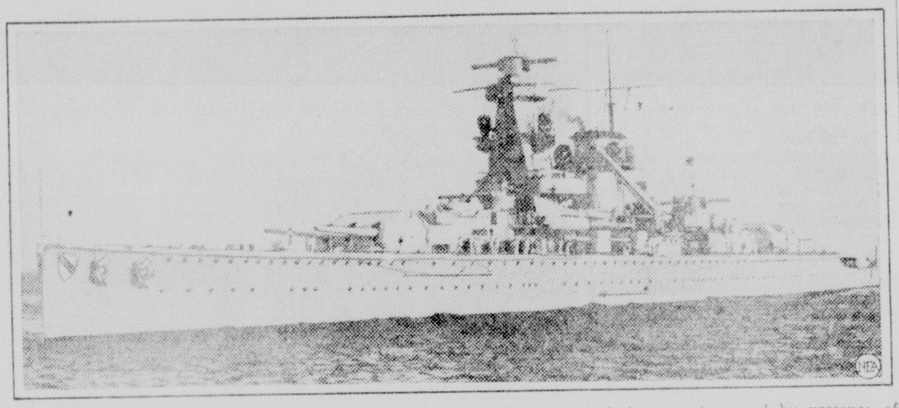
GERMAN WARSHIPS STIR SPAIN'S IRE





Tension of the grave international situation created by the Spanish revolution was increased by presence of these German warships in Moroccan waters. Loyalists charged that the battleship Deutschland, top photo, steamed between Ceuta forts and an attacking government warship, forcing the latter to cease firing on the rebel defenses. The Admiral Scheer is shown below. Berlin officials disclaimed any aid to the rebels, declaring the ships were on the scene only to protect German nationals.

BUS LINES MAY RUN TO COLLEGE

Plans Being Formulated For Conveying Students Here

Operation of bus lines between Northeast Center and various cities and towns of Northeast Louisiana is being proposed for the coming fall, stated Dean C. C. Colvert Saturday.

J. D. Russell, Jr., superintendent of LaSalle parish schools, is said to be advocating the operation of a bus from Jena, Tullos, Good Pine, Trout, Urania, Olla, Clarks, Grayson, Kelly and Columbia, picking up students all along the route.

It is also proposed to run a bus from Delhi and Rayville if sufficient number so desire, and a bus from Bastrop is said to be a possibility.

It is urged that it is far cheaper for students to live at home and pay bus fare than to be away at college.

Several bus lines to the local college were operated last year with success.

TWO NEGROES HURT IN CAR ACCIDENT

A white man and seven negroes narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when three automobiles collided about four miles east of Monroe on highway 80. Edward Parks, negro, received a broken arm, and Ora Lee Jones, negro woman, suffered minor lacerations about the head and right arm. The white man, a Mr. Montgomery of Collinston, was uninjured.

Harvey Hall, negro, 916 Arkansas avenue, and Walter Collins, employe of the Union Oil mill in West Monroe, were placed in the parish jail charged with reckless driving.

According to witnesses, the Hall negro, with Collins, was driving west. Other passengers in his car were three negro women, Gertie Johnson, Ora Lee Jones and Ophelia Murray, all of 309 Eighth street. His automobile struck the car driven by Edward Parks, who was driving east, then collided with Mr. Montgomery's car, which was following closely behind the Parks negro's motor. A. Hall, negro, was riding with the Parks negro. They reside on Mrs. Mary Phillips' place on Bayou DeSiard.

The accident was investigated by the sheriff's department.

'BETTER HOUSING' BUREAU OPERATED

A "better housing" information bureau has been established at 801 Ouachita bank building by the federal housing administration for the purpose of stimulating activity in the building and allied trades and to assist those who are interested in housing problems, according to an announcement made Saturday.

The office will provide the public with information concerning the procedure to be followed to obtain loans through the federal housing plan and which may be used for repairing and improving property, financing new construction, financing the purchase of homes and refinancing existing construction.

The new information bureau is sponsored by the city of Monroe in cooperation with the WPA in order to speed up the building program in the city.

HEAD OF GREECE PICKS SUCCESSOR

Grooming Comparatively Little Known Colonel For Dictatorship

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Greece, which restored King George last winter, recently came under the dictatorship of its premier, General John Metaxas. DeWitt MacKenzie, for 20 years in European service for the Associated Press, tells how the aging Metaxas is reported to be grooming a successor.)

By DeWitt MacKenzie
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—General John Metaxas, Greece's new dictator, is said by highly placed Greeks in this country to be training a comparatively young and little known colonel succeed to the dictatorship when age compels the 65-year-old general to retire.

Metaxas' choice is stated to have fallen on Col. Theodore Skylakakis, a brilliant and extremely forceful man of about 43, whom the general appointed minister of interior.

This would seem to answer two pressing questions which have been puzzling not only foreign countries but the Hellenes themselves:

Is the dictatorship merely a temporary expedient or does Metaxas intend to perpetuate it?

If the totalitarian rule is to continue, who will take the place of the aging general—about the last of the strong men of the country?

It would seem on the face of it that Metaxas does intend to continue the dictatorship, and he is creating his own strong man to follo r in his steps.

Skylakakis is a Spartan—and Sparta through long centuries has been synonymous of strength of character and absolute fearlessness.

He is a man of ideas and great initiative. He distinguished himself as an army officer, and in that stern school of discipline learned the art of commanding others. Now he is being schooled in state craft by his master, who also is his clos friend.

Metaxas is said to regard Skylakakis so highly that the latter is the general's right hand.

Skylakakis' views naturally coincide in the main with those of the dictator. The colonel is for a totalitarian state such as Mussolini and Hitler have established. This eliminates Democracy as America knows the term. He is said to be an ardent Fascist.

While Metaxas never has declared openly for any of the political "isms," it is known that he, too, leans strongly toward Fascism. Observers in Greece are wondering whether he intends to form a party similar to Il Duce's Fascist organization.

Most express the belief that the energetic dictator has begun what will be extensive activities designed to win him supporters outside the army, which thus far has stood solidly behind him.

One of his first moves that particularly attracted the attention of the masses was to announce that he would use the salaries of the members of the dissolved parliament—about $450,000 yearly—to establish soup kitchens for the destitute.

Another stroke was the appointment of George Demithratos, who came from the "working class," as undersecretary of state for national economy. This gesture is said to mean a renewed interest by the government in labor, which has been boiling with unrest.

ICKES' FOSTER SON IN COURT

Sergt. Charles J. Herrold (left) of the Winchester, Mass., police force placed a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants against Robert H. Ickes (right), foster son of Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior. Young Ickes, who is shown on his way to court, won a continuance of the case until August 25. Secretary Ickes said the boy was being prosecuted for "unfair political reasons." (Associated Press Photo)

IMPROVEMENTS AT L. T. I. PROPOSED

Swimming Pool, Gymnasium Among New Features Considered

Dr. Harvey Dillon, superintendent of the Louisiana Training institute, stated Saturday that extensive improvements have been given approval y Gov. Richard W. Leche as a result of a recent visit paid to the institute.

As soon as practicable, the superintendent was given to understand, a swimming pool will be prepared, a gymnasium and other athletic equipment installed, and in all probability a laundry will be erected. Buildings needing repairs will be overhauled.

It is the understanding that the governor, together with the board of the institute and the new superintendent, are working to make the place an outstanding one of its kind.

It is said that an honor system is proposed for installation. Boys will be rewarded for excellence in studies, and the school curriculum broadened and standardized.

The institution, the only one of the kind in Louisiana, has in the past played an important role in training boys to become useful citizens and it is expected that it will serve an even broader purpose when plans that are now in contemplation are carried into execution.

The Katharine Franklin From The Days of The Hermitage and Andrew Jackson!

Prior to that period of American history known as the "gilded age" of the early nineties much of the aristocracy of the land had commissioned cabinet makers to create for them furniture true to the fashion of the time. This trend of design bore marks of the affluence of that period later to be known as the early Victorian.

Only the better examples created during this era have remained as the heirlooms of today. Each piece of this grouping has been copied from those models now in the bedroom of lovely Katharine Franklin, a direct descendant of President Andrew Jackson. The rosebud hand carvings and attractive bead moldings add to each piece an ornamentation of interest and refinement.

No finer cabinet woods could be used than the solid American Walnut. The full beauty of this wood is enhanced by the soft and mellow hand-antiqued patina.

HARRY KENNING TO HOLD TESTS

Red Cross Life Saver Will Conduct Two-Day Examinations

Harry A. Kenning, national Red Cross life saving representative, will come to Monroe to conduct an examiners' training course, August 24-25.

A large class of senior and junior life savers has been prepared by Parker McComb and will be ready to take tests. The time of the tests has yet to be announced.

Mrs. W. C. Holstein, executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, received official announcement of the arrival this week of Mr. Kenning from Richard W. Thrush, assistant director of first aid and life saving, national headquarters.

In the letter it was stated: "It is our hope that it will be possible for you to enroll a splendid group of persons interested in qualifying as Red Cross life saving examiners who will, upon completion of their training, take an active interest in your water safety program. We are confident it is not necessary to caution you that in arranging for the enrollment of these courses you should bear in mind our regulations requiring that an examiner be 20 years of age and have had basic water training."

Mrs. Holstein stated that Mr Kenning is well and favorably known here, where he has conducted similar work in the past. She assured that his selection will meet with favor here.

BUS TO TRANSPORT STUDENTS PLANNED

JENA, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Superintendent of LaSalle Parish Schools J. D. Russe Jr., stated that efforts to provide a school bus to Northeast Center of Louisiana State university at Monroe were being made. The bus would leave Jena and carry students from this city, Tullos, Good-Pine, Trout, Urania, Olla, Clarks, Grayson, Kelly and Columbia. The cost would be considerably cheaper than rent would be in Monroe. Mr. Russell urged that every student get in touch with the school board at once in order that plans could be mapped out.

The bus would be modern construction, all steel and latest type of motor. Every means of safety would be provided.

LOAN AMOUNT ANNOUNCED

FERRIDAY, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Residents of Concordia parish received $10,876 from the Home Owners' Loan corporation during the three years of refinancing which terminated June 12, according to a report of Edward J. BUS TO TRANSPORT STUDENTS PLANNED

JENA, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Superintendent of LaSalle Parish Schools J. D. Russe Jr., stated that efforts to provide a school bus to Northeast Center of Louisiana State university at Monroe were being made. The bus would leave Jena and carry students from this city, Tullos, Good-Pine, Trout, Urania, Olla, Clarks, Grayson, Kelly and Columbia. The cost would be considerably cheaper than rent would be in Monroe. Mr. Russell urged that every student get in touch with the school board at once in order that plans could be mapped out.

The bus would be modern construction, all steel and latest type of motor. Every means of safety would be provided.

DROUTH DOCTORS FORECAST CURE

Electrification Administrator Thinks Few Will Have To Move

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Seven drouth doctors President Roosevelt called into consideration to prescribe for the drouth problem talked confidentlly today of a permanent cure.

Morris L. Cooke, rural electrification administrator and chairman of the president's committee, visualized a land of greener fields.

"It can be done with a little planning," he said. "It will take orderly agriculture. It will take cooperation between the farmer and the government. It will take nerve, but it can be done."

Cooke and the six other members of the committee making a 3,000-mile tour of the arid areas reached the half way point today. They paused here to receive the recommendations of representatives of seven north central states who met yesterday to work out a regional program.

The federal party will tour Wyoming, Montana and North Dakota before reporting to the president next week in South Dakota. The group has already traversed the drouth belts of Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska.

Cooke said only a comparatively few farmers will have to move.

"There will be no great movement of families from one state to another," he said. "A few families may have to be moved from one district within a state to another more fertile district. There will have to be readjustment of land uses.

"It seems, speaking broadly, that some of the stock ranches should be larger. Some of the farms should be smaller. Water and land must be conserved throughout the whole territory. If a program had been placed in effect 25 years ago this present drouth would have been felt much less."

He said he saw little chance for the rural electrification administration to do much in the way of development in the area because "costs would be too great."

Her Work A Real Pleasure Feeling As She Does Today

Gly-Cas Again Unfailing In Restoring Local Lady to Health; Now Eats And Sleeps Fine, Dizziness Gone, Neuritis Pains Ended.

There have been many medicines introduced here in Monroe and vicinity in past years but never before has any medicine created such a sensation and received the tremendous praise—that absolutely refused to die out but grew continually with each day—as that being accorded this new Gly-Cas right here in Monroe and vicinity.

Read what Mrs. Lillian Smith, well known and highly respected lady of this city, P. B. X. Operator of the Monroe Hotel, said recently in lauding the action of this new remedy in a statement reaching the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard St.:

"Anyone who suffers with indigestion or other troubles due to improper elimination will be glad to learn of Gly-Cas," said Mrs. Lillian Smith, "After every meal I ate I was sure to suffer terribly with indigestion afterwards. To eat meant one thing to me—suffering. I was badly constipated, often had dizzy spells until I could hardly get about and my entire system became clogged with poisons. Neuritis developed and settled in my shoulders and back, the sharp stabbing pains often being more than I could endure. I was hindered greatly in my work, could hardly perform my duties and was so nervous I could not sleep at night. I lost all interest in life itself and actually gave up hope of getting well at times —But finally I began Gly-Cas and my health troubles were soon at an end.

"Little did I realize a medicine as remarkable as this new Gly-Cas had been discovered," continued Mrs. Smith, "I could not begin to name the many remedies I had taken to get relief but met only with repeated failure until I began Gly-Cas. My stomach and bowels were regulated, the dizzy spells soon left me and soon I noticed the neuritis pains began to disappear. I can now eat and sleep fine, suffer no ill effects after eating and cannot say half enough for praising a medicine like this new Gly-Cas. This new herbal remedy is the first one I have ever taken that did not disappoint me—Gly-Cas gives results when all else fails."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard Street, this city, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns. (Adv.)

SPOOK STEALS MATTRESS FROM SLEEPING NEGRO

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—"It was a spook who done it, boss," Sam Kane, 58, negro worker, shouted over the telephone to Police Clerk Joseph A. Moll at 5 a.m. today.

"Done what?" the disturbed clerk inquired.

"Stole my mattress off of my bed while I was sleep and left me on the bed springs," Kane answered excitedly. "Nobody but a ghost coulda done it. For de Lawd sake, boss, send some police to my home."

The police went and sure enough found Kane had been waked up by his alarm clock at 4:45 on the hard bed springs.

They found the mattress over the fence where a woman in the negro tenement house reported she saw a shadowy figure push a big package during the night.

Kane lives on Caliope street.

LANDON STARTS FRESH ASSAULT UPON NEW DEAL

Republican Starts Out On Tour Frankly Admitted As Political

By Edward J. Duffy
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Climaxed by Gov. Alf M. Landon's assault on the New Deal today in Pennsylvania, this week brought a clearer outline of tactics in the presidential campaign, while the tendency to break across party lines was illustrated afresh.

After a period of seclusion, the Republican nominee embarked on a frankly political tour designed to let voters see and hear him in state after state. President Roosevelt also will take to the road again next Tuesday, but told reporters he would make no political speeches before October.

The latest instance of a jump across party lines in this campaign occurred late today in Detroit, where Sen. James Couzens, Republican, announced he would support the president for reelection. The Michigan senator is a candidate for renomination by his party in the primary on September 15.

It is becoming more evident that neither major party intends to surrender support from the right or left without a contest. Landon occasioned comment in political quarters by including no old line eastern Republican leaders among his advisers on his eastward swing. He attacked monopoly, long a target of the left. In the speech this afternoon, he took a position similar to that of some outstanding industrialists—that "free enterprise" is threatened by Roosevelt policies.

Replies to such contentions were made by four business leaders during the week in a broadcast under Democratic national committee auspices, to the effect that recovery would best be served by reelection of Roosevelt.

At the same time the president, in a letter, welcomed support from New York Socialists who have set up the "People's party" in the state, rather than go along with Norman Thomas, the presidential nominee of the Socialist party. The Democratic organization there gave a measure of recognition to the new labor party in the state, which is pro-Roosevelt, by naming several of its leaders for the ticket of presidential electors.

Possibilities of party realignment by 1940 figures prominently in the developments. Looking toward national establishment of farmer-labor federations, a group of Minnesota and Wisconsin independent leaders deferred positive action until after November and decided not to endorse any presidential candidate.

On the other side, the organization of "Jeffersonian Democrats" recently set up in Detroit to oppose the New Deal forwarded its plans by selecting former Gov. Joseph Ely of Massachusetts as treasurer. Another group of Democratic dissenters met in Richmond and approved the anti-Roosevelt declarations made at the Michigan conference. H. Clay Armstrong, the Democratic mayor of Pensacola, Fla., who favors Landon, succeeded in keeping his post despite efforts by other Democrats to oust him.

FALSE AMBULANCE ALARMS RECEIVED

An unidentified individual who telephoned to Peters Funeral home late Saturday night called for an ambulance to go to a point three miles from the city on the Columbia road, but when the ambulance arrived there it was discovered that the call was a false alarm.

Three similar calls for ambulances to go to the same place were put through to the same establishment last Saturday and efforts to locate the party were without success.

Officials of the funeral home pointed out that the turning in of false alarms is an offense against law and officers have been notified to be on the lookout for the person who has been guilty of this practice.

Efforts to trace the calls through the telephone company, officials at Peters Funeral home declared, were without success as the telephone operators reported they were unable to trace the calls.

DEMOLAY DELEGATES TO CONVENE TODAY

LAKE CHARLES, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Beginning at 3:30 Sunday afternoon Demolay delegates from Louisiana will start registering at the Masonic temple here for their fifth annual state conclave.

About 100 delegates, including visitors from chapters in east Texas, are expected to be present. The conclave will last through Tuesday night.

The conclave will get officially under way Sunday night with a public session to confer the degree of legion of honor upon Lloyd Strickland of Lake Charles by State Deputy E. F. Gayle, assisted by Dr. Paul Quilty.

A business session will be held Monday morning. Election of officers and selection of the 1937 conclave city are scheduled for Tuesday morning.

SHERIFF SMASHES 5 SLOT MACHINES

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Slot machines disappeared in East Baton Rouge parish today after Sheriff Newman H. de Bretton and his deputies smashed five, and he and Capt. MacBurney Heard, acting police chief, warned that any others found would be raided.

About $94 found in the devices broken up in axe raids was turned over to church orphanages.

Sheriff de Bretton said he had "begged the people of the parish for the past three months" to remove the machines and had "warned against their operation."

"Now all slot machines must go!" he declared.

Captain Heard issued a similar statement.

NEGRO HELD AFTER TWO AUTOS COLLIDE

Mack Childress, negro truck driver, was placed in jail Saturday charged with driving a motor vehicle while drunk, as the result of an accident which occurred at Nineteenth and DeSiard streets when the truck he was driving sideswiped a parked car belonging to Alma Kendall, negro woman, living at 612 Congo street.

Childress is alleged to have been driving along DeSiard street at a high rate of speed and after hitting the parked automobile to have continued down the street, dragging the vehicle about 150 feet before bringing his truck to a stop.

In the car at the time of the accident were several negroes besides the Kendall woman, none of whom were hurt.

JUNIOR COLLEGE SOUGHT BY SHREVEPORT SOLONS

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Three of Caddo parish's four legislators have promised support to a movement by the Queensborough Civic club to obtain a junior college branch in Shreveport of the state university.

Members of the club heard Rep. W. J. B. Chandler, Dr. P. T. Alexander and Mrs. Ben R. Simpson of Shreveport, who spoke for her legislator husband. All pledged aid in obtaining the school for Shreveport and northwest Louisiana.

E. Weldon Jones, Caddo parish school superintendent, endorsed the movement and promised parish transportation for students in the event the junior college is located here. He said students having benefits of home life during the first two years of college progress faster in studies.

DEAF MUTES CONVENE IN SILENT SESSIONS

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—A convention at which not a word was uttered drew to an end here today.

Despite complete silence that prevailed at its sessions, there was prayer addresses delivered and business was transacted.

It was the annual meeting of the Louisiana Association for the Deaf, and only the language of the hands was used.

The Rev. A. O. Wilson delivered an invocation, and "talks" were made by H. J. Soland, Jr., of New Orleans, A. S. Courrege of Baton Rouge, and others. Soland is president of the association.

Sessions were held at the state school for the deaf.

HARRISON PUSHES ATTACK ON BILBO

Charges Senator Turned Back On People While In Congress

TUPELO, Miss., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Sen. Pat Harrison came to heavy voting and extensively electrified north Mississippi today to climax his campaign for reelection with charges that former Gov. Sennett Conner was "friendly to the power interests when he put additional taxes on the masses and reduced substantially the taxes on public utilities."

Harrison also charged, in speeches at Corinth this morning, Tupelo this afternoon, and Pontotoc tonight, that Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo "turned his back upon the people" and "refrained or refused to vote in the only opportunity he has had in congress to place himself on record" when the vote on the holding company "death sentence" was taken.

Answering charges of his opposition that he was "against TVA," the senior senator declared that "no man in congress fought more for the development of the vast resources at Muscle Shoals than I fought."

"In every fight in congress," Harrison said, "I have voted and spoken on the side of the people when their interests conflicted with the power interests."

He said that recently the federal government had allocated $1,280,000 to rural electrification in Mississippi and declared it to be the "largest amount received for this purpose by any state except Texas."

Concerning the efforts of the federal government to further develop northeast Mississippi, he said an appropriation of $109,000 had been made for a study and survey of the possibilities of the proposed Tennessee-Tombigbee canal.

"It has already been found that there is adequate commerce to favorably consider this project," he said, "which in my opinion, would provide one of the most important and beneficial waterways improvements that could be developed."

Turning to the charge of his opposition with reference to the placing of Judge Norfleet R. Sledge, his campaign manager, on his office payroll, Harrison read a telegram received in Jackson last night from Sen. Joe Robinson of Arkansas, senate majority floor leader.

"Attack on Senator Harrison as reported is not justified," Senator Robinson's telegram read.

"Senate committee chairmen name employes of their committees, and such employes usually take active part in campaigns of senators who appoint them.

"In my opinion," concluded Senator Robinson, "Senator Harrison is outstanding among senators for ability and usefulness."

into Canada were $158,344,000 for the first half of this year and $140,322,000 in 1935, an increase of $18,022,000 or 13 per cent.

The total gain in movement of all goods from this country was up 13 per cent compared to a 23 per cent gain for Canada.

The gain in movement of farm products from here to Canada was evenly split between commodities upon which duty was reduced by the pact and those on which no changes were made.

HAIRCUT PRICES HIKED IN MONROE

Shops In Number Of Sections Of State Acting Under New Law

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Prices of haircuts are reported going up in Louisiana as result of act of the last legislature.

Barbers in some sections of the state are said to be taking advantage of act 48 of 1936 to obtain higher remuneration through unified action.

The act authorizes the state barber board to fix minimum prices for tonsorial work when the price pegging meets with approval of 75 per cent of the barbers in a congressional district.

An attempt to establish statutory provision for regulation of shop hours failed at the last law-maker session, however.

A companion bill to the price fixing measure would have permitted towns and cities of 5,000 or more population to regulate shop hours, but Gov. Richard W. Leche declared it unconstitutional.

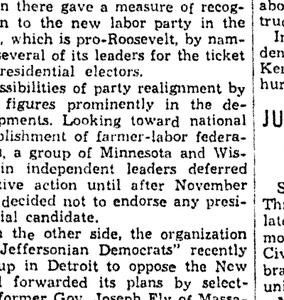
Sen. Jules G. Fisher was the author of both bills.

PRICE OF HAIRCUTS RAISED IN MONROE

Announcement has been made in Monroe that the price of haircuts will be raised to 50 cents, beginning Monday.

For some time the price of haircuts in Monroe has been 35 cents and it is expected that the hike will greatly stimulate home barbering, especially among large families where the income is small.

Barber shops, Saturday, reported a land office business as entire families came to town for haircuts in order to take advantage of the last day in which the lower prices remained in effect.



MAN-SIZE MEALS

DROUTH DOCTORS FORECAST CURE

Electrification Administrator Thinks Few Will Have To Move

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Seven drouth doctors President Roosevelt called into consideration to prescribe for the drouth problem talked confidentlly today of a permanent cure.

Morris L. Cooke, rural electrification administrator and chairman of the president's committee, visualized a land of greener fields.

"It can be done with a little planning," he said. "It will take orderly agriculture. It will take cooperation between the farmer and the government. It will take nerve, but it can be done."

Cooke and the six other members of the committee making a 3,000-mile tour of the arid areas reached the half way point today. They paused here to receive the recommendations of representatives of seven north central states who met yesterday to work out a regional program.

The federal party will tour Wyoming, Montana and North Dakota before reporting to the president next week in South Dakota. The group has already traversed the drouth belts of Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska.

Cooke said only a comparatively few farmers will have to move.

"There will be no great movement of families from one state to another," he said. "A few families may have to be moved from one district within a state to another more fertile district. There will have to be readjustment of land uses.

"It seems, speaking broadly, that some of the stock ranches should be larger. Some of the farms should be smaller. Water and land must be conserved throughout the whole territory. If a program had been placed in effect 25 years ago this present drouth would have been felt much less."

He said he saw little chance for the rural electrification administration to do much in the way of development in the area because "costs would be too great."

AUTO CATCHES FIRE

A fire which resulted from a short circuit in the starter of an automobile belonging to Mrs. Tony Lewis and which was parked in front of the A. & W. sandwich shop on DeSiard street was the cause of an alarm Saturday night which was answ red by company No. 1. The fire was out on arrival of the truck with no damage to the car reported.

The Nile river has no tributaries for the last 1,700 miles of its long journey to the sea.

Her Work A Real Pleasure Feeling As She Does Today

Gly-Cas Again Unfailing In Restoring Local Lady to Health; Now Eats And Sleeps Fine, Dizziness Gone, Neuritis Pains Ended.

There have been many medicines introduced here in Monroe and vicinity in past years but never before has any medicine created such a sensation and received the tremendous praise—that absolutely refused to die-out but grew continually with each day—as that being accorded this new Gly-Cas right here in Monroe and vicinity.

Read what Mrs. Lillian Smith, well known and highly respected lady of this city, P. B. X. Operator of the Monroe Hotel, said recently in lauding the action of this new remedy in a statement reaching the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard St.:

"Anyone who suffers with indigestion or other troubles due to improper elimination will be glad to learn of Gly-Cas," said Mrs. Lillian Smith, "After every meal I ate I was sure to suffer terribly with indigestion afterwards. To eat meant one thing to me—suffering. I was badly constipated, often had dizzy spells until I could hardly get about and my entire system became clogged with poisons. Neuritis developed and settled in my shoulders and back, the sharp stabbing pains often being more than I could endure. I was hindered greatly in my work, could hardly perform my duties and was so nervous I could not sleep at night. I lost all interest in life itself and actually gave up hope of getting well at times —But finally I began Gly-Cas and my health troubles were soon at an end."

"Little did I realize a medicine as remarkable as this new Gly-Cas had been discovered," continued Mrs. Smith, "I could not begin to name the many remedies I had taken to get relief but met only with repeated failure until I began Gly-Cas. My stomach and bowels were regulated, the dizzy spells soon left me and soon I noticed the neuritis pains began to disappear. I can now eat and sleep fine, suffer no ill effects after eating and cannot say half enough for praising a medicine like this new Gly-Cas. This new herbal remedy is the first one I have ever taken that did not disappoint me—Gly-Cas gives results when all else fails."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard Street, this city, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns. (Adv.)

SPOOK STEALS MATTRESS FROM SLEEPING NEGRO

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—"It was a spook who done it, boss," Sam Kane, 58, negro worker, shouted over the telephone to Police Clerk Joseph A. Moll at 5 a.m. today.

"Done what?" the disturbed clerk inquired.

"Stole my mattress off of my bed while I was sleep and left me on the bed springs," Kane answered excitedly. "Nobody but a ghost coulda done it. For de Lawd sake, boss, send some police to my home."

The police went and sure enough found Kane had been waked up by his alarm clock at 4:45 on the hard bed springs.

They found the mattress over the fence where a woman in the negro tenement house reported she saw a shadowy figure push a big package during the night.

Kane lives on Caliope street.

LANDON STARTS FRESH ASSAULT UPON NEW DEAL

Republican Starts Out On Tour Frankly Admitted As Political

By Edward J. Duffy
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Climaxed by Gov. Alf M. Landon's assault on the New Deal today in Pennsylvania, this week brought a clearer outline of tactics in the presidential campaign, while the tendency to break across party lines was illustrated afresh.

After a period of seclusion, the Republican nominee embarked on a frankly political tour designed to let voters see and hear him in state after state. President Roosevelt also will take to the road again next Tuesday, but told reporters he would make no political speeches before October.

The latest instance of a jump across party lines in this campaign occurred late today in Detroit, where Sen. James Couzens, Republican, announced he would support the president for reelection. The Michigan senator is a candidate for renomination by his party in the primary on September 15.

It is becoming more evident that neither major party intends to surrender support from the right or left without a contest. Landon occasioned comment in political quarters by including no old line eastern Republican leaders among his advisers on his eastward swing. He attacked monopoly, long a target of the left. In the speech this afternoon, he took a position similar to that of some outstanding industrialists—that "free enterprise" is threatened by Roosevelt policies.

Replies to such contentions were made by four business leaders during the week in a broadcast under Democratic national committee auspices, to the effect that recovery would best be served by reelection of Roosevelt.

At the same time the president, in a letter, welcomed support from New York Socialists who have set up the "People's party" in the state, rather than go along with Norman Thomas, the presidential nominee of the Socialist party. The Democratic organization there gave a measure of recognition to the new labor party in the state, which is pro-Roosevelt, by naming several of its leaders for the ticket of presidential electors.

Possibilities of party realignment by 1940 figures prominently in the developments. Looking toward national establishment of farmer-labor federations, a group of Minnesota and Wisconsin independent leaders deferred positive action until after November and decided not to endorse any presidential candidate.

On the other side, the organization of "Jeffersonian Democrats" recently set up in Detroit to oppose the New Deal forwarded its plans by selecting former Gov. Joseph Ely of Massachusetts as treasurer. Another group of Democratic dissenters met in Richmond and approved the anti-Roosevelt declarations made at the Michigan conference. H. Clay Armstrong, the Democratic mayor of Pensacola, Fla., who favors Landon, succeeded in keeping his post despite efforts by other Democrats to oust him.

FALSE AMBULANCE ALARMS RECEIVED

An unidentified individual who telephoned to Peters Funeral home late Saturday night called for an ambulance to go to a point three miles from the city on the Columbia road, but when the ambulance arrived there it was discovered that the call was a false alarm.

Three similar calls for ambulances to go to the same place were put through to the same establishment last Saturday and efforts to locate the party were without success.

Officials of the funeral home pointed out that the turning in of false alarms is an offense against law and officers have been notified to be on the lookout for the person who has been guilty of this practice.

Efforts to trace the calls through the telephone company, officials at Peters Funeral home declared, were without success as the telephone operators reported they were unable to trace the calls.

DEMOLAY DELEGATES TO CONVENE TODAY

LAKE CHARLES, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Beginning at 3:30 Sunday afternoon Demolay delegates from Louisiana will start registering at the Masonic temple here for their fifth annual state conclave.

About 100 delegates, including visitors from chapters in east Texas, are expected to be present. The conclave will last through Tuesday night.

The conclave will get officially under way Sunday night with a public session to confer the degree of legion of honor upon Lloyd Strickland of Lake Charles by State Deputy E. F. Gayle, assisted by Dr. Paul Quilty.

A business session will be held Monday morning. Election of officers and selection of the 1937 conclave city are scheduled for Tuesday morning.

SHERIFF SMASHES 5 SLOT MACHINES

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Slot machines disappeared in East Baton Rouge parish today after Sheriff Newman H. de Bretton and his deputies smashed five, and he and Capt. MacBurney Heard, acting police chief, warned that any others found would be raided.

About $94 found in the devices broken up in axe raids was turned over to church orphanages.

Sheriff de Bretton said he had "begged the people of the parish for the past three months" to remove the machines and had "warned against their operation."

"Now all slot machines must go!" he declared.

Captain Heard issued a similar statement.

NEGRO HELD AFTER TWO AUTOS COLLIDE

Mack Childress, negro truck driver, was placed in jail Saturday charged with driving a motor vehicle while drunk, as the result of an accident which occurred at Nineteenth and DeSiard streets when the truck he was driving sideswiped a parked car belonging to Alma Kendall, negro woman, living at 612 Congo street.

Childress is alleged to have been driving along DeSiard street at a high rate of speed and after hitting the parked automobile to have continued down the street, dragging the vehicle about 150 feet before bringing his truck to a stop.

In the car at the time of the accident were several negroes besides the Kendall woman, none of whom were hurt.

JUNIOR COLLEGE SOUGHT BY SHREVEPORT SOLONS

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Three of Caddo parish's four legislators have promised support to a movement by the Queensborough Civic club to obtain a junior college branch in Shreveport of the state university.

Members of the club heard Rep. W. J. B. Chandler, Dr. P. T. Alexander and Mrs. Ben R. Simpson of Shreveport, who spoke for her legislator husband. All pledged aid in obtaining the school for Shreveport and northwest Louisiana.

E. Weldon Jones, Caddo parish school superintendent, endorsed the movement and promised parish transportation for students in the event the junior college is located here. He said students having benefits of home life during the first two years of college progress faster in studies.

DEAF MUTES CONVENE IN SILENT SESSIONS

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—A convention at which not a word was uttered drew to an end here today.

Despite complete silence that prevailed at its sessions, there was prayer addresses delivered and business was transacted.

It was the annual meeting of the Louisiana Association for the Deaf, and only the language of the hands was used.

The Rev. A. O. Wilson delivered an invocation, and "talks" were made by H. J. Soland, Jr., of New Orleans, A. S. Courrege of Baton Rouge, and others. Soland is president of the association.

Sessions were held at the state school for the deaf.

HARRISON PUSHES ATTACK ON BILBO

Charges Senator Turned Back On People While In Congress

TUPELO, Miss., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Sen. Pat Harrison came to heavy voting and extensively electrified north Mississippi today to climax his campaign for reelection with charges that former Gov. Sennett Conner was "friendly to the power interests when he put additional taxes on the masses and reduced substantially the taxes on public utilities."

Harrison also charged, in speeches at Corinth this morning, Tupelo this afternoon, and Pontotoc tonight, that Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo "turned his back upon the people" and "refrained or refused to vote in the only opportunity he has had in congress to place himself on record" when the vote on the holding company "death sentence" was taken.

Answering charges of his opposition that he was "against TVA," the senior senator declared that "no man in congress fought more for the development of the vast resources at Muscle Shoals than I fought."

"In every fight in congress," Harrison said, "I have voted and spoken on the side of the people when their interests conflicted with the power interests."

He said that recently the federal government had allocated $1,230,000 to rural electrification in Mississippi and declared it to be the "largest amount received for this purpose by any state except Texas."

Concerning the efforts of the federal government to further develop northeast Mississippi, he said an appropriation of $109,000 had been made for a study and survey of the possibilities of the proposed Tennessee-Tombigbee canal.

"It has already been found that there is adequate commerce to favorably consider this project," he said, "which in my opinion, would provide one of the most important and beneficial waterways improvements that could be developed."

Turning to the charge of his opposition with reference to the placing of Judge Norfleet R. Sledge, his campaign manager, on his office payroll, Harrison read a telegram received in Jackson last night from Sen. Joe Robinson of Arkansas, senate majority floor leader.

"Attack on Senator Harrison as reported is not justified," Senator Robinson's telegram read.

"Senate committee chairmen name employes of their committees, and such employes usually take active part in campaigns of senators who appoint them.

"In my opinion," concluded Senator Robinson, "Senator Harrison is outstanding among senators for ability and usefulness."

into Canada were $158,344,000 for the first half of this year and $140,322,000 in 1935, an increase of $18,022,000 or 13 per cent.

The total gain in movement of all goods from this country was up 13 per cent compared to a 23 per cent gain for Canada.

The gain in movement of farm products from here to Canada was evenly split between commodities upon which duty was reduced by the pact and those on which no changes were made.

DEATHS

WILLIAM A. EATMAN

WINNSBORO, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—William A. Eatman, 79, died at his home in Extension Tuesday. Funeral services were held Thursday in the Daley cemetery, under the direction of Rev. Ritchie of Wisner.

WILL A. MYATT

Will A Myatt, 49, for many years a resident of ward eight, died at a local sanitarium yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the Mt. Vernon church, in ward eight, and interment will be made in the Mt. Vernon cemetery, under the direction of Rev. D. D. Cantrell.

Mr. Myatt is survived by his brother, E. C. Myatt of Rayville.

MRS. FANNIE MAE JONES

WINNSBORO, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Mrs. Fannie Mae Jones, 52, died Wednesday at her home near Mangham. Funeral services were held Thursday at the Lone Cherry cemetery, Rev. J. H. Keys officiating.

Mrs. Jones is survived by six children, Purvis Jones of Crowville, Mrs. Edna Reagan of Baskin, Mrs. Nela May Pittman of Mangham, Rufus Jones of Harrisonburg, Harvey Jones of Harrisonburg, and Mary Jones of Harrisonburg. She is also survived by one brother, H. H. Swaggart of Harrisonburg.

HAIRCUT PRICES HIKED IN MONROE

Shops In Number Of Sections Of State Acting Under New Law

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Prices of haircuts are reported going up in Louisiana as result of act of the last legislature.

Barbers in some sections of the state are said to be taking advantage of act 48 of 1936 to obtain higher remuneration through unified action.

The act authorizes the state barber board to fix minimum prices for tonsorial work when the price pegging meets with approval of 75 per cent of the barbers in a congressional district.

An attempt to establish statutory provision for regulation of shop hours failed at the last law-maker session, however.

A companion bill to the price fixing measure would have permitted towns and cities of 5,000 or more population to regulate shop hours, but Gov. Richard W. Leche declared it unconstitutional.

Sen. Jules G. Fisher was the author of both bills.

PRICE OF HAIRCUTS RAISED IN MONROE

Announcement has been made in Monroe that the price of haircuts will be raised to 50 cents, beginning Monday.

For some time the price of haircuts in Monroe has been 35 cents and it is expected that the hike will greatly stimulate home barbering, especially among large families where the income is small.

Barber shops, Saturday, reported a land office business as entire families came to town for haircuts in order to take advantage of the last day in which the lower prices remained in effect.

SPORTS Chatter

BY GEO. V. LOFTON

A 'BREATHER'

Last Sunday a New Orleans newspaper took Tulane's 1936 football schedule apart and analyzed the Greenies' chances for the coming season. Tulane, according to the writer, has four major objectives, listed in this order: Ole Miss, Colgate, Alabama and L. S. U. The word objective means, of course, a victory over each of the four teams.

Louisiana Tech isn't on the objective list. In fact, here is what the writer of that story—and apparently the Tulane staff—thinks of Louisiana Tech:

"Louisiana Tech, which follows the Tarheel game, will be a breather before the Alabama game. It will give Dawson and Co., the opportunity to polish off some rough spots and do some fancy pointing for 'Bama."

That, folks, will be just dandy as far as Eddie McLane and his Bulldogs are concerned. If Mr. Dawson wants any help in polishing off the rough spots of the Tulane team, the Tech squad will be more than pleased to help him. In fact, it's Tech's intention to polish off the whole Greenie eleven.

Mr. Dawson has been away from Louisiana for several years and maybe he hasn't had time to check up on all of his 1936 opponents. For his information, Tech, with a sophomore team, lost but one game last year, and that by one point. Coach McLane will have a stronger team this fall.

Tulane was singing the blues last spring. Perhaps Dawson and Co., are more optimistic now that several junior college stars have been brought in to bolster the squad. And maybe those big recruits from Minnesota and Wisconsin have improved the morale out on St. Charles avenue. We understand things are looking rosier for the Greenies with those reinforcements.

We don't mean, of course, that the odds will favor Tech in the Tulane clash. But if Mr. Dawson thinks it's going to be just a romp, some friendly Tulane alumnus should tip him off that McLane will have more than just eleven uniforms out there on the field when the whistle blows.

BIERMAN HONORED

Louisiana friends of Bernie Bierman were pleased that the former Tulane coach was selected to direct the all-star team which will play the Detroit Lions in Chicago September 1. Bierman now has cornered about all the honors that a football coach could desire. His Minnesota teams have gone through three undefeated seasons and now the fans of the nation have voted him the outstanding football tutor of 'em all.

Bierman has developed an unusually successful "system" of football. It's taken directly from the fundamentals established by the late Dr. Henry L. Williams, whose Minnesota shift was one of the most enduring basic offensives the game has had. Bierman has modified this shift for the purpose of adding speed to power.

Last year he went a step beyond the ordinary unbalanced line which had a guard or tackle shifting to the strong side. He moved two men over and had both guards, both tackles and one end playing to the right of center and only an end playing to the left. He rarely unbalances his line to the left, although he has such formations for use near the goal line if the position of the ball on the field requires them. Ordinarily he uses the standard single wing back formation, but varies it occasionally by using two tail backs, the man in the ordinary fullback position of the single wing formation falling back on a line with the halfback. This sets up a formation for reverses and quick thrusts at the weak side.

Bierman's weak side plays have developed such power with such speed that they are often more effective than his strong side plays. His theory is to strike fast with massed interference and his offense is beautifully designed to deliver the strokes with a variety of plays.

There are some coaches, of course, who do not subscribe in full to Bierman's theories of football, but after all, Bernie's record proves their soundness. They win games for him, and how!

GOING UP

The work of Hal Willis as an umpire in the Ouachita Valley league has attracted more than the usual amount of favorable comment this season. Baseball scouts and others who have toured the Valley circuit agree that Hal will make an efficient arbiter in pro baseball if he decides to seek such employment.

Willis had an opportunity to show his ability before New Orleans audiences during the recent American Legion junior baseball playoffs and turned in a neat job. He worked the state series and then was called back to officiate in the Louisiana-Texas regional games.

Professional baseball seeks recruits for its staffs of umpires, just as the pro clubs always welcome promising players. Willis' work in the Valley loop this summer qualifies him for advancement.

EASY MONEY

A local fight fan pulled a fast one Tuesday night and pocketed $5 for his trouble.

Stopping by The World to learn how the Louis-Sharkey fight was going, he arrived just as the "flash" announcing Louis' third-round knockout was received. He immediately left the building and as he walked out of the front door he noticed five or six persons gathered around an automobile across the street. They were listening to the fight as it was broadcast from a station which apparently was not getting it direct from ringside.

Sauntering up, he found that the broadcast was in the second round.

"I'll lay ten to five that Sharkey doesn't last three rounds," the wise boy said.

"It's a bet," said one of the listeners, producing a five spot.

A minute later the relayed broadcast revealed that Mr. Sharkey had been stretched out cold by a couple of lefts after one minute and two seconds of the third round.

The party of the first part pocketed his five and strolled off down the street with his map split wide open in a grin.

KNOCK! KNOCK!

The latest "Knock! Knock!" gag has come out of the golf course locker rooms. They say it happened at Lakeside Country club, but we couldn't vouch for that.

In answer to the usual query, "Who is it?" comes the reply, "Stymie."

"Stymie who?" you ask.

"Stymie bought me another drink!" is the comeback.

RED BIRDS BOOST LEAD OVER IDLE GIANTS IN RACE

Winford Holds Pittsburgh To Six Hits In Winning Close Victory

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—With the New York Giants idle because of rain, the St. Louis Cardinals were able to increase their National league lead to one full game today when they nosed out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3.

Jim Winford held the Pirates to six hits, allowing only two of them up to the eighth inning, when Pittsburgh scored its trio of runs. He had enough in reserve to check the rally and finish out the game a victor.

Lloyd Waner sent the Redbirds off to a first-inning lead when he dropped Terry Moore's outfield fly for a two-base error. Manager Frankie Frisch followed with an honest-to-goodness double to score the first run.

Bill Swift then hooked up with Winford in a tight pitching duel, allowing the Cardinals only one hit in the next five innings.

The first batter in the seventh was Pepper Martin and his long home run set off the fireworks for a three-run rally. Joe Medwick followed with a double. Johnny Mize singled, scoring Medwick, and went around himself on a wild pitch and long flies by Leo Durocher and Art Garibaldi.

REDS DOWN CUBS

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Good relief pitching by Ray Davis, plus homers by Lew Riggs and Babe Herman and a six inning, two run pinch double by Gilly Campbell, gave Cincinnati a 6 to 4 victory over the Cubs before 18,793 fans today.

It was the fading National league champions' ninth defeat in their last 13 games.

Gabby Hartnett homered for the Cubs, who got 10 hits, but the champs had two runners on with none out in the sixth and again with one out in the seventh and couldn't score against Davis.

The latter replaced Paul Derringer, who received technical credit for the victory, after Derringer had been removed to allow Campbell to bat for him in the sixth.

Chicago's observance of the National league's 60th anniversary preceded the game.

LEADING BATTERS

(By Associated Press)

Earl Averill of the Indians and Lou Gehrig of the Yankees shot back into the one-two spots in baseball's batting "big six" yesterday as Roy Weatherly, Averill's rookie teammate, slid from the leadership to third place in the American league. Averill got three hits in four times up to boost his mark two points to .385. Gehrig collected three safeties in six chances, climbing to .383, while Weatherly dropped six percentage points by going hitless in four trips to the plate.

CLOSE RACE IN COTTON STATES

Schedule Ends Today With Four Teams Fighting For First Place

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Cotton States league ends its 1936 season tomorrow practically as it began it.

After 140 games of baseball, there isn't enough difference between the first and fourth place clubs to split a hair.

In fact, the concluding Sunday double headers tomorrow night might see the fourth-place El Dorado Lions in first place.

All in all, it doesn't make a lot of difference because the 1936 champion will be decided under the Shaughnessy play-off system.

The mathematical margins by which Greenwood, Greenville, Pine Bluff and El Dorado finish will mean nothing in the playoff except in the matter of pride and pairings.

But the close fight for the first division berths has enlivened interest in the league, resulting in increased attendance with Jackson and Cleveland's second division clubs possible exceptions.

Before Saturday's games, Greenwood and Greenville were tied for first place in the unofficial standings, Pine Bluff was only a half-game back and El Dorado was only one and one-half games behind the leaders.

Helena, the fifth team in the standings, is definitely out of the running, and tomorrow's garrison finish among the four leaders will settle only the issue of who plays who in the playoff.

Directors of the four first place clubs will meet at Greenville Monday to make plans for the playoff.

The No. 1 team will play the No. 4 team, and the No. 2 team will meet the No. 3 team in a "best three out of five" series, with the winners meeting in a 7-game series to decide the championship.

The first division club managers, Lena Styles of Greenville, Frank Brazill of Greenwood, "Cowboy" Jones of Pine Bluff and Frank O'Rourke of El Dorado, all profess confidence of winning the playoff no matter what scramble tomorrow's closing games make of the standings.

MEET AT GREENVILLE

GREENVILLE, Miss., Aug. 22.—(AP)—With the Cotton States league playing season of 140 games closing tomorrow with a series of four double headers, J. Walter Morris, Shreveport, La., president of the circuit, has called a meeting to be held here Monday morning to arrange for the Shaughnessy play-off series to determine the league championship.

Greenville closes the season tomorrow with a twin bill at Helena. El Dorado closes at Greenwood, Pine Bluff finishes at Cleveland and Jackson at Clarksdale.

OUACHITA VALLEY

SWARTZ AT BROWN

The Brown Paper Mill Brownies, who lost their first game in the Ouachita Valley league's second half flag race last week, will be on the spot again today when they face the Swartz Carbon Blackers, first half winners, at the Brown park, beginning at 3:30 o'clock.

After winning 11 straight games and taking a twelfth victory on a forfeit from the disbanding Winnfield club, the Brownies lost their thirteenth game of the half to the Sterlington Engineers. The victory moved the Engineers to within a game and a half of the locals' lead.

Swartz follows closely on the heels of Sterlington and would like nothing better than to overhaul the Papermakers in today's battle.

A large crowd is expected to be on hand for the game, and due to the fact that the Brownies have only three more home games, all on Sunday, special efforts are being made by Brownie boosters to get out the largest crowds of the season for the few remaining games.

Manager Herbert Steed had not decided last night on his battery for today.

TIGER FOOTBALL SQUAD TO BEGIN WORK TOMORROW

Brown Expects At Least 50 Candidates For Team This Season

The Neville High school Tigers will go into training this week for their 1936 football campaign, Coach Percy Brown, who is beginning his sixth season with the Bengals, announced last night.

Coach Brown expects at least 50 candidates for the eleven to be on hand for the first session Monday morning at 9 o'clock on the Neville athletic field.

The Tiger situation will be practically reversed this season from what it was last year. With a strong backfield last fall, Coach Brown was faced with the problem of building up his line. This year, with a veteran forward wall, he has a revamping job to do on his backfield.

However, the Tiger mentor believes his eleven this year will be stronger than the team that lost only one conference game last season.

Despite the loss of Richard Basco, Harris Bell, Pete Haddad, Jim Davis and Lavelle Green from the backfield, Coach Brown still has the consolation of having the veteran line plunging Andrew Pappas returning in the fullback's post. Next to Pappas, the diminutive Milo Mattinson, who will probably find himself in the thick of the Tiger battles this fall, is the most experienced of the backs.

Joe Gimler, stellar Tiger end, who was on the receiving end of numerous passes and a big factor in the Bengals' aerial attack, won't be at his old end position this year, if Coach Brown's present plans are carried out. The scarcity of backs will probably necessitate the shifting of Gimler to a halfback post, where Coach Brown feels certain the speedy end will prove more valuable.

New prospects for the backfield are Ben Downing, Jr., Billy Bendel, H. St. John, L. E. Wells, Walter Brady and Marvin Spaugh.

With only Ed Tonore, tackle, and Darius Crews and Nick Danna, guards, lost from the line, the Tigers will be well fixed with returning lettermen for the line positions. Bob Prophit and Urbane Kelly are strong contenders for the wing berths. John Ernest Cole and Edward Endom, both tipping the scales around 185 pounds, will be back in the tackle slots, and G. C. Kelly and George Sager are the best bets for the guard positions. The veteran P. A. Poag, Jr., will be back at the center post. Sager is probably the least experienced of the present setup of linemen, but he was in enough games last year to know what it's all about, Coach Brown said.

The training sessions will be short for the first week but will be given twice each day, at 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Only the limbering up and conditioning exercises will figure in the first couple of weeks practice before Coach Brown pins his charges down to the harder tasks of blocking, tackling and learning plays.

MATTHEWS FIGHTS JUDE ON TALLULAH PROGRAM

TALLULAH, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Oscar Matthews, 21-year-old north Louisiana negro heavyweight fighter, will resume his ring activities Monday night at the Tallulah fair grounds, when he meets Gene Jude, Mississippi fighter, in a ten-round main event.

For the past three months Matthews has been nursing an injured eye which he received in a bout in Vicksburg with Kid Chickasha, Mobile fighter.

Matthews has won twelve fights, eleven by the knockout route.

The fight Monday will mean a lot if he wins, according to Matthews' manager, due to the fact that Memphis, New Orleans, Vicksburg, Jackson and Mobile promoters are demanding his services for the winter months.

Arrangements are being made to have the Mobile fighter, Chickasha, to meet Matthews at Vicksburg on Labor day.

BRADDOCK LEAVES SUNDAY FOR HOSPITAL IN FLORIDA

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—James J. Braddock, world heavyweight boxing champion, leaves tomorrow night for Venice, Fla., where he will undergo treatment for his injured hand, which forced postponement of his September title match with Max Schmeling.

Braddock will be accompanied by Dr. Fred Albee, bone specialist whose examination of the champion's hand led to the postponement of the fight.

The champion plans to stay at the Florida medical center until cured, then go to Hot Springs, Ark., for a month after which he will spend several months in the north woods getting in condition for defense of his crown next year. He will report back to the New York state athletic commission, September 15.

TWILIGHT SERIES STARTS TUESDAY

St. Matthew's Meets Southern Bell In Title Games At Casino Park

Southern Bell and the St Matthew's Ushers will clash in the first game of the final series for the Twilight league championship at the Casino park Tuesday afternoon, beginning at 5 o'clock.

The Ushers, who finished first in the league standing at the end of the season's schedule, won their way into the finals by winning two straight over the Methodists in the semi-finals. Bell became a finalist in winning two straight from the Baptists.

The first team to win two games in the finals will become the new Twilight league champions and will represent their league in a series with Adler's Garage, City league champions, for the citywide title.

Southern Bell played impressive ball all season and was at the top in the league standings throughout most of the summer. But the Ushers, who started the year under the banner of the Progressive Men's club, rose from a second division club to a powerful aggregation before the schedule ended and took the league leadership from Southern Bell by winning the last game on their schedule.

Garner, the ace St. Matthew's hurler, will go to the mound for the Ushers with Charlie Bruscato catching. Couch will probably do the Bell pitching and Henry catching.

A small admission charge will be made for the championship games.

BAKERS PLAY CLARKS IN TWO GAMES TODAY

The Bakers' softball team of the Twilight league will meet the powerful Clarks aggregation in a double header this afternoon on the Missouri Pacific lot, Manager Bill Bennett of the Bakers announced yesterday. The first game is scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock.

The Clarks team is reputedly one of the strongest in this vicinity, and one of the few teams to chalk up a victory over the highly touted Adler's Garage ten, City league champions. Clarks' record shows one victory over Adler against two defeats by the Garagemen, and several wins over the Winnsboro Lions, it was said.

The Breadmen have secured the services of two other Twilight league performers, DeMarchi of the Firemen, and Wood of the Baptists, for the battles. Otherwise the Baker club will be intact. Woods will probably catch both games, it was announced, while DeMarchi will share the hurling chores with Manager Bennett.

NATS HIT 3 HOME RUNS IN ONE INNING TO TIE RECORD

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Washington tied the American league record for home runs by one club in a single inning when three batsmen hit for the circuit in the fourth inning of the first game with the Athletics today.

Rhodes was on the mound for the A's when Kress, Kuhel and Reynolds hit the homers. The Senators got two other hits that inning and a total of five runs.

The three-homer mark was achieved 20 times in the American league prior to the 1936 season. The major league record for home runs by one club in one inning is held by the National league. Pittsburgh established it with four in 1894 and Chicago equalled it in 1930.

DICKEY'S SINGLE SCORES WINNING RUN OFF GROVE

Gehrig's 39th Home Run Features Extra-Inning Battle Of Hurlers

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Bill Dickey came through "in the clutch" today with a run-producing single to break up a 13-inning pitching duel and gave Johnny Broaca and the Yankees a 3 to 2 victory over Lefty Grove and the Boston Red Sox.

Lou Gehrig's 39th homer, with none on in the seventh, aided the Yankees' cause, and Jimmy Foxx hammered out his 33rd to tie the score in the ninth.

Broaca allowed but seven hits, walked only two and struck out five in chalking up his ninth victory against six defeats. Grove held murderers' row to nine hits, fanned half a dozen and passed only three in losing his ninth game, compared to 15 wins.

Both hurlers pitched scoreless ball until the sixth, when each club scored. Foxx, the Sox batting hero of the day, sent a long fly to center field to drive in Grove, who had walked. Frank Crosetti doubled and Joe DiMaggio tripled to bring in the Yankee tally.

Gehrig's homer sent the Yanks ahead in the next frame, and they held the edge until the Foxx four-bagger tied it up.

The winning rally in the 13th was slow in starting. With one out, Red Rolfe walked. DiMaggio's fly was the second out. Gehrig singled Rolfe along to third, and then, with two away, Dickey banged a single to right field, sending the third-sacker over with the winning run.

INDIANS BLANK BROWNS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Johnny Allen registered his 15th victory of the season today by shutting out the St. Louis Browns with three hits. The Indians punched out five hits to win, 6 to 0.

One of the three hits marked up against Allen was Harland Clift's drive in the first inning which went past Bill Knickerbocker, Cleveland shortstop, only a few feet to his right. Only one Brown reached third base.

Earl Averill had three hits out of four trips to the plate, one of which was a home run in the third inning, scoring

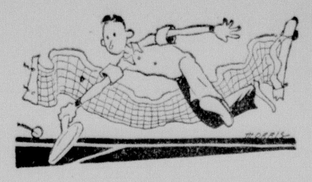
GEORGE V. LOFTON, SPORTS EDITOR

SPORTS SECTION — MONROE, LOUISIANA, SUNDAY, AUGUST 23, 1936 — SPORTS SECTION



A 'BREATHER'

Last Sunday a New Orleans newspaper took Tulane's 1936 football schedule apart and analyzed the Greenies' chances for the coming season. Tulane, according to the writer, has four major objectives, listed in this order: Ole Miss, Colgate, Alabama and L. S. U. The word objective means, of course, a victory over each of the four teams.

Louisiana Tech isn't on the objective list. In fact, here is what the writer of that story—and apparently the Tulane staff—thinks of Louisiana Tech:

"Louisiana Tech, which follows the Tarheel game, will be a breather before the Alabama game. It will give Dawson and Co., the opportunity to polish off some rough spots and do some fancy pointing for 'Bama."

That, folks, will be just dandy as far as Eddie McLane and his Bulldogs are concerned. If Mr. Dawson wants any help in polishing off the rough spots of the Tulane team, the Tech squad will be more than pleased to help him. In fact, it's Tech's intention to polish off the whole Greenie eleven.

Mr. Dawson has been away from Louisiana for several years and maybe he hasn't had time to check up on all of his 1936 opponents. For his information, Tech, with a sophomore team, lost but one game last year, and that by one point. Coach McLane will have a stronger team this fall.

Tulane was singing the blues last spring. Perhaps Dawson and Co., are more optimistic now that several junior college stars have been brought in to bolster the squad. And maybe those big recruits from Minnesota and Wisconsin have improved the morale out on St. Charles avenue. We understand things are looking rosier for the Greenies with those reinforcements.

We don't mean, of course, that the odds will favor Tech in the Tulane clash. But if Mr. Dawson thinks it's going to be just a romp, some friendly Tulane alumnus should tip him off that McLane will have more than just eleven uniforms out there on the field when the whistle blows.

BIERMAN HONORED

Louisiana friends of Bernie Bierman were pleased that the former Tulane coach was selected to direct the all-star team which will play the Detroit Lions in Chicago September 1. Bierman now has cornered about all the honors that a football coach could desire. His Minnesota teams have gone through three undefeated seasons and now the fans of the nation have voted him the outstanding football tutor of 'em all.

Bierman has developed an unusually successful "system" of football. It's taken directly from the fundamentals established by the late Dr. Henry L. Williams, whose Minnesota shift was one of the most enduring basic offensives the game has had. Bierman has modified this shift for the purpose of adding speed to power.

Last year he went a step beyond the ordinary unbalanced line which had a guard or tackle shifting to the strong side. He moved two men over and had both guards, both tackles and one end playing to the right of center and only an end playing to the left. He rarely unbalances his line to the left, although he has such formations for use near the goal line if the position of the ball on the field requires them. Ordinarily he uses the standard single wing back formation, but varies it occasionally by using two tail backs, the man in the ordinary fullback position of the single wing formation falling back on a line with the halfback. This sets up a formation for reverses and quick thrusts at the weak side.

Bierman's weak side plays have developed such power with such speed that they are often more effective than his strong side plays. His theory is to strike fast with massed interference and his offense is beautifully designed to deliver the strokes with a variety of plays.

There are some coaches, of course, who do not subscribe in full to Bierman's theories of football, but after all, Bernie's record proves their soundness. They win games for him, and how!

GOING UP

The work of Hal Willis as an umpire in the Ouachita Valley league has attracted more than the usual amount of favorable comment this season. Baseball scouts and others who have toured the Valley circuit agree that Hal will make an efficient arbiter in pro baseball if he decides to seek such employment.

Willis had an opportunity to show his ability before New Orleans audiences during the recent American Legion junior baseball playoffs and turned in a neat job. He worked the state series and then was called back to officiate in the Louisiana-Texas regional games.

Professional baseball seeks recruits for its staffs of umpires, just as the pro clubs always welcome promising players. Willis' work in the Valley loop this summer qualifies him for advancement.

EASY MONEY

A local fight fan pulled a fast one Tuesday night and pocketed $5 for his trouble.

Stopping by The World to learn how the Louis-Sharkey fight was going, he arrived just as the "flash" announcing Louis' third-round knockout was received. He immediately left the building and as he walked out of the front door he noticed five or six persons gathered around an automobile across the street. They were listening to the fight as it was broadcast from a station which apparently was not getting it direct from ringside.

Sauntering up, he found that the broadcast was in the second round.

"I'll lay ten to five that Sharkey doesn't last three rounds," the wise boy said.

"It's a bet," said one of the listeners, producing a five spot.

A minute later the relayed broadcast revealed that Mr. Sharkey had been stretched out cold by a couple of lefts after one minute and two seconds of the third round.

The party of the first part pocketed his five and strolled off down the street with his map split wide open in a grin.

KNOCK! KNOCK!

The latest "Knock! Knock!" gag has come out of the golf course locker rooms. They say it happened at Lakeside Country club, but we couldn't vouch for that.

In answer to the usual query, "Who is it?" comes the reply, "Stymie."

"Stymie who?" you ask.

"Stymie bought me another drink!" is the comeback.

RED BIRDS BOOST LEAD OVER IDLE GIANTS IN RACE

Winford Holds Pittsburgh To Six Hits In Winning Close Victory

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—With the New York Giants idle because of rain, the St. Louis Cardinals were able to increase their National league lead to one full game today when they nosed out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3.

Jim Winford held the Pirates to six hits, allowing only two of them up to the eighth inning, when Pittsburgh scored its trio of runs. He had enough in reserve to check the rally and finish out the game a victor.

Lloyd Waner sent the Redbirds off to a first-inning lead when he dropped Terry Moore's outfield fly for a two-base error. Manager Frankie Frisch followed with an honest-to-goodness double to score the first run.

Bill Swift then hooked up with Winford in a tight pitching duel, allowing the Cardinals only one hit in the next five innings.

The first batter in the seventh was Pepper Martin and his long home run set off the fireworks for a three-run rally. Joe Medwick followed with a double. Johnny Mize singled, scoring Medwick, and went around himself on a wild pitch and long flies by Leo Durocher and Art Garibaldi.

REDS DOWN CUBS

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Good relief pitching by Ray Davis, plus homers by Lew Riggs and Babe Herman and a sixth inning, two run pinch double by Gilly Campbell, gave Cincinnati a 6 to 4 victory over the Cubs before 18,793 fans today.

It was the fading National league champions' ninth defeat in their last 13 games.

Gabby Hartnett homered for the Cubs, who got 10 hits, but the champs had two runners on with none out in the sixth and again with one out in the seventh and couldn't score against Davis.

The latter replaced Paul Derringer, who received technical credit for the victory, after Derringer had been removed to allow Campbell to bat for him in the sixth.

Chicago's observance of the National league's 60th anniversary preceded the game.

LEADING BATTERS

(By Associated Press)

Earl Averill of the Indians and Lou Gehrig of the Yankees shot back into the one-two spots in baseball's batting "big six" yesterday as Roy Weatherly, Averill's rookie teammate, slid from the leadership to third place in the American league. Averill got three hits in four times up to boost his mark two points to .385. Gehrig collected three safeties in six chances, climbing to .383, while Weatherly dropped six percentage points by going hitless in four trips to the plate.

CLOSE RACE IN COTTON STATES

Schedule Ends Today With Four Teams Fighting For First Place

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Cotton States league ends its 1936 season tomorrow practically as it began it.

After 140 games of baseball, there isn't enough difference between the first and fourth place clubs to split a hair.

In fact, the concluding Sunday double headers tomorrow night might see the fourth-place El Dorado Lions in first place.

All in all, it doesn't make a lot of difference because the 1936 champion will be decided under the Shaughnessy play-off system.

The mathematical margins by which Greenwood, Greenville, Pine Bluff and El Dorado finish will mean nothing in the playoff except in the matter of pride and pairings.

But the close fight for the first division berths has enlivened interest in the league race, resulting in increased attendance with Jackson and Cleveland's second division clubs possible exceptions.

Before Saturday's games, Greenwood and Greenville were tied for first place in the unofficial standings, Pine Bluff was only a half-game back and El Dorado was only one and one-half games behind the leaders.

Helena, the fifth team in the standings, is definitely out of the running, and tomorrow's garrison finish among the four leaders will settle only the issue of who plays who in the playoff.

Directors of the four first place clubs will meet at Greenville Monday to make plans for the playoff.

The No. 1 team will play the No. 4 team, and the No. 2 team will meet the No. 3 team in a "best three out of five" series, with the winners meeting in a 7-game series to decide the championship.

The first division club managers, Lena Styles of Greenville, Frank Brazill of Greenwood, "Cowboy" Jones of Pine Bluff and Frank O'Rourke of El Dorado, all profess confidence of winning the playoff no matter what scramble tomorrow's closing games make of the standings.

MEET AT GREENVILLE

GREENVILLE, Miss., Aug. 22.—(AP)—With the Cotton States league playing season of 140 games closing tomorrow with a series of four double headers, J. Walter Morris, Shreveport, La., president of the circuit, has called a meeting to be held here Monday morning to arrange for the Shaughnessy play-off series to determine the league championship.

Greenville closes the season tomorrow with a twin bill at Helena. El Dorado closes at Greenwood, Pine Bluff finishes at Cleveland and Jackson at Clarksdale.

OUACHITA VALLEY

SWARTZ AT BROWN

The Brown Paper Mill Brownies, who lost their first game in the Ouachita Valley league's second half flag race last week, will be on the spot again today when they face the Swartz Carbon Blackers, first half winners, at the Brown park, beginning at 3:30 o'clock.

After winning 11 straight games and taking a twelfth victory on a forfeit from the disbanding Winnfield club, the Brownies lost their thirteenth game of the half to the Sterlington Engineers. The victory moved the Engineers to within a game and a half of the locals' lead.

Swartz follows closely on the heels of Sterlington and would like nothing better than to overhaul the Papermakers in today's battle.

A large crowd is expected to be on hand for the game, and due to the fact that the Brownies have only three more home games, all on Sunday, special efforts are being made by Brownie boosters to get out the largest crowds of the season for the few remaining games.

Manager Herbert Steed had not decided last night on his battery for today.

TIGER FOOTBALL SQUAD TO BEGIN WORK TOMORROW

Brown Expects At Least 50 Candidates For Team This Season

The Neville High school Tigers will go into training this week for their 1936 football campaign, Coach Percy Brown, who is beginning his sixth season with the Bengals, announced last night.

Coach Brown expects at least 50 candidates for the eleven to be on hand for the first session Monday morning at 9 o'clock on the Neville athletic field.

The Tiger situation will be practically reversed this season from what it was last year. With a strong backfield last fall, Coach Brown was faced with the problem of building up his line. This year, with a veteran forward wall, he has a revamping job to do on his backfield.

However, the Tiger mentor believes his eleven this year will be stronger than the team that lost only one conference game last season.

Despite the loss of Richard Basco, Harris Bell, Pete Haddad, Jim Davis and Lavelle Green from the backfield, Coach Brown still has the consolation of having the veteran line plunging Andrew Pappas returning in the fullback's post. Next to Pappas, the diminutive Milo Mattinson, who will probably find himself in the thick of the Tiger battles this fall, is the most experienced of the backs.

Joe Gimler, stellar Tiger end, who was on the receiving end of numerous passes and a big factor in the Bengals' aerial attack, won't be at his old end position this year, if Coach Brown's present plans are carried out. The scarcity of backs will probably necessitate the shifting of Gimler to a halfback post, where Coach Brown feels certain the speedy end will prove more valuable.

New prospects for the backfield are Ben Downing, Jr., Billy Bendel, H. St. John, L. E. Wells, Walter Brady and Marvin Spaugh.

With only Ed Tonore, tackle, and Darius Crews and Nick Danna, guards, lost from the line, the Tigers will be well fixed with returning lettermen for the line positions. Bob Prophit and Urbane Kelly are strong contenders for the wing berths. John Ernest Cole and Edward Endom, both tipping the scales around 185 pounds, will be back in the tackle slots, and G. C. Kelly and George Sager are the best bets for the guard positions. The veteran P. A. Poag, Jr., will be back at the center post. Sager is probably the least experienced of the present setup of linemen, but he was in enough games last year to know what it's all about, Coach Brown said.

The training sessions will be short for the first week but will be given twice each day, at 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Only the limbering up and conditioning exercises will figure in the first couple of weeks practice before Coach Brown pins his charges down to the harder tasks of blocking, tackling and learning plays.

MATTHEWS FIGHTS JUDE ON TALLULAH PROGRAM

TALLULAH, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Oscar Matthews, 21-year-old north Louisiana negro heavyweight fighter, will resume his ring activities Monday night at the Tallulah fair grounds, when he meets Gene Jude, Mississippi fighter, in a ten-round main event.

For the past three months Matthews has been nursing an injured eye which he received in a bout in Vicksburg with Kid Chickasha, Mobile fighter.

Matthews has won twelve fights, eleven by the knockout route.

The fight Monday will mean a lot if he wins, according to Matthews' manager, due to the fact that Memphis, New Orleans, Vicksburg, Jackson and Mobile promoters are demanding his services for the winter months.

Arrangements are being made to have the Mobile fighter, Chickasha, to meet Matthews at Vicksburg on Labor day.

BRADDOCK LEAVES SUNDAY FOR HOSPITAL IN FLORIDA

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—James J. Braddock, world heavyweight boxing champion, leaves tomorrow night for Venice, Fla., where he will undergo treatment for his injured hand, which forced postponement of his September title match with Max Schmeling.

Braddock will be accompanied by Dr. Fred Albee, bone specialist whose examination of the champion's hand led to the postponement of the fight.

The champion plans to stay at the Florida medical center until cured, then go to Hot Springs, Ark., for a month after which he will spend several months in the north woods getting in condition for defense of his crown next year. He will report back to the New York state athletic commission, September 15.

TWILIGHT SERIES STARTS TUESDAY

St. Matthew's Meets Southern Bell In Title Games At Casino Park

Southern Bell and the St Matthew's Ushers will clash in the first game of the final series for the Twilight league championship at the Casino park Tuesday afternoon, beginning at 5 o'clock.

The Ushers, who finished first in the league standing at the end of the season's schedule, won their way into the finals by winning two straight over the Methodists in the semi-finals. Bell became a finalist in winning two straight from the Baptists.

The first team to win two games in the finals will become the new Twilight league champions and will represent their league in a series with Adler's Garage, City league champions, for the citywide title.

Southern Bell played impressive ball all season and was at the top in the league standings throughout most of the summer. But the Ushers, who started the year under the banner of the Progressive Men's club, rose from a second division club to a powerful aggregation before the schedule ended and took the league leadership from Southern Bell by winning the last game on their schedule.

Garner, the ace St. Matthew's hurler, will go to the mound for the Ushers with Charlie Bruscato catching. Couch will probably do the Bell pitching and Henry catching.

A small admission charge will be made for the championship games.

BAKERS PLAY CLARKS IN TWO GAMES TODAY

The Bakers' softball team of the Twilight league will meet the powerful Clarks aggregation in a double header this afternoon on the Missouri Pacific lot, Manager Bill Bennett of the Bakers announced yesterday. The first game is scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock.

The Clarks team is reputedly one of the strongest in this vicinity, and one of the few teams to chalk up a victory over the highly touted Adler's Garage ten, City league champions. Clarks' record shows one victory over Adler against two defeats by the Garagemen, and several wins over the Winnsboro Lions, it was said.

The Breadmen have secured the services of two other Twilight league performers, DeMarchi of the Firemen, and Wood of the Baptists, for the battles. Otherwise the Baker club will be intact. Woods will probably catch both games, it was announced, while DeMarchi will share the hurling chores with Manager Bennett.

NATS HIT 3 HOME RUNS IN ONE INNING TO TIE RECORD

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Washington tied the American league record for home runs by one club in a single inning when three batsmen hit for the circuit in the fourth inning of the first game with the Athletics today.

Rhodes was on the mound for the A's when Kress, Kuhel and Reynolds hit the homers. The Senators got two other hits that inning and a total of five runs.

The three-homer mark was achieved 20 times in the American league prior to the 1936 season. The major league record for home runs by one club in one inning is held by the National league. Pittsburgh established it with four in 1894 and Chicago equalled it in 1930.

DICKEY'S SINGLE SCORES WINNING RUN OFF GROVE

Gehrig's 39th Home Run Features Extra-Inning Battle Of Hurlers

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Bill Dickey came through "in the clutch" today with a run-producing single to break up a 13-inning pitching duel and gave Johnny Broaca and the Yankees a 3 to 2 victory over Lefty Grove and the Boston Red Sox.

Lou Gehrig's 39th homer, with none on in the seventh, aided the Yankees' cause, and Jimmy Foxx hammered out his 33rd to tie the score in the ninth.

Broaca allowed but seven hits, walked only two and struck out five in chalking up his ninth victory against six defeats. Grove held murderers' row to nine hits, fanned half a dozen and passed only three in losing his ninth game, compared to 15 wins.

Both hurlers pitched scoreless ball until the sixth, when each club scored. Foxx, the Sox batting hero of the day, sent a long fly to center field to drive in Grove, who had walked. Frank Crosetti doubled and Joe DiMaggio tripled to bring in the Yankee tally.

Gehrig's homer sent the Yanks ahead in the next frame, and they held the edge until the Foxx four-bagger tied it up.

The winning rally in the 13th was slow in starting. With one out, Red Rolfe walked. DiMaggio's fly was the second out. Gehrig singled Rolfe along to third, and then, with two away, Dickey banged a single to right field, sending the third-sacker over with the winning run.

SLAGLE MEETS WESTENBERG IN RETURN BOUT

'RUBBER MAN' TO SEEK REVENGE IN TUESDAY BATTLE

Jack League To Tangle With 'Sun' Jennings In Semi-Final Bout

Sol Slagle, the Kansas "rubber man," will get another crack at Marvin Westenberg, southern heavyweight wrestling champion.

Promoter Phillip Lisotta announced yesterday that he had booked Slagle and Westenberg for a return match on next Tuesday night's wrestling card and added that he hoped Slagle won.

Last week Slagle pinned Westenberg in the third and deciding fall of a fast match but Referee "Butch" Martin was kayoed during the melee and didn't come to until Marvin had broken the hold. Martin awarded the fall and the match to Westenberg and Lisotta hopped into the ring and "reversed" the decision. However, the referee's decision goes, so Slagle got gypped.

Slagle raised a mighty howl and after he found that he couldn't get anywhere with his claim of victory, he asked that he be given another crack at Westenberg. At first Marvin refused, Lisotta said, but finally agreed to meet the "rubber man."

Slagle stipulated that there must be another referee in the ring, and Lisotta has signed Jack League, clever Texan who will wrestle in the semi-final, to handle the match. League refereed a recent bout at the stadium and turned in the best job seen here in many months. Sol is confident he can beat the champion if given a fair shake.

In a statement yesterday, Lisotta defended his action in jumping into the ring and reversing Martin's decision.

"I have been called upon to explain my action," Lisotta said. "In the first place, Westenberg violated every rule in the book and should have been disqualified within the first ten minutes when he hit Slagle low to break a hold that would have thrown him. Second, Westenberg was pinned in the third fall for fully two minutes. It wasn't Slagle's fault that Martin was knocked out and Martin had no business at all breaking the hold which Slagle had at the time. I am bringing Slagle back here in the hope that he can beat Westenberg and I can assure him of a fair deal in the ring with League handling the match."

In the semi-final, League will tangle with "Sun" Jennings, tough former Centenary football star who made his local debut last week by beating Bob Wagner. League has wrestled here a couple of times before and already has won a large following. He's a clean, clever performer who apparently has convinced the stadium customers that he's a real top-notcher.

Jennings relies chiefly on the rough stuff and League undoubtedly will have his hands full.

Both matches will be best two out of three falls, with the main event limited to two hours and the semi-final having a one-hour time limit.

KANSAS CITY STAR GOES TO TRI-STATE NET FINAL

EL DORADO, Ark., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Ed Lorfing, brilliant young Kansas City, Kas., racquet wielder, continued his drive toward the men's singles trophy in the tri-states tennis tourney here today by defeating Lasker Ehman, Austin, Tex., seeded No. 8, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Spectacular shot-making and hard-fought matches featured the third day of the tournament's play which saw Marilyn "Sunny" McRae, Little Rock, defending champion advance to the women's singles finals.

The victory gave Lorfing the right to meet Defending Champion Sterling Williams of Austin in the finals to be played tomorrow afternoon.

Playing an erratic game, Williams defeated Jack Smith of Fort Worth, 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Mildred Crowe of Shreveport, seeded No. 2, was defeated by La Vern Stages of Fort Worth, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, in the number one upset in the women's division.

The victory will pit two left-handed players in the finals as Miss Stages and Miss McRae battle it out tomorrow.

DODGERS WHIP PHILS

BROOKLYN, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Dodgers belted three Phillies pitchers for 17 hits and a 12 to 3 victory today in the opener of their current series.

George Watkins was the Brooklyn batting hero, banging out a homer with two mates on base and driving in another run with a double.

Ed Brandt was touched for ten hits by the Phils, but never was in danger of being driven to cover, as his mates shoved two runs over in the third and scored their other ten by clusters of five each in the fifth and eighth.

RIGGS BEATS PARKER IN FINAL AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Bobby Riggs of Los Angeles, the young national clay court champion, gained his first outstanding turf victory today when he defeated the more experienced Frankie Parker of Spring Lake, N. J., in the Newport casino singles tennis final.

They met as finalists for the fourth time this season and, after a brilliant battle on a slow and heavy court, Riggs gained an 8-6, 6-4, 8-10, 3-6, 6-1 triumph.

Parker overcame him in their last two grass court clashes, on his home court at Spring Lake and in the championship round of the Longwood Bowl tourney at Brookline, Mass.

Parker, who won the doubles with Frank Shields, now a film actor, here last year, went to this year's finals with Gregory Mangin of Newark and those New Jerseyites were soundly trounced by the American Davis cup team, Don Budge and Gene Mako, 6-1, 6-3, 6-4.

Parker and Mangin were widely out-classed by the internationalists during the doubles final. Both of the Davis cuppers performed in brilliant fashion with Mako exceptionally effective. The Los Angeles man was unbreakable and the only time they were cracked was against Budge's service.

OKLAHOMA YOUTH LEADS FIVE-STATE SKEET SHOOT

MARSHALL, Tex., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Billy Clayton, 18-year-old pint-sized youth from Calvin, Okla., who practices on a home made trap in his back yard, was the sensation of the opening round of the Southwestern Skeet shoot here today.

Clayton broke 149 out of 150 targets to lead a field of 73 marksmen from the five-state area of Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and New Mexico.

He lost only one target in 75 shots in a special event this morning, making only two misses in 225 firings and registering a string of 160 consecutive hits.

Trailing Clayton at the end of the round today at 150 targets were Al Weiland, 145; A. V. Holland, 142; George Debes, 141; W. C. Dunkum, 140, and Bob Sellers, 140.

E. D. Lindsey of Paris, former world's champion, led the professionals with 149 strikes. His shooting included a string of 155 perfect shots.

AWAITS TECHMEN

Head Coach Eddie McLane, above, who last fall gave Louisiana Tech wide-spread publicity through a winning football team, is ready to "get going" again. He has called for a round-up of his gridiron candidates at Ruston on September 2. The Techmen will have one month in which to prepare for their opener, to be played at Ruston on the night of October 2 with the West Tennessee Teachers of Memphis, newcomers on the Tech schedule.

OUACHITA BEGINS TRAINING AUG. 31

Haynes Advises Football Candidates To Begin Getting In Shape

The Ouachita Parish High school football squad will start fall practice on Monday, August 31, Coach Vernon "Lefty" Haynes announced last night. Coach Haynes returned from the national guard encampment at Alexandria yesterday and prepared to depart today for his former home at Lake Village, Ark., for a short visit.

Coach Haynes asked that all candidates for the squad start getting into condition this week.

"While active training doesn't start until the week of August 31, it would be well for all Ouachita players to start getting into shape," he said. "That's just a friendly tip. There will be plenty of hard work and unless they begin to taper off their 'summer schedule' they may find it a bit hard on the constitution.

"I suggest that prospective candidates take a little jogging exercise during the coming week to start toughening up their legs. They will find it exceedingly helpful in placing them in shape to stand the training grind. When we begin active work, we expect to hit a fast clip and there won't be any let-up until the regular schedule of games begins."

Coach Haynes said he expects every candidate to be able to report on August 31 in fairly good shape. With the present week to become accustomed to training routine by foregoing the usual pleasures of the "out-of-training" period, the Lion gridiron candidates should be ready for serious work by next Monday, Coach Haynes said.

Coach Haynes will return to Monroe this week-end to prepare for the opening of the Lions' camp.

BOMBER LEARNED LITTLE FROM HIS DEFEAT BY MAX

Detroit Negro's Chin Continues To Be Unprotected At All Times

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—It really is too bad that Max Schmeling is so bent on fighting Jim Braddock, retiring with the title, and giving the Aryans a permanent symbol of supremacy.

If Schmeling wasn't so determined to wait until next summer, or whenever Braddock's left hand heals, we might finally get this Louis question settled and escape another long build-up of the colored clouter.

Many boxing experts once more are trotting out $3 adjectives in describing Louis. On the strength of his bowling over Jack Sharkey in the third round, the Schmeling disaster was just a mistake, in their opinion.

No doubt it is because a good share of the boxing writers and ringworms are so easily led that a broken down bloke like Sharkey can be resurrected as an attraction. At that, a New York-Brooklyn double header on the afternoon of the scrap drew 20,000 more customers, showing that the trade gave the Dodgers a better chance than Sharkey.

Louis quickly made it plain that it was a mistake to bring Sharkey back at 37. The gob is three years older than the record books indicate. Mediocre showings in warmups did not warrant his being in the same inclosure with Louis three years after the Bostonian had been knocked out by Primo Carnera's invisible uppercut, bounced around by King Levinsky, and outgalloped by Tommy Loughran.

Naturally, Louis looked better knocking out Sharkey than he did being knocked out by Schmeling. They usually look good winning. But the suspicion exists that it was Sharkey's shortcomings that made Louis look so formidable. The sailor failed to follow in the slightest the pattern for whipping Louis given him by Schmeling.

There was no change in the Louis style. He shuffled in with his left guard low, just as he did against Schmeling. He followed through with his prognathous jaw in using his crooked left jab. His chin was there to be hit, but the difference this trip was that there was no one there to hit it.

Schmeling demonstrated that Louis was a mark for a right hand punch, but Sharkey kept his right frozen to his breast. Only once did he let it

BASTROP GOLFERS PLAY HERE TODAY

Morehouse Contingent Engages Lakeside Players In Club Match

Approximately thirty members of the Morehouse Country club of Bastrop will come to Monroe today to meet a squad of Lakeside Country club players in an inter-city match. The first foursome will tee off at the Lakeside course at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The Bastrop players not only will engage the local divot diggers in a club match but will qualify for the annual Labor Day tournament to be staged at the Lakeside club on September 5, 6 and 7.

The inter-club matches between Lakeside and Morehouse are always closely contested and another interesting match is expected today.

It was announced yesterday that the country club course is in excellent shape for today's match and next week's tournament. Despite the recent hot weather, the greens and fairways are in good condition. A new greens mower has been received at the Lakeside course and has helped place the greens in A-1 shape.

More than 100 golfers of this section are expected to enter the annual Labor Day tournament. Prizes which and are on display at the clubhouse, will be awarded have been received The prize list this year is more elaborate than in any previous tournament, it was said.

Beginning Monday, the Lakeside course will be thrown open to golfers of Ouachita parish who wish to familiarize themselves with the layout. No green fee will be charged.

RAYVILLE FACES HEAVY SCHEDULE THIS SEASON

RAYVILLE, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Rayville will have its toughest schedule when work is started on the 1936 lineup. The Hornets play every class A team but two in the northeast Louisiana district. There is little chance of coming through undefeated but if they do, it will mean an uncontested championship of the district.

The material for a team at Rayville will be a bit better than last year's. The first year men of 1935 will be a year older and some heavier. They averaged 134 pounds last year and only 16 years in age. There will be five boys lost from the 1935 team but the majority of those left will have had some playing experience.

Football practice will start September 1 for the Hornets. School opens late this year and as a result the opening game will be four days after the opening of the school term. This means that most of the boys will be able to practice only a few days.

FERRELL TO GET ANOTHER CHANCE

Cronin May Lift Pitcher's Suspension Monday But Fine Sticks

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The suspension Wes Ferrell's temperament drew from the Boston Red Sox may end any time after Monday, instead of lasting the rest of the season as scheduled at first, but the $1,000 fine pinned on him sticks for good.

Manager Joe Cronin of the Sox, denying reports that there had been any previous rift between himself and his ace right hander, explained today that the suspension is for an indefinite period and not for the season.

"He'll come back whenever the club thinks he's ready," Cronin said. "But if the suspension lasts more than ten days, he can appeal for reinstatement to Commissioner Kenesaw Landis, under the rules."

Cronin handed out the punishment after Ferrell walked out of the pitcher's box and off the field without orders in yesterday's game with the Yankees, Scribes traveling with the club said it was the second similar action by Ferrell in a week, but Cronin denied this.

The pitcher and pilot talked over the matter last night, but got nowhere, and Ferrell left for Boston this morning, while the club remained in New York for the rest of its series with the Yanks.

Ferrell, saying he was "puzzled" over the whole thing, explained he thought Cronin had "waved" him out of the game, from the dugout.

"There's nothing to that story," Cronin said. "Ferrell knows I don't wave my pitchers off. If that were true, there wouldn't be anything to it, and the case would be closed.

"I'll see Ferrell again in Boston Monday."

HAAS, D'ANTONI TIE AT ORLEANS

Final 18 Holes Of Open Tournament Delayed By Rain; Cole Out

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Freddie Haas, Jr., Canadian amateur titlist, blew a three stroke advantage in the Louisiana Open golf tournament here today and was forced to share the 54-hole lead with young Vincent D'Antoni, New Orleans city champion.

Haas went to pieces on the back nine of today's round, taking a 41 for an 18-hole total of 77 and a 54-hole aggregate of 222.

D'Antoni turned in a 74 today to tie Haas' 54-hole total, while George Bush, also of New Orleans stroked a neat 72 to move into third place with 226.

Alvin Buckhaults of Mobile, dropped from third to fourth place by virtue of a ragged 80, which brought his third round total to 232, a stroke ahead of Johnny Camet, unattached New Orleans pro, and Henry Thomas, also of New Orleans.

The final 18 holes was scheduled to be played today, but a heavy rain stopped play shortly after noon and the last round will be completed tomorrow. The tournament is being played at the municipal course.

Third round scores in the Louisiana Open tournament and totals for the 54-holes follow:

Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans, 77-222; Vincent D'Antoni, New Orleans, 74-222; George Bush, New Orleans, 72-226; Alvin Buckhaults, Mobile, 80-233; John Camet, New Orleans, 77-233; Henry Thomas, New Orleans, 77-233; Jimmy Cole, Baton Rouge, 79-235; Jack Jackson, Alexandria, 80-237; Leo Silva, New Orleans, 77-237; Innes Millar, New Orleans, 82-240; Fred Haas, Sr., New Orleans, 78-240; Floyd Rood, New Orleans, 82-242; Barney Short, New Orleans, 84-243.

Sidney Danjean, New Orleans, 81-244; E. DIXIE HOWELL TO COACH AT LOYOLA

Former Alabama Star To Have Charge Of Backfield Candidates

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22—(AP)—Millard (Dixie) Howell, Alabama Rose Bowl star of 1935, will become backfield coach for Loyola university (New Orleans.)

Announcement of the appointment was made today by "Moon" Ducote, athletics director of Loyola. Ducote said Howell would report by September 5 as assistant to Head Coach Eddie Reed and that this addition would greatly strengthen the coaching staff of Loyola.

Ducote said Howell also would have charge of varsity punters and passers, departments in which as a player he said Howell "had no equal" during the season of 1934 while a member of the famous Alabama team—Rose Bowl champions.

On the New Year's day Howell starred in the game in which Alabama defeated Stanford 29 to 13. In that game Howell ran 67 yards for a touchdown. He scored the first touchdown against Stanford, bucking the line from the six yard stripe.

Howell also returned several punts to put his team in scoring position. He completed eight out of eight passes and one of them resulted in a 60 yard gain for a touchdown.

Ducote today described Howell as "as good a back as I have ever seen." "He is the best running back I ever saw," said Ducote, "the best passer and a good kicker. He wasn't called on to do lots of blocking, but he could do that too. He was a marvel at returning punts and couldn't be beat in this respect."

Howell's great passing game helped to sweep his team to the southeastern conference championship in his last year of football at Alabama.

He will have a chance to match his men and his wits against Alabama, his alma mater, on October 23 when Loyola plays the Crimson team at New Orleans.

Howell is now playing baseball with Toledo.

Ellerbe Appointed Coach At St. Louis High School

Denson "Togo" Ellerbe, former Northeast Center of L. S. U. tackle, was in Monroe yesterday for a short visit preparatory to going to St. Louis, Mo., where he will begin his first season as head coach and physical educational director at Southside High school.

Ellerbe, who was on his way to Winnsboro for a short visit with his parents before going to St. Louis said he secured the coaching job soon after he had won the Texas A. A. F heavyweight boxing championship last April. Besides football, Ellerbe said he was to coach basketball, boxing and track.

The 25-year-old athlete spent two seasons as a tackle for Northeast Center in 1933 and 1934 and previous to that played a guard position on the Centenary college eleven. He attended high school at Winnsboro, his home town.

U. S. AMATEURS TO COMPETE FOR TOURNEY PLACES

Golfers Throughout Nation Meet In Qualifying Rounds Tuesday

By Scotty Reston
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—America's finest amateur golfers—those with five bucks and a handicap of three or under—will compete for 180 places Tuesday in the sectional qualifying tests for the National Amateur championship.

With Lawson Little, winner of the title the last two years, now a professional, 1,067 players will be trying for the places in the 36-hole test over 30 courses in all parts of the country.

The survivors of the sectional rounds will be supplemented by 10 members of the British Walker Cup team, eight former U. S. amateur champions, and six Pacific coast players who qualified August 11. The entire field will go into match play rounds, September 14-19, over the historic Garden City, L. I., golf club course.

The exempted players of the British Walker Cup team, who arrive in New York aboard the S. S. Transylvania Monday primarily to prepare for the Walker Cup matches at Pine Valley, N. J., September 2-3, are Capt. William F. Tweddell, Harry Bentley, J. Morton Dykes, Cecil Ewing, Alec Hill, J. D. Langley, P. B. Lucas, Jack McLean, Gordon Peters and Hector Thomson, the British Amateur champion.

Also aboard the Transylvania will be Tony Torrance, A. P. Aitken, Lieut. Col. H. A. Boyd, H. E. Taylor, Stanley Morrison, and Henry Longhurst, who also will represent Great Britain in our championship. They will not be required to qualify.

Two years ago, all former U. S. amateur champions were invited by the United States Golf association to play in the amateur without playing in the qualifying tests. Those who accepted the invitation this year were George Dunlap, Chick Evans, Jesse

CALIFORNIA STAR TAKES PUBLIC PARKS NET TITLE

ST LOUIS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Louis Wetherell, 20-year-old University of Southern California tennis star from Los Angeles, became singles champion of the nation's public parks today when he defeated Carl Fischer of Detroit 5-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

The Californian's net game crumpled Fischer's hitherto unyielding baseline defense.

Wetherell's victory brought the men's title to California, famed for its tennis luminaries, for the first time since Cranston Holman won the 1923 tournament.

Detroit suffered its second title setback when its defending women's doubles champions Constance O'Donovan and Mrs. Esther Pollard, went down in the finals before the driving play of Edna Smith and Irene David of Cleveland, 6-4, 6-2.

California's hopes for a second title in the tournament were carried into the final round of the women's singles by Elizabeth Deike of Pasadena, the defending champion, who vanquished a compatriot, Marjorie Lauderbach of Los Angeles, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Miss Deike tomorrow faces Helen Germaine New York chopstroker, who she defeated in straight sets at New Orleans last year. Miss Germaine reached the finals with a 6-2, 1-6, 6-2 victory over Miss Smith.

DISCOVERY EASILY WINS $3,000 WHITNEY STAKES

SARATOGA SPRINGS N. Y. Aug. 22.—(AP)—Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Discovery held at the short odds of 1 to 5 in a four-horse field, easily won the mile and a quarter of the $3,000 Whitney stakes today. Discovery ran the distance over a muddy track in 2:06 4-5. Johnny Beghaz eased the son of Display up in the stretch but he finished eight lengths in front of Mrs. William Ziegler's Esposa.

SLAGLE MEETS WESTENBERG IN RETURN BOUT

'RUBBER MAN' TO SEEK REVENGE IN TUESDAY BATTLE

Jack League To Tangle With 'Sun' Jennings In Semi-Final Bout

Sol Slagle, the Kansas "rubber man," will get another crack at Marvin Westenberg, southern heavyweight wrestling champion.

Promoter Phillip Lisotta announced yesterday that he had booked Slagle and Westenberg for a return match on next Tuesday night's wrestling card and added that he hoped Slagle won.

Last week Slagle pinned Westenberg in the third and deciding fall of a fast match but Referee "Butch" Martin was kayoed during the melee and didn't come to until Marvin had broken the hold. Martin awarded the fall and the match to Westenberg and Lisotta hopped into the ring and "reversed" the decision. However, the referee's decision goes, so Slagle got gypped.

Slagle raised a mighty howl and after he found that he couldn't get anywhere with his claim of victory, he asked that he be given another crack at Westenberg. At first Marvin refused, Lisotta said, but finally agreed to meet the "rubber man."

Slagle stipulated that there must be another referee in the ring, and Lisotta has signed Jack League, clever Texan who will wrestle in the semi-final, to handle the match. League refereed a recent bout at the stadium and turned in the best job seen here in many months. Sol is confident he can beat the champion if given a fair shake.

In a statement yesterday, Lisotta defended his action in jumping into the ring and reversing Martin's decision.

"I have been called upon to explain my action," Lisotta said. "In the first place, Westenberg violated every rule in the book and should have been disqualified within the first ten minutes when he hit Slagle low to break a hold that would have thrown him. Second, Westenberg was pinned in the third fall for fully two minutes. It wasn't Slagle's fault that Martin was knocked out and Martin had no business at all breaking the hold which Slagle had at the time. I am bringing Slagle back here in the hope that he can beat Westenberg and I can assure him of a fair deal in the ring with League handling the match."

In the semi-final, League will tangle with "Sun" Jennings, tough former Centenary football star who made his local debut last week by beating Bob Wagner. League has wrestled here a couple of times before and already has won a large following. He's a clean, clever performer who apparently has convinced the stadium customers that he's a real top-notcher.

Jennings relies chiefly on the rough stuff and League undoubtedly will have his hands full.

Both matches will be best two out of three falls, with the main event limited to two hours and the semi-final having a one-hour time limit.

KANSAS CITY STAR GOES TO TRI-STATE NET FINAL

EL DORADO, Ark., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Ed Lorfing, brilliant young Kansas City, Kas., racquet wielder, continued his drive toward the men's singles trophy in the tri-states tennis tourney here today by defeating Lasker Ehman, Austin, Tex., seeded No. 8, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Spectacular shot-making and hard-fought matches featured the third day of the tournament's play which saw Marilyn "Sunny" McRae, Little Rock, defending champion advance to the women's singles finals.

The victory gave Lorfing the right to meet Defending Champion Sterling Williams of Austin in the finals to be played tomorrow afternoon.

Playing an erratic game, Williams defeated Jack Smith of Fort Worth, 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Mildred Crowe of Shreveport, seeded No. 2, was defeated by La Vern Stages of Fort Worth, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, in the number one upset in the women's division.

The victory will pit two left-handed players in the finals as Miss Stages and Miss McRae battle it out tomorrow.

DODGERS WHIP PHILS

BROOKLYN, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Dodgers belted three Phillies pitchers for 17 hits and a 12 to 3 victory today in the opener of their current series.

George Watkins was the Brooklyn batting hero, banging out a homer with two mates on base and driving in another run with a double.

Ed Brandt was touched for ten hits by the Phils, but never was in danger of being driven to cover, as his mates shoved two runs over in the third and scored their other ten by clusters of five each in the fifth and eighth.

RIGGS BEATS PARKER IN FINAL AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Bobby Riggs of Los Angeles, the young national clay court champion, gained his first outstanding turf victory today when he defeated the more experienced Frankie Parker of Spring Lake, N. J., in the Newport casino singles tennis final.

They met as finalists for the fourth time this season and, after a brilliant battle on a slow and heavy court, Riggs gained an 8-6, 6-4, 8-10, 3-6, 6-1 triumph.

Parker overcame him in their last two grass court clashes, on his home court at Spring Lake and in the championship round of the Longwood Bowl tourney at Brookline, Mass.

Parker, who won the doubles with Frank Shields, now a film actor, here last year, went to this year's finals with Gregory Mangin of Newark and those New Jerseyites were soundly trounced by the American Davis cup team, Don Budge and Gene Mako, 6-1, 6-3, 6-4.

Parker and Mangin were widely out-classed by the internationalists during the doubles final. Both of the Davis cuppers performed in brilliant fashion with Mako exceptionally effective. The Los Angeles man was unbreakable and the only time they were cracked was against Budge's service.

OKLAHOMA YOUTH LEADS FIVE-STATE SKEET SHOOT

MARSHALL, Tex., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Billy Clayton, 18-year-old pint-sized youth from Calvin, Okla., who practices on a home made trap in his back yard, was the sensation of the opening round of the Southwestern Skeet shoot here today.

Clayton broke 149 out of 150 targets to lead a field of 73 marksmen from the five-state area of Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and New Mexico.

He lost only one target in 75 shots in a special event this morning, making only two misses in 225 firings and registering a string of 160 consecutive hits.

Trailing Clayton at the end of the round today at 150 targets were Al Weiland, 145; A. V. Holland, 142; George Debes, 141; W. C. Dunkum, 140, and Bob Sellers, 140.

E. D. Lindsey of Paris, former world's champion, led the professionals with 149 strikes. His shooting included a string of 155 perfect shots.

AWAITS TECHMEN

Head Coach Eddie McLane, above, who last fall gave Louisiana Tech wide-spread publicity through a winning football team, is ready to "get going" again. He has called for a round-up of his gridiron candidates at Ruston on September 2. The Techmen will have one month in which to prepare for their opener, to be played at Ruston on the night of October 2 with the West Tennessee Teachers of Memphis, newcomers on the Tech schedule.

OUACHITA BEGINS TRAINING AUG. 31

Haynes Advises Football Candidates To Begin Getting In Shape

The Ouachita Parish High school football squad will start fall practice on Monday, August 31, Coach Vernon "Lefty" Haynes announced last night. Coach Haynes returned from the national guard encampment at Alexandria yesterday and prepared to depart today for his former home at Lake Village, Ark., for a short visit.

Coach Haynes asked that all candidates for the squad start getting into condition this week.

"While active training doesn't start until the week of August 31, it would be well for all Ouachita players to start getting into shape," he said. "That's just a friendly tip. There will be plenty of hard work and unless they begin to taper off their 'summer schedule' they may find it a bit hard on the constitution.

"I suggest that prospective candidates take a little jogging exercise during the coming week to start toughening up their legs. They will find it exceedingly helpful in placing them in shape to stand the training grind. When we begin active work, we expect to hit a fast clip and there won't be any let-up until the regular schedule of games begins."

Coach Haynes said he expects every candidate to be able to report on August 31 in fairly good shape. With the present week to become accustomed to training routine by foregoing the usual pleasures of the "out-of-training" period, the Lion gridiron candidates should be ready for serious work by next Monday, Coach Haynes said.

Coach Haynes will return to Monroe this week-end to prepare for the opening of the Lions' camp.

BOMBER LEARNED LITTLE FROM HIS DEFEAT BY MAX

Detroit Negro's Chin Continues To Be Unprotected At All Times

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—It really is too bad that Max Schmeling is so bent on fighting Jim Braddock, retiring with the title, and giving the Aryans a permanent symbol of supremacy.

If Schmeling wasn't so determined to wait until next summer, or whenever Braddock's left hand heals, we might finally get this Louis question settled and escape another long build-up of the colored clouter.

Many boxing experts once more are trotting out $3 adjectives in describing Louis. On the strength of his bowling over Jack Sharkey in the third round, the Schmeling disaster was just a mistake, in their opinion.

No doubt it is because a good share of the boxing writers and ringworms are so easily led that a broken down bloke like Sharkey can be resurrected as an attraction. At that, a New York-Brooklyn double header on the afternoon of the scrap drew 20,000 more customers, showing that the trade gave the Dodgers a better chance than Sharkey.

Louis quickly made it plain that it was a mistake to bring Sharkey back at 37. The gob is three years older than the record books indicate. Mediocre showings in warmups did not warrant his being in the same inclosure with Louis three years after the Bostonian had been knocked out by Primo Carnera's invisible uppercut, bounced around by King Levinsky, and outgalloped by Tommy Loughran.

Naturally, Louis looked better knocking out Sharkey than he did being knocked out by Schmeling. They usually look good winning. But the suspicion exists that it was Sharkey's shortcomings that made Louis look so formidable. The sailor failed to follow in the slightest the pattern for whipping Louis given him by Schmeling.

There was no change in the Louis style. He shuffled in with his left guard low, just as he did against Schmeling. He followed through with his prognathous jaw in using his crooked left jab. His chin was there to be hit, but the difference this trip was that there was no one there to hit it.

Schmeling demonstrated that Louis was a mark for a right hand punch, but Sharkey kept his right frozen to his breast. Only once did he let it

BASTROP GOLFERS PLAY HERE TODAY

Morehouse Contingent Engages Lakeside Players In Club Match

Approximately thirty members of the Morehouse Country club of Bastrop will come to Monroe today to meet a squad of Lakeside Country club players in an inter-city match. The first foursome will tee off at the Lakeside course at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The Bastrop players not only will engage the local divot diggers in a club match but will qualify for the annual Labor Day tournament to be staged at the Lakeside club on September 5, 6 and 7.

The inter-club matches between Lakeside and Morehouse are always closely contested and another interesting match is expected today.

It was announced yesterday that the country club course is in excellent shape for today's match and next week's tournament. Despite the recent hot weather, the greens and fairways are in good condition. A new greens mower has been received at the Lakeside course and has helped place the greens in A-1 shape.

More than 100 golfers of this section are expected to enter the annual Labor Day tournament. Prizes which and are on display at the clubhouse, will be awarded have been received The prize list this year is more elaborate than in any previous tournament, it was said.

Beginning Monday, the Lakeside course will be thrown open to golfers of Ouachita parish who wish to familiarize themselves with the layout. No green fee will be charged.

RAYVILLE FACES HEAVY SCHEDULE THIS SEASON

RAYVILLE, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Rayville will have its toughest schedule when work is started on the 1936 lineup. The Hornets play every class A team but two in the northeast Louisiana district. There is little chance of coming through undefeated but if they do, it will mean an uncontested championship of the district.

The material for a team at Rayville will be a bit better than last year's. The first year men of 1935 will be a year older and some heavier. They averaged 134 pounds last year and only 16 years in age. There will be five boys lost from the 1935 team but the majority of those left will have had some playing experience.

Football practice will start September 1 for the Hornets. School opens late this year and as a result the opening game will be four days after the opening of the school term. This means that most of the boys will be able to practice only a few days.

FERRELL TO GET ANOTHER CHANCE

Cronin May Lift Pitcher's Suspension Monday But Fine Sticks

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The suspension Wes Ferrell's temperament drew from the Boston Red Sox may end any time after Monday, instead of lasting the rest of the season as scheduled at first, but the $1,000 fine pinned on him sticks for good.

Manager Joe Cronin of the Sox, denying reports that there had been any previous rift between himself and his ace right hander, explained today that the suspension is for an indefinite period and not for the season.

"He'll come back whenever the club thinks he's ready," Cronin said. "But if the suspension lasts more than ten days, he can appeal for reinstatement to Commissioner Kenesaw Landis, under the rules."

Cronin handed out the punishment after Ferrell walked out of the pitcher's box and off the field without orders in yesterday's game with the Yankees. Scribes traveling with the club said it was the second similar action by Ferrell in a week, but Cronin denied this.

The pitcher and pilot talked over the matter last night, but got nowhere, and Ferrell left for Boston this morning, while the club remained in New York for the rest of its series with the Yanks.

Ferrell, saying he was "puzzled" over the whole thing, explained he thought Cronin had "waved" him out of the game, from the dugout.

"There's nothing to that story," Cronin said. "Ferrell knows I don't wave my pitchers off. If that were true, there wouldn't be anything to it, and the case would be closed.

"I'll see Ferrell again in Boston Monday."

HAAS, D'ANTONI TIE AT ORLEANS

Final 18 Holes Of Open Tournament Delayed By Rain; Cole Out

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Freddie Haas, Jr., Canadian amateur titlist, blew a three stroke advantage in the Louisiana Open golf tournament here today and was forced to share the 54-hole lead with young Vincent D'Antoni, New Orleans city champion.

Haas went to pieces on the back nine of today's round, taking a 41 for an 18-hole total of 77 and a 54-hole aggregate of 222.

D'Antoni turned in a 74 today to tie Haas' 54-hole total, while George Bush, also of New Orleans stroked a neat 72 to move into third place with 226.

Alvin Buckhaults of Mobile, dropped from third to fourth place by virtue of a ragged 80, which brought his third round total to 232, a stroke ahead of Johnny Camet, unattached New Orleans pro, and Henry Thomas, also of New Orleans.

The final 18 holes was scheduled to be played today, but a heavy rain stopped play shortly after noon and the last round will be completed tomorrow. The tournament is being played at the municipal course.

Third round scores in the Louisiana Open tournament and totals for the 54-holes follow:

Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans, 77-222; Vincent D'Antoni, New Orleans, 74-222; George Bush, New Orleans, 72-226; Alvin Buckhaults, Mobile, 80-232; John Camet, New Orleans, 77-233; Henry Thomas, New Orleans, 77-233; Jimmy Cole, Baton Rouge, 79-235; Jack Jackson, Alexandria, 80-237; Leo Silva, New Orleans, 77-237; Innes Millar, New Orleans, 82-240; Fred Haas, Sr., New Orleans, 78-240; Floyd Rood, New Orleans, 82-242; Barney Short, New Orleans, 84-243.

Sidney Danjean, New Orleans, 81-244; E. Jablonowski, New Orleans, 81-245; Ben Downing, Jr., Monroe, 82-248; Layton Fernandez, New Orleans, 86-249; Leon Laplace, New Orleans, 81-250; Pete Augusta, Baton Rouge, 84-254; Horace Culver, Mobile, 87-266; Edward Benitez, New Orleans, 90-267; J. C. Roles, New Orleans, 93-271; Milton Klumpp, Mobile, 93-272; Ward B. Miller, New Orleans, 91-282; Winnie Cole, Monroe, withdrew.

DIXIE HOWELL TO COACH AT LOYOLA

Former Alabama Star To Have Charge Of Backfield Candidates

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22—(AP)—Millard (Dixie) Howell, Alabama Rose Bowl star of 1935, will become backfield coach for Loyola university (New Orleans.)

Announcement of the appointment was made today by "Moon" Ducote, athletics director of Loyola. Ducote said Howell would report by September 5 as assistant to Head Coach Eddie Reed and that this addition would greatly strengthen the coaching staff of Loyola.

Ducote said Howell also would have charge of varsity punters and passers, departments in which as a player he said Howell "had no equal" during the season of 1934 while a member of the famous Alabama team—Rose Bowl champions.

On the New Year's day Howell starred in the game in which Alabama defeated Stanford 29 to 13. In that game Howell ran 67 yards for a touchdown. He scored the first touchdown against Stanford, bucking the line from the six yard stripe.

Howell also returned several punts to put his team in scoring position. He completed eight out of eight passes and one of them resulted in a 60 yard gain for a touchdown.

Ducote today described Howell as "as good a back as I have ever seen. "He is the best running back I ever saw," said Ducote, "the best passer and a good kicker. He wasn't called on to do lots of blocking, but he could do that too. He was a marvel at returning punts and couldn't be beat in this respect."

Howell's great passing game helped to sweep his team to the southeastern conference championship in his last year of football at Alabama.

He will have a chance to match his men and his wits against Alabama, his alma mater, on October 23 when Loyola plays the Crimson team at New Orleans.

Howell is now playing baseball with Toledo.

Ellerbe Appointed Coach At St. Louis High School

Denson "Togo" Ellerbe, former Northeast Center of L. S. U. tackle, was in Monroe yesterday for a short visit preparatory to going to St. Louis, Mo., where he will begin his first season as head coach and physical educational director at Southside High school.

Ellerbe, who was on his way to Winnsboro for a short visit with his parents before going to St. Louis said he secured the coaching job soon after he had won the Texas A. A. F. heavyweight boxing championship last April. Besides football, Ellerbe said he was to coach basketball, boxing and track.

The 25-year-old athlete spent two seasons as a tackle for Northeast Center in 1933 and 1934 and previous to that played a guard position on the Centenary college eleven. He attended high school at Winnsboro, his home town.

U. S. AMATEURS TO COMPETE FOR TOURNEY PLACES

Golfers Throughout Nation Meet In Qualifying Rounds Tuesday

By Scotty Reston
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—America's finest amateur golfers—those with five bucks and a handicap of three or under—will compete for 180 places Tuesday in the sectional qualifying tests for the National Amateur championship.

With Lawson Little, winner of the title the last two years, now a professional, 1,067 players will be trying for the places in the 36-hole test over 30 courses in all parts of the country.

The survivors of the sectional rounds will be supplemented by 10 members of the British Walker Cup team, eight former U. S. amateur champions, and six Pacific coast players who qualified August 11. The entire field will go into match play rounds, September 14-19, over the historic Garden City, L. I., golf club course.

The exempted players of the British Walker Cup team, who arrive in New York aboard the S. S. Transylvania Monday primarily to prepare for the Walker Cup matches at Pine Valley, N. J., September 2-3, are Capt. William F. Tweddell, Harry Bentley, J. Morton Dykes, Cecil Ewing, Alec Hill, J. D. Langley, P. B. Lucas, Jack McLean, Gordon Peters and Hector Thomson, the British Amateur champion.

Also aboard the Transylvania will be Tony Torrance, A. P. Aitken, Lieut. Col. H. A. Boyd, H. E. Taylor, Stanley Morrison, and Henry Longhurst, who also will represent Great Britain in our championship. They will not be required to qualify.

Two years ago, all former U. S. amateur champions were invited by the United States Golf association to play in the amateur without playing in the qualifying tests. Those who accepted the invitation this year were George Dunlap, Chick Evans, Jesse

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Louis Wetherell, 20-year-old University of Southern California tennis star from Los Angeles, became singles champion of the nation's public parks today when he defeated Carl Fischer of Detroit, 5-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

The Californian's net game crumpled Fischer's hitherto unyielding base-line defense.

Wetherell's victory brought the men's title to California, famed for its tennis luminaries, for the first time since Cranston Holman won the 1923 tournament.

Detroit suffered its second title setback when its defending women's doubles champions, Constance O'Donovan and Mrs. Esther Politzer, went down in the finals before the driving play of Edna Smith and Irene David of Cleveland, 6-4, 6-2.

California's hopes for a second title in the tournament were carried into the final round of the women's singles by Elizabeth Deike of Pasadena, the defending champion, who vanquished a compatriot, Marjorie Lauderbach of Los Angeles, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Miss Deike tomorrow faces Helen Germaine, New York chopstroker, who she defeated in straight sets at New Orleans last year. Miss Germaine reached the finals with a 6-2, 1-6, 6-2 victory over Miss Smith.

BOMBER LEARNED LITTLE FROM HIS DEFEAT BY MAX

go. It glanced harmlessly off the negro's head. It is doubtful if it would have hurt him had it landed.

The once so skillful Sharkey permitted Louis to set him up for damaging blows with his crooked left jab. The Sharkey of several years ago simply would have stepped back and cross-countered. But Sharkey's judgment of distance had disappeared with his speed.

Sharkey boasted that he would get in the first lick. He did in the form of a light left jab, but the only thing the ex-champion hit thereafter was the deck. He got up three times in all—a record for the Sharkey course. The mob had become accustomed to the Lithuanian's resin rashes becoming permanent on his first trip to the boards. For instance, Dempsey hit him once, and he stayed down. The same thing happened when Carnera brought that phantom uppercut out of nowhere.

But when Sharkey had nothing else in his fadeout, he fell back on courage, something he was accused of lacking in his heyday. He was in position to get up the fourth time, but his ancient underpinning saw their duty and did it.

Sharkey took more punishment than in any other fight in his long career. Louis landed at least 20 solid smacks in the first round, but his antiquated foe went to his corner with a clear head. This hardly was a recommendation for Louis' punching power.

Because Sharkey scored with nothing more than a few light jabs the joust gave no fresh evidence as to whether Louis can or cannot shake off a direct hit with something behind it.

The affair at Yankee stadium the other night proved one thing—that Sharkey is an old man with a questionable past. While the effort may have done Louis some good, he remains just what he was when he entered the battle pit. The dark angel still is a young man. His future is questionable.

The league leading Alexandria Aces celebrated Cecil Dunn day Saturday by walloping the lowly Lake Charles Skippers, 12-1.

The Ace first baseman made use of a new bat presented him along with other gifts, to smack the first ball pitched to him over the left field fence for his 48th homer of the season. Charlie Timm let the Skippers down with five scattered blows.

Adams of Jeanerette and Gradzecki of New Iberia tied up in a tight hurling duel which the Blues finally won, 1 to 0. New Iberia gathered six hits off Adams, while Gradzenki allowed eight.

Abbeville romped over Lafayette, 6 to 3, hammering Manager Motlow's offering for 10 safeties. Williamson went the route for the winners.

BOW AND ARROW WINS RICH SHERIDAN HANDICAP

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Col. Edward Riley Bradley, Lexington, Ky., sportsman, finally hit the mark with his Bow And Arrow today.

Bow And Arrow, after several stake failures, captured the $7,500 added Sheridan handicap at Washington park and set a new track mark for a mile and a furlong. The Bradley gelding was one length ahead of the Chicago stable's Gyral at the finish, with Lady Montrose another length back for third.

The crowd of 15,000 backed Bow And Arrow down to a 11-10 favorite, and they saw him run like a favorite should under a hustling ride by the veteran Joe Renick.

PONTIAC PIONEERS ROADS IN MEXICO

Automobile Official Makes Glowing Report On Pan-American Highway

Visitors by the thousands soon will be flocking into Mexico over the new Pan-American highway in the opinion of Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile association, who has recently returned from active participation in the formal dedication of the route linking Laredo, Tex., with Mexico City.

Previously conceived notions formed through articles in national periodicals had prepared him for a hazardous drive, attended by many of the difficulties which beset early American tourists, whereas there is not a dangerous foot in the whole 738-mile route and nothing to prevent a 15-year-old girl from making the trip alone, Mr. Henry reported.

As evidence of this, he cited covering the entire distance in only fourteen and a half hours of elapsed travel time in the new Pontiac eight touring sedan which he drove from Detroit to Mexico City and return, piling up 5,400 miles in two weeks.

Three large oil companies are installing modern tourist camps over the entire route, boasting plumbing the equal of anything in America and the best beds and mattresses made in Grand Rapids, the AAA head stated.

"Less than 40 miles of the entire route are not hard surfaced," said Mr Henry, "and that stretch is oiled and so smooth I didn't realize I was leaving pavement. The highway is as well laid out as any in the United States Every bridge is completed. If there is a single foot of dangerous travel on the whole trip I failed to find it."

The association head spoke during dedication ceremonies held on the middle of the international bridge at Laredo. Vice-President John N. Garner was principal speaker here before a large gathering which numbered 73 official representatives from the United States and Mexico. All members of the party except Garner then went as guests of the Mexican government over the new route to Mexico City. Mr. Henry drove his own car, while the others went in transportation provided by the Mexican government. Governors of the states through which the caravan passed entertained the official delegates at formal functions, and they were likewise entertained at the president's palace at Mexico City by President Cardenas

Particularly impressed, said Mr Henry, was he with the realization evident everywhere in Mexico of what the new highway means to that country and their determination to make travel as easy and as pleasant as possible for American visitors. The second vivid impression he brought back with him, Mr. Henry reported, was the splendid regard with which Ambassador Josephus Daniels is held by the rank and file of Mexican people

Mr. Henry was accompanied on the trip by Russell Singer, general manager of the American Automobile association, and as far as Monterey by Horace Mosteller, district manager for the Pontiac Motor company at San Antonio.

Cars from the United States are now crossing the border at the rate of about 50 a day, he reported, with prospects of rapid increase as a result of the enthusiastic reports brought back by those taking the trip. Particularly active fall and winter travel is indicated by the abundance of game, and the prospects of a temperate climate, according to Mr. Henry.

The road, which has been under construction for several years, is 28 feet wide, and represents a remarkable engineering achievement, with the last 280 miles blasted out of the side of a mountain. The hope is that ultimately it will be extended through Central America into South America, thus making possible a continuous motor route linking the two halves of the western hemisphere.

Turtles are capable of laying 150 eggs within half an hour.

—And the Tires Go Round and Round

MEMORIES of hoop-rolling days in Japan in their not-distant childhood were recalled by three charming daughters of Nippon, when they arrived in Akron on tour with Nils T. Granlund, America's best-known night-club impresario, and the girls in his NBC network radio revue. In the world's rubber center, these three sisters, Mitsu, Machi and Midi Taka, found modern motor-car tires, instead of hoops to roll. The Taka girls say they prefer eastern America to the west, although they miss California's climate. They are natives of Tokio.

FORD BUSES AID FARE REDUCTION

A five cent fare made possible by the use of Ford V-8 bus equipment is now in effect in Jackson, Mich., following institution of bus service by the National City lines. The city's street car system has been abandoned.

The bus franchise was granted to the National City company by the Jackson city commission on the strength of the company's guarantee of nickel fares. Twenty new Ford V-8 buses, operating on five lines intersecting in the downtown section, will provide the city with ten minute service during rush hours and twenty minute service at other times.

Jackson is the eighth city in which National City lines are operating buses. The other cities are: Kalamazoo, Mich., Joliet and East St. Louis, Ill., Tulsa, Okla., Biloxi and Gulfport, Miss., and Montgomery, Ala.

Issuance of the franchise to the Chicago firm terminated many months of negotiations which began when it became apparent that the city's electric lines would have to cease operation. Bids were received by the city commission from many different sources. Some proposed fares of 7 1-2 cents and more.

During the spring the field narrowed down to two bidders. The National City company won the franchise when it offered to provide new Ford V-8 equipment and nickel fares. Thus far since operations were begun, the company has been able to provide rigid adherence to schedules and fast service.

The buses are of 21-passenger type and painted white and yellow with chromium trim. Seats have tubular frames and are fitted with rubber air cushions. Fare boxes are electrically operated. The National City lines selected its employes from among the employes of the street car company.

7-0-7 HANDLES U. S. TIRE LINE

Famous Tire Now Being Placed On Many Makes Of Stock Cars

U. S. tires which are handled exclusively in Monroe by the 7-0-7 Tire Service, Inc., at Hall and Harrison streets, are now being placed on practically all stock cars manufactured in this country, according to figures which were released recently by the U. S. Tire Manufacturing company of Detroit.

Built of the finest rubber, the U. S. tire is a development of many years of study on the part of tire engineers and today it is considered one of the longest wearing tires in the field.

The selection of U. S. tires by 7-0-7 Tire Service, Inc., was the result of considerable research work in this field, and the success which this tire has enjoyed in this territory is proof that the company handling this equipment made a wise selection.

Luther Howell, manager of 7-0-7 tire department, stated yesterday that the U. S. tire, by actual tests made on all kinds of roads throughout the country, has definitely demonstrated its superiority over other tires.

"The motorist who equips his car with U. S. tires is making a good investment in safety and easier and safer riding," Mr. Howell declared. "The fact that the manufacturers of automobiles in this country are equipping practically all of their stock cars with U. S. tires is a guarantee that this tire has met the most rigid requirements and we recommend it as the best tire in the field today."

7-0-7 Tire Service, Inc., maintains an up-to-date filling station and handles a complete line of Pan-Am products, Quaker State and Penzoil motor oils. It also specializes in genuine Alemite greasing which assures customers a complete lubrication service at a cost which cannot be equalled.

A feature of 7-0-7 service is the readiness to answer all trouble calls and customers are assured a speedy response from road calls without regard to distance and at no additional cost.

TRAILER BUYERS LIKE STUDEBAKER

Safety, Comfort And Convenience Are Reasons For Preference

In discussing the growing popularity of auto trailers yesterday, F. N. "Stickey" Steele, manager of the Central Auto company, Studebaker dealer, had some very illuminating comments to make about this new, but lusty, transportation industry.

Said Mr. Steele, whose showrooms are located at 212 North Second street, "There is no doubt that the trailer business is growing by leaps and bounds in this country. I believe that in a few years, various companies will rent out trailers to families, just as summer cottages are rented today. People are realizing more every day how much fun they can have away from cities, and still enjoy all the comforts of home.

"And I hope I may be pardoned," continued Mr. Steele, "for the satisfaction I find in seeing Studebaker cars being chosen more and more by people who are buying trailers. There are two very good reasons why Studebaker is getting the call over other cars for the trailer business.

"First of all, there's the safety item. All trailer makers, you know, build their product to hitch onto the frame of the pulling automobile. Naturally, that automobile must have a strong frame. Consider for a moment that the new X-frame on the 1936 President is 25 times stronger than the conventional frame, and you can see why people choose Studebaker for safety.

"The other reason has to do with comfort and convenience. Every day we see trailers pass loaded with so many odds and ends that there's scarcely room inside for the comfort of the passengers. The 6-wheel Studebaker sedan has 18 1-2 cubic feet of luggage space in its stream-lined trunk, enough room for a variety of suitcases, boxes, bags, etc., and you can readily understand why many people who buy trailers for road comfort carry out the idea and drive Studebakers."

go. It glanced harmlessly off the negro's head. It is doubtful if it would have hurt him had it landed.

The once so skillful Sharkey permitted Louis to set him up for damaging blows with his crooked left jab. The Sharkey of several years ago simply would have stepped back and cross-countered. But Sharkey's judgment of distance had disappeared with his speed.

Sharkey boasted that he would get in the first lick. He did in the form of a light left jab, but the only thing the ex-champion hit thereafter was the deck. He got up three times in all—a record for the Sharkey course. The mob had become accustomed to the Lithuanian's resin rashes becoming permanent on his first trip to the boards. For instance, Dempsey hit him once, and he stayed down. The same thing happened when Carnera brought that phantom uppercut out of nowhere.

But when Sharkey had nothing else in his fadeout, he fell back on courage, something he was accused of lacking in his heyday. He was in position to get up the fourth time, but his ancient underpinning saw their duty and did it.

Sharkey took more punishment than in any other fight in his long career. Louis landed at least 20 solid smacks in the first round, but his antiquated foe went to his corner with a clear head. This hardly was a recommendation for Louis' punching power.

Because Sharkey scored with nothing more than a few light jabs the joust gave no fresh evidence as to whether Louis can or cannot shake off a direct hit with something behind it.

The affair at Yankee stadium the other night proved one thing—that Sharkey is an old man with a questionable past. While the effort may have done Louis some good, he remains just what he was when he entered the battle pit. The dark angel still is a young man. His future is questionable.

A single lightning flash during an electrical storm may release as many as 1,000,000 kilowatts of electrical power.

U. S. AMATEURS TO COMPETE FOR TOURNEY PLACES

Guilford, S. Davidson Herron, Max Marston, Francis Quimet, Jess Sweetser, and Sandy Somerville of Canada.

The six amateurs who have already qualified from the Pacific coast district are James McHale, San Gabriel, Calif., Roger Kelly, Beverly Hills, Calif., and Winfield Day, Chicago, all of whom qualified at Los Angeles, and Matias Palacio, San Francisco; Ernest Pieper, Jr., and Don Edwards, both of San Jose, Calif., who survived the test at San Francisco.

Following are the cities in which the sectional rounds will be played, with the total number of entries and the number of places allotted each:

Birmingham, Ala., ten entries, two places; Little Rock, Ark., 7-1; Denver, 18-3; Portland, Ore., 6-1; Washington, D. C., 78-12; Tampa, Fla., 27-5; Atlanta, 18-4; Honolulu, 7-1; Chicago, 105-16; Indianapolis, 36-6; Des Moines, 17-3; New Orleans 4-1; Boston, 90-15; Detroit, 33-7; Kansas City 12-2; St. Louis, 5-1; Omaha, 14-3; Buffalo, 33-6; New York, 206-31; Schenectady, 24-4; Winston Salem, N. EVANGELINE LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

The league leading Alexandria Aces celebrated Cecil Dunn day Saturday by walloping the lowly Lake Charles Skippers, 12-1.

The Ace first baseman made use of a new bat presented him along with other gifts, to smack the first ball pitched to him over the left field fence for his 48th homer of the season. Charlie Timm let the Skippers down with five scattered blows.

Adams of Jeanerette and Gradzecki of New Iberia tied up in a tight hurling duel which the Blues finally won, 1 to 0. New Iberia gathered six hits off Adams, while Gradzenki allowed eight.

Abbeville romped over Lafayette, 6 to 3, hammering Manager Motlow's offering for 10 safeties. Williamson went the route for the winners.

The Rayne Rice Birds bowed to the slants of Walle, who pitched Opelousas to an 8 to 4 victory. Walle gave up only three hits.

BOW AND ARROW WINS RICH SHERIDAN HANDICAP

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Col. Edward Riley Bradley, Lexington, Ky., sportsman, finally hit the mark with his Bow And Arrow today.

Bow And Arrow, after several stake failures, captured the $7,500 added Sheridan handicap at Washington park and set a new track mark for a mile and a furlong. The Bradley gelding was one length ahead of the Chicago stable's Gyral at the finish, with Lady Montrose another length back for third.

The crowd of 15,000 backed Bow And Arrow down to a 11-10 favorite, and they saw him run like a favorite should under a hustling ride by the veteran Joe Renick.

George Washington was made an honorary citizen of France in 1793.

INDUSTRIAL AND BUSINESS REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES NORTH LOUISIANA'S COMMERCIAL CENTER

Automobile Official Makes Glowing Report On Pan-American Highway

Visitors by the thousands soon will be flocking into Mexico over the new Pan-American highway in the opinion of Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile association, who has recently returned from active participation in the formal dedication of the route linking Laredo, Tex., with Mexico City.

Previously conceived notions formed through articles in national periodicals had prepared him for a hazardous drive, attended by many of the difficulties which beset early American tourists, whereas there is not a dangerous foot in the whole 738-mile route and nothing to prevent a 15-year-old girl from making the trip alone, Mr. Henry reported.

As evidence of this, he cited covering the entire distance in only fourteen and a half hours of elapsed travel time in the new Pontiac eight touring sedan which he drove from Detroit to Mexico City and return, piling up 5,400 miles in two weeks.

Three large oil companies are installing modern tourist camps over the entire route, boasting plumbing the equal of anything in America and the best beds and mattresses made in Grand Rapids, the AAA head stated.

"Less than 40 miles of the entire route are not hard surfaced," said Mr. Henry, "and that stretch is oiled and so smooth I didn't realize I was leaving pavement. The highway is as well laid out as any in the United States. Every bridge is completed. If there is a single foot of dangerous travel on the whole trip I failed to find it."

The association head spoke during dedication ceremonies held on the middle of the international bridge at Laredo. Vice-President John N. Garner was principal speaker here before a large gathering which numbered 73 official representatives from the United States and Mexico. All members of the party except Garner then went as guests of the Mexican government over the new route to Mexico City. Mr. Henry drove his own car, while the others went in transportation provided by the Mexican government. Governors of the states through which the caravan passed entertained the official delegates at formal functions, and they were likewise entertained at the president's palace at Mexico City by President Cardenas.

Particularly impressed, said Mr. Henry, was he with the realization evident everywhere in Mexico of what the new highway means to that country and their determination to make travel as easy and as pleasant as possible for American visitors. The second vivid impression he brought back with him, Mr. Henry reported, was the splendid regard with which Ambassador Josephus Daniels is held by the rank and file of Mexican people.

Mr. Henry was accompanied on the trip by Russell Singer, general manager of the American Automobile association, and as far as Monterey by Horace Mosteller, district manager for the Pontiac Motor company at San Antonio.

Cars from the United States are now crossing the border at the rate of about 50 a day, he reported, with prospects of rapid increase as a result of the enthusiastic reports brought back by those taking the trip. Particularly active fall and winter travel is indicated by the abundance of game, and the prospects of a temperate climate, according to Mr. Henry.

The road, which has been under construction for several years, is 28 feet wide, and represents a remarkable engineering achievement, with the last 280 miles blasted out of the side of a mountain. The hope is that ultimately it will be extended through Central America into South America, thus making possible a continuous motor route linking the two halves of the western hemisphere.

Turtles are capable of laying 150 eggs within half an hour.

—And the Tires Go Round and Round

MEMORIES of hoop-rolling days in Japan in their not-distant childhood were recalled by three charming daughters of Nippon, when they arrived in Akron on tour with Nils T. Granlund, America's best-known night-club impresario, and the girls in his NBC network radio revue. In the world's rubber center, these three sisters, Mitsu, Machi and Midi Taka, found modern motor-car tires instead of hoops to roll. The Taka girls say they prefer eastern America to the west, although they miss California's climate. They are natives of Tokio.

FORD BUSES AID FARE REDUCTION

A five cent fare made possible by the use of Ford V-8 bus equipment is now in effect in Jackson, Mich., following institution of bus service by the National City lines. The city's street car system has been abandoned.

The bus franchise was granted to the National City company by the Jackson city commission on the strength of the company's guarantee of nickel fares. Twenty new Ford V-8 buses, operating on five lines intersecting in the downtown section, will provide the city with ten minute service during rush hours and twenty minute service at other times.

Jackson is the eighth city in which National City lines are operating buses. The other cities are: Kalamazoo, Mich., Joliet and East St. Louis, Ill., Tulsa, Okla., Biloxi and Gulfport, Miss., and Montgomery, Ala.

Issuance of the franchise to the Chicago firm terminated many months of negotiations which began when it became apparent that the city's electric lines would have to cease operation. Bids were received by the city commission from many different sources. Some proposed fares of 7 1-2 cents and more.

During the spring the field narrowed down to two bidders. The National City company won the franchise when it offered to provide new Ford V-8 equipment and nickel fares. Thus far since operations were begun, the company has been able to provide rigid adherence to schedules and fast service.

The buses are of 21-passenger type and painted white and yellow with chromium trim. Seats have tubular frames and are fitted with rubber air cushions. Fare boxes are electrically operated. The National City lines selected its employes from among the employes of the street car company.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Easiness on the part of near months unsettled the cotton market here today and in quiet dealings prices slipped off from 2 to 5 points.

Hedge pressure against October and December pushed these positions lower. October sold at 11.45 at the opening and declined to 11.43. December ruled around the 11.46 level, off 25 cents a bale.

January at 11.52 and March at 11.62 were relatively steady. With daily spot sales ranging from 10,000 to 15,000 bales the accompanying hedging supplied the market with more contracts than buying interests would absorb except on a scale down.

Early weather reports showed continuance in the drouth in Oklahoma and the forecast for that region for the weekend called for hot and dry weather.

Other sections were having normal temperatures with scattered local showers in the east.

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 4 points.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 11.67 cents a pound.

New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Cotton made new low ground for the movement today on scattered selling promoted by private reports of showers in some western belt sections. The official forecast held out no promise of rain, however, and after selling off to 11.50 for December, prices steadied on covering. December closed at 11.53 with the general market steady at net declines of 2 to 7 points.

Cotton futures closed steady, 3-7 lower.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Stocks firm; leaders rally quietly as war fears lessen. Bonds steady; rails, industrials recover. Curb narrow; a few leaders lift. Foreign exchanges steady; changes minor. Cotton steady; reports of rain in northwest Texas. Sugar closed. Coffee closed.

Chicago: Wheat firmer; Canadian harvest delayed. Corn irregular; rallied with wheat. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs nominally steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Grains averaged lower in price early today. Corn was relatively weaker than wheat owing to further showers beneficial to pastures and forage, whereas wheat was steadied by official announcement that Argentina's wheat acreage is smaller than recent private forecasts.

Opening 1-8-1 1-8 lower, September 1.11 1-2-3-4, December 97 1-4-1-2, corn then held near to these limits. Wheat started 1-4 off to 1-8 up, September 1.13 1-8-1-4, December 1.12 3-8-5-8, and afterward showed some general gains.

Wheat closed irregular, 1-2 off to 1-4 up compared with yesterday's finish, September 1.12 7-8-1.13, December 1.12 3-8-1-2, corn at 3-8 decline to an equal gain, September 1.12 1-4-3-8, December 97 5-8-3-4, oats 1-8-1-2 advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—War talk dwindled to a whisper in today's stock market and traders began quietly to replace commitments unloaded so hurriedly in the preceding session.

Although the buying pace was relatively slow, many of yesterday's weak issues came back fractions to 2 points and a few 4 or more. The close was firm. Transfers were around 500,000 shares.

Bonds steadied with equities. Commodities were somewhat mixed as were the principal foreign currencies.

Business and industrial items were again a sustaining influence and financial observers suggested the market may have been "oversold."

Among the better performers were Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Hiram Walker, Schenley, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Crown Cork, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, General Electric, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Smelting, Kennecott, Anaconda, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, American Steel Foundries, Studebaker and Ettington S. Child.

Despite the sharp break of Friday, commission houses with foreign connections reported more buying than selling from abroad. Demand from London was said to have been for leading rails and steels.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Easiness on the part of near months unsettled the cotton market here today and in quiet dealings prices slipped off from 2 to 5 points.

Hedge pressure against October and December pushed these positions lower. October sold at 11.45 at the opening and declined to 11.43. December ruled around the 11.46 level, off 25 cents a bale.

January at 11.52 and March at 11.62 were relatively steady. With daily spot sales ranging from 10,000 to 15,000 bales the accompanying hedging supplied the market with more contracts than buying interests would absorb except on a scale down.

Early weather reports showed continuance in the drouth in Oklahoma and the forecast for that region for the weekend called for hot and dry weather.

Other sections were having normal temperatures with scattered local showers in the east.

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 4 points.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 11.67 cents a pound.

New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Cotton made new low ground for the movement today on scattered selling promoted by private reports of showers in some western belt sections. The official forecast held out no promise of rain, however, and after selling off to 11.50 for December, prices steadied on covering. December closed at 11.53 with the general market steady at net declines of 2 to 7 points.

Cotton futures closed steady, 3-7 lower.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Stocks firm; leaders rally quietly as war fears lessen. Bonds steady; rails, industrials recover. Curb narrow; a few leaders lift. Foreign exchanges steady; changes minor. Cotton steady; reports of rain in northwest Texas. Sugar closed. Coffee closed.

Chicago: Wheat firmer; Canadian harvest delayed. Corn irregular; rallied with wheat. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs nominally steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Grains averaged lower in price early today. Corn was relatively weaker than wheat owing to further showers beneficial to pastures and forage, whereas wheat was steadied by official announcement that Argentina's wheat acreage is smaller than recent private forecasts.

Opening 1-8-1 1-8 lower, September 1.11 1-2-3-4, December 97 1-4-1-2, corn then held near to these limits. Wheat started 1-4 off to 1-8 up, September 1.13 1-8-1-4, December 1.12 3-8-5-8, and afterward showed some general gains.

Wheat closed irregular, 1-2 off to 1-4 up compared with yesterday's finish, September 1.12 7-8-1.13, December 1.12 3-8-1-2, corn at 3-8 decline to an equal gain, September 1.12 1-4-3-8, December 97 5-8-3-4, oats 1-8-1-2 advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—War talk dwindled to a whisper in today's stock market and traders began quietly to replace commitments unloaded so hurriedly in the preceding session.

Although the buying pace was relatively slow, many of yesterday's weak issues came back fractions to 2 points and a few 4 or more. The close was firm. Transfers were around 500,000 shares.

Bonds steadied with equities. Commodities were somewhat mixed as were the principal foreign currencies.

Business and industrial items were again a sustaining influence and financial observers suggested the market may have been "oversold."

Among the better performers were Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Hiram Walker, Schenley, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Crown Cork, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, General Electric, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Smelting, Kennecott, Anaconda, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, American Steel Foundries, Studebaker and Ettington S. Child.

Despite the sharp break of Friday, commission houses with foreign connections reported more buying than selling from abroad. Demand from London was said to have been for leading rails and steels.

CONCERT SCHEDULED AT BERNSTEIN PARK

The final summer concert for the recreation department's boys' band will be given this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Bernstein park, C. S. Gaushell, director, announced last night. Approximately 35 pieces will be used in the concert.

The appearance will be the last of the summer for the organization. Musical activities will reopen in the fall when the various school bands are reorganized. Mr. Gaushell will resume his duties at director of the Neville High school band at that time.

The concert this afternoon will last well over half an hour and the public is being invited to attend free of charge.

Throughout the summer Mr. Gaushell has been in contact with approximately 50 boys, although an average of about 35 was all that had been present for the weekly concerts. An effort is being made to get out the entire band for today's final gesture.

MANY VACCINATED

Massive COPPER Speaker and other big features end tone harshness, bring you
RADIO'S PERFECT TONE

There's a genuine new thrill waiting now for you in radio! For Stewart-Warner has ended the shrillness, the harshness, that have always marred radio enjoyment. In the new Stewart-Warner with Radio's Perfect Tone, you hear an actual tone-photograph of every sound—with mellowness and purity that rest and invite you instead of tiring you.

It took a whole new radio—not just a new feature or two—to do it. Because no radio is better than its speaker, Stewart-Warner started there—developed an utterly new Copper PHOTO-TONE Speaker that ends all rasping forever, and reproduces every tone shading with new accuracy, power and sensitivity. And with this wonderful new speaker, they have combined a host of great improvements never offered in a single radio before.

Your own ears will tell you instantly the difference they make—will recognize instantly the new, restful mellowness and purity of Radio's Perfect Tone. See and hear for yourself—today. Let us demonstrate the new Stewart-Warner at our store—or in your home—without obligation to you.

CONCERT SCHEDULED AT BERNSTEIN PARK

The final summer concert for the recreation department's boys' band will be given this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Bernstein park, C. S. Gaushell, director, announced last night. Approximately 35 pieces will be used in the concert.

The appearance will be the last of the summer for the organization. Musical activities will reopen in the fall when the various school bands are reorganized. Mr. Gaushell will resume his duties at director of the Neville High school band at that time.

The concert this afternoon will last well over half an hour and the public is being invited to attend free of charge.

Throughout the summer Mr. Gaushell has been in contact with approximately 50 boys, although an average of about 35 was all that had been present for the weekly concerts. An effort is being made to get out the entire band for today's final gesture.

Miss Elizabeth Drew And George Clifford Guier Married

Close Friends And Family Are Present

Impressive Ceremony Held At Home Of Bride's Grandfather In West Monroe

By Beryl Madison

FAMILY sentiment played an important role in the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Drew to Mr. George Clifford Guier Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. The bride chose as the place for the ceremony, the home of her grandfather, Mr. C. L. Drew, 101 Ludwig avenue, West Monroe. Only the family and intimate friends were present. The bride wore, during the ceremony, a diamond pin worn by her mother and her mother's mother on their wedding days. For good luck, she wore in her shoe the dimes worn by her mother when she herself married. For sentiment's sake, Miss Drew also wore a piece of lace from her grandmother's wedding dress, while one of the loveliest of all the wedding gifts was a beautiful china tea set handed down on the maternal side of the bride's family and saved especially for Elizabeth, by her late grandmother, Mrs. Coyle.

The rooms of the lower floor of the Drew home and the stairway of the main hall were decorated with bamboo and other greenery, the only floral decoration being two huge bunches of fresh-looking stately peach colored gladiolas, one tied to the newel-post of the stairway, the other on the piano—and white button chrysanthemums and lilies of the valley on the lace-covered bride's table in the dining room. White cathedral tapers in white candelabra were placed on the dining table and console in the dining room, on the piano in the living room, and among the greenery covering the fireplace to make an improvised altar. In front of the fireplace was a white satin kneeling cushion, behind which Rev. E. F. Hayward in sacerdotal robes, stood to perform the impressive double ring ceremony.

After the guests had assembled, Miss Helen McCormick, in aquamarine chiffon with matching corsage, sat at the piano to accompany Mr. Conrad Cage, Sr., who sang before the wedding, "I Love You Truly." Following this selection, Miss McCormick rendered the wedding march from Lohengrin. At this time Miss Norma Holden, as maid of honor, in Alix model of turquoise blue lace and maline tiara hat with velvet frame, descended the stairs. She carried a handsome bouquet of Briarcliff roses tied with satin bow. The groom then entered the living room with his best man, Mr. Earl Duncan of Sterlington. Both the groom and his best man wore white linen suits with boutonnieres of white lilies of the valley.

As the music continued, and all the guests waited in eager expectation, the bride, accompanied by her father, walked down the stairway into the living room and up to the altar. She was wearing a Lelong model of peach bloom Alencon lace, a color and style especially becoming to her brunette type. She also wore a maline tiara hat with velvet coronet effect, the same color as the gown. She carried a lovely bride's bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and lilies of the valley, tied with Johanna Hill satin ribbon, exactly matching her gown.

During the ceremony, the pianist, Miss McCormick, softly rendered "To a Wild Rose." At the end of the ceremony, before the informal reception for all present, she played a few strains from Mendelssohn.

The bride's mother was pretty in china-blue lace and pink corsage, and the groom's mother was lovey in pastel chiffon with matching corsage. The two hostesses, Mrs. J. S. Drew in green mousseline de soie, and Miss Annette Drew in china-blue flat crepe, were assisted by Mrs. Fred Grant, Mrs. Irving Wolff and Mrs. Fred Mitchell. Serving in the dining room were Misses Sallie Breard, Vera Lee Hobgood, Snow Drew, Helen McCormick, Helen Grant and Nan Drew, all in afternoon dresses of pastel shades. They served white ice cream and white bride's squares to the wedding guests.

The bride's cake was particularly lovely. The three tiers were exquisitely embossed with full blown roses and lilies of the valley. On a fourth tier on top of the three lower tiers were a miniature bride and groom, beneath an artistic bridal arch. At each side of this arch were embossings of tiny calla lilies and in its center was a silver bell decorated with lilies of the valley in white and green.

Immediately following the reception, Mrs. Guier changed into a traveling dress of black crepe, a model trimmed with cire braid. She wore, with this stunning gown, a corsage of gold rosebuds.

The bride and groom left by motor for Hot Springs and other points in the Ozarks, where they will spend their honeymoon.

This fortunate young couple received many marvelous wedding gifts, including a silver coffee service and a coffee table as a present from the groom's family, a complete set of Wedgewood china, Edme pattern, a complete chest of silver in Park avenue design, and a set of Concord crystal glassware.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Drew. Mr. Drew is manager of the West Monroe branch of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company. Mrs. Guier graduated from L. S. U., where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. For the past two years she has taught in Sterlington.

Mr. Guier, until nine years ago, was a resident of Pioneer. Since that time he has lived in Monroe. He attended Tyler Commercial college and has for the past two years been in the employ of the Louisiana Light and Power company, in which business connection he has shown great ability and promise.

T. E. L. Class Meets

The T. E. L. class of the First Baptist church of West Monroe held its regular social and business meeting August 20 at 8 o'clock in the evening in the home of Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt with Mrs. R. C. Mahaffy, Mrs. H. Boulware and Mrs. G. B. Folds acting as co-hostesses.

The guests were ushered into the flower-banked reception suite by the hostesses, who were dressed in beautiful summer pastels.

The devotional was led by Mrs. W. M. Thomas. A short business session followed. At the close of the business, several clever games and contests were introduced by Mrs. Rainbolt. Afterwards dainty sandwiches, frozen fruit salad and iced drinks were served to two visitors, Mrs. Webb Goodlett and Miss Gloria Taylor of Ruston, and the following class members: Mesdames P. E. Pilcher, O. H. Noble, T. O. Trawick, George Parkes, A. D. Hunt, Parker Colvin, John Lewis, Willie Brown, Fred Thatcher, Wayne McDonald, J. L. Gates, Mackie Lee, W. D. Clark, W. M. Thomas, John Young, Robert Green, Sidney Karr and W. R. Gates.

Adopted Simultaneously In New York, Hollywood, Paris--

Directoire Mode Is Fashion Prodigy

BY MARIAN YOUNG
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—With Paris showing dozens of costumes that were inspired by the Directoire period and adaptions of the costumes worn in the film version of "Anthony Adverse" being turned out by the score in this country, a winter of high waistlines, standup collars, pointed revers, slashed skirts and swallow tail jackets is inevitable. When a fashion is launched simultaneously in Paris, New York and Hollywood, it's due for an extended run, so you need not hesitate to invest part of your clothing budget in these stunning new creations.

A formal gown with square decollete and high waistline, worn by Olivia de Haviland in the screen adaptation of Hervey Allen's novel, inspired the lovely evening dress, sketched here at left. On the original, beads trim front panel and hemline as well as upstanding collar. The modern version, in vivid blue velvet, has beads only on the collar. Notice the way the bodice accentuates the lines of the bust, the raised waistline and the flattering fullness of the skirt.

Other Influences Seen

The dusty blue satin gown (center) is an "Anthony Adverse" adaptation, too. Distinctly Directoire in feeling, this has a raised waistline, off-the-shoulders decollete and is trimmed with huge sapphire clips.

The dinner dress (right), of black costume velvet, has a flaring peplum and a fragile-looking vestee of lace with gold threads. This is perfect for fall and winter parties when "he" wears anything less formal than top hat and tails.

Next in importance to the Directoire influences, are the Edwardian and Victorian trends, doubtless in the foreground because of the forthcoming British coronation.

These two influences are responsible for the lavish use of luxurious fabrics, princess lines, embroideries, low decolletages and rich colors.

Black is the color of the hour. After that, deep reds, prune browns, purplish blues and subtle, dark greens are important. Black with touches of one of these is smarter than black with plain white.

Broadcloth In Favor

Broadcloth is fashion's favorite fabric. You'll see dresses as well as coats, suits, jackets and evening wraps of this sleek, rich-looking material. Velour, also sleek and smooth, is second choice, and jersey is third. For evening, velvets, satins, lace, stiff brocades and metallic materials are highlighted.

All in all, the new 1936 fashion picture is one of elegance. You can't look casual in an outdoor sort of way if your wardrobe includes an evening gown that is cut on princess lines, waistcoats, reminiscent of the Directoire period, a fitted coat, luxuriously trimmed with fur, and dresses with basque waists and full, flaring skirts. In these, you are bound to look like a lady — a dignified, queenly lady, too.

Mrs. Brown Visits Fair

Local Women's Kin Fought With Houston In Battle

Mrs. Duffie Brown and son, Duffie, are in Dallas and Fort Worth visiting the centennial. Mrs. Brown, before her marriage, was Miss Belle Downs. Her sister is Mrs. Lizzie Morris, nee Downs. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Morris have an aunt, Mrs. Alice Downs Cook, of Oklahoma City, who is the only living daughter of one of the soldiers surviving the battle of San Jacinto, the decisive battle in which Sam Houston defeated Santa Anna to bring about the independence of Texas. This soldier, George Robert Downs, the father of Mrs. Cook, and the grandfather of Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Morris, was only 17 years of age when he enlisted under Houston. He was a good friend of Davy Crockett. For these reasons Mrs. Co.k was particularly invited to come from Oklahoma City for the opening of the centennial on June 16. She was an honor guest in Dallas at that time. Mrs. Brown and son are also enjoying special courtesies because of their connection with George Robert Downs.

Dawson-Gobble

Of particular interest to a wide circle of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mildred Gobble, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gobble, 2202 Gordon avenue, to Mr. Olin Dawson of this city. The wedding took place at the home of Rev. L. T. Hastings on South Grand street, Thursday at 8 o'clock in the evening. The living room of the Hastings home was beautifully decorated in baskets and vases of cut flowers, and the ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of greenery.

The bride was smartly dressed in an early fall model of navy blue taffeta, with matching accessories and a bride's corsage. Her only attendant was Mrs. Carey Kirkland. Mr. Carey Kirkland acted as best man.

Only members of the immediate family and a few close friends attended the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson are at home to their many friends at 409 North Third street.

A whirl of social activities has been revolving around the house party in the home of Misses Clarice and Lee Slagle this week. The members of the house party were Miss Majory Kidd Nichols of Ruston, Miss Helen Wilkenson of Port Allen and Miss Mary Moss Madison of Bastrop. Attesting to the popularity of Clarice and Lee and their mother, Mrs. Elmer Slagle, were the many little get-togethers given for these much-feted guests. Mamie Davis was the power behind the gun in a clever box supper one night, Frances McHenry, for Cornelia, gave a picture show matinee party followed by a swim in their magnificent outdoor swimming pool, Tot Ellis asked them in for a pretty luncheon party, and Mary Flournoy and Laura and Jean entertained with a monopoly game one afternoon. Mrs. D. I. Garrett invited them down one night for supper. The guests left Wednesday.

Marriage Announced

The following from the Beaumont (Tex.) Enterprise is of interest to many in Monroe and vicinity.

"At 5 o'clock on Saturday, at the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Edgar Arthur, 2200 Pecas Blvd., there was celebrated the marriage ceremony of Miss Mildred Matthews, daughter of Mrs. Oscar Matthews of Beaumont, to Mr. Thomas E. Williams, Jr., of Shreveport, Louisiana. The ceremony took place in front of an improvised altar of greens in front of which were placed bridal tapers in floor candelabra, and a white prie dieu.

"Miss Ruby Reed on the violin, and Mrs. Joseph Singleton at the piano played the wedding music. The bride's sister, Mrs. Arthur, was her only attendant. She wore a gown of peach lace with modish jacket, puffed sleeves, arm bouquet of rainbow asters.

"The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Oscar Matthews, was in white lace with fitted jacket extending onto the floor in a short train. The waist of her gown had long fitted sleeves and a high neckline. The bride wore a finger length veil of white tulle, covering her head in cap fashion and held in place with a band of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of white asters.

"Mrs. Matthews, mother of the bride, wore forget-me-not blue lace with a corsage of roses and pink asters.

"After the wedding, there was a small reception for the guests. The bride's table was covered with a handsome lace cloth on which was a beautifully decorated ring-shaped wedding cake.

"Mrs. Williams' going away suit was a modish tailleur of shrimp light weight wool with which she wore black accessories.

"The bride is a member of pioneer families of east and central Texas, her ancestors being among the first settlers. She is a native of Nacogdoches, the daughter of Mrs. Matthews, and the late Mr. Oscar Matthews. She was educated in the public schools of Nacogdoches and at the University of Texas.

"Guests from out of town included the bridegroom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. T. E. Williams, Mrs. Wendel Nipper and children, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neff, Mr. James Dawson of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hanna, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hemphill, Miss Robbie Lee Hanna, Mr. O. N. McNeill of Monroe, and Mrs. Ashford Jones of Nacogdoches."

Barbecue Given

Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock many members of the Ouachita Insurance exchange, with their wives and office forces, met at Milling Bernstein's boat to ride up the river seven miles to a barbecue at Wharton Brown's camp.

Those on the boat enjoyed the orchestra hired for this special occasion. Arriving at the camp, those coming by boat joined others who had driven through the country for the barbecue. Many went for a swim before supper.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Breard, Mr. Ted Allen, Mrs. Evelyn Smith, Miss Louise Aucoin, Mr. W. W. Cooper, Mr. W. F. Taylor, Miss Alma Terry, Mrs. Burton Wolff, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bernhardt, Mr. C. E. McKenzie, Mr. Gordon Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Merklin, Miss Jane Ludlow, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Guerriero, Mr. O. W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Huggins, Mr. A. E. Montgomery, Mr. E. J. Seymour, Mr. E. S. Girault, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Slator and their guest, Miss Lyon of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. L. U. Fourmy, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Sykes, Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Nichols, Mr. Turner Morgan, Mrs. Prioleau Ellis, Mr. Fred L. Seaman, Miss Mary Louise O'Donnell, Mr. Jake Alford, Mr. H. H. Land, Mr. Ed Charlton of New Orleans, Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lea McClelland of Baton Rouge.

Miss Josie Belle Park of Memphis, Tenn., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Williams and other relatives in this city. Miss Park is connected with the Dr. Willis Campbell cilinic in Memphis.

Mrs. George Jones, with Mrs. Taylor Jones as co-hostess, entertained friends on her beautiful lawn, honoring Mrs. A. C. Gurtler, who is to leave soon to make her new home in Natchitoches. Mrs. Gurtler has a charming personality and will be greatly missed. The Mesdames Jones presented Mrs. Gurtler with an autograph album filled with beautiful lines written by the guests. Little Miss Mary Dert Jones brought a beautifully wrapped box filled with gifts of friendship from the other guests to Mrs. Gurtler and presented it to the honoree. Delicious punch and cake were served to the following: Mesdames A. C. Gurtler, Robert Luckett, Garretson, H. V. Cruthirds, Walter Perkins, Patrick Blankenship, Lewis Demarchi, Sam Holliday, D. Crockett, David Perkins.

LOVELY BUT LONELY UNTIL HER DENTIST TOLD HER WHY

Most Bad Breath Begins with the Teeth!

HOW foolish to risk bad breath when it's so easy to be sure! Just one thing to remember—and that's this simple fact—the commonest cause of bad breath is improperly cleaned teeth!

Authorities say decaying food deposits, in hidden crevices between the teeth, are the source of most unpleasant mouth odors—and of much tooth decay.

Ordinary cleaning methods, which merely polish the exposed surfaces, fail to remove these odor-breeding deposits.

Use Colgate Dental Cream. Its special penetrating foam gets into every tiny crevice, emulsifies and washes away the food and acid deposits that cause bad breath. At the same time, Colgate's soft, safe polishing agent cleans and brightens enamel.

So brush your teeth, gums and tongue with Colgate Dental Cream at least twice daily—and have cleaner, brighter teeth and a sweeter, purer breath! Get a tube today!

Miss Elizabeth Drew And George Clifford Guier Married

Close Friends And Family Are Present

Inpressive Ceremony Held At Home Of Bride's Grandfather In West Monroe

By Beryl Madison

FAMILY sentiment played an important role in the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Drew to Mr. George Clifford Guier Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. The bride chose as the place for the ceremony, the home of her grandfather, Mr. C. L. Drew, 101 Ludwig avenue, West Monroe. Only the family and intimate friends were present. The bride wore, during the ceremony, a diamond pin worn by her mother and her mother's mother on their wedding days. For good luck, she wore in her shoe the dimes worn by her mother when she herself married. For sentiment's sake, Miss Drew also wore a piece of lace from her grandmother's wedding dress, while one of the loveliest of all the wedding gifts was a beautiful china tea set handed down on the maternal side of the bride's family and saved especially for Elizabeth, by her late grandmother, Mrs. Coyle.

The rooms of the lower floor of the Drew home and the stairway of the main hall were decorated with bamboo and other greenery, the only floral decoration being two huge bunches of fresh-looking stately peach colored gladiolas, one tied to the newel-post of the stairway, the other on the piano—and white button chrysanthemums and lilies of the valley on the lace-covered bride's table in the dining room. White cathedral tapers in white candelabra were placed on the dining table and console in the dining room, on the piano in the living room, and among the greenery covering the fireplace to make an improvised altar. In front of the fireplace was a white satin kneeling cushion, behind which Rev. E. F. Hayward in sacerdotal robes, stood to perform the impressive double ring ceremony.

After the guests had assembled, Miss Helen McCormick, in aquamarine chiffon with matching corsage, sat at the piano to accompany Mr. Conrad Cage, Sr., who sang before the wedding, "I Love You Truly." Following this selection, Miss McCormick rendered the wedding march from Lohengrin. At this time Miss Norma Holden, as maid of honor, in Alix model of turquoise blue lace and maline tiara hat with velvet frame, descended the stairs. She carried a handsome bouquet of Briarcliff roses tied with satin bow. The groom then entered the living room with his best man, Mr. Earl Duncan of Sterlington. Both the groom and his best man wore white linen suits with boutonnieres of white lilies of the valley.

As the music continued, and all the guests waited in eager expectation, the bride, accompanied by her father, walked down the stairway into the living room and up to the altar. She was wearing a Lelong model of peach bloom Alencon lace, a color and style especially becoming to her brunette type. She also wore a maline tiara hat with velvet coronet effect, the same color as the gown. She carried a lovely bride's bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and lilies of the valley, tied with Johanna Hill satin ribbon, exactly matching her gown.

During the ceremony, the pianist, Miss McCormick, softly rendered "To a Wild Rose." At the end of the ceremony, before the informal reception for all present, she played a few strains from Mendelssohn.

The bride's mother was pretty in china-blue lace and pink corsage, and the groom's mother was lovey in pastel chiffon with matching corsage. The two hostesses, Mrs. J. S. Drew in green mousseline de soie, and Miss Annette Drew in china-blue flat crepe, were assisted by Mrs. Fred Grant, Mrs. Irving Wolff and Mrs. Fred Mitchell. Serving in the dining room were Misses Sallie Breard, Vera Lee Hobgood, Snow Drew, Helen McCormick, Helen Grant and Nan Drew, all in afternoon dresses of pastel shades. They served white ice cream and white bride's squares to the wedding guests.

The bride's cake was particularly lovely. The three tiers were exquisitely embossed with full blown roses and lilies of the valley. On a fourth tier on top of the three lower tiers were a miniature bride and groom, beneath an artistic bridal arch. At each side of this arch were embossings of tiny calla lilies and in its center was a silver bell decorated with lilies of the valley in white and green.

Immediately following the reception, Mrs. Guier changed into a traveling dress of black crepe, a model trimmed with cire braid. She wore, with this stunning gown, a corsage of gold rosebuds.

The bride and groom left by motor for Hot Springs and other points in the Ozarks, where they will spend their honeymoon.

This fortunate young couple received many marvelous wedding gifts, including a silver coffee service and a coffee table as a present from the groom's family, a complete set of Wedgewood china, Edme pattern, a complete chest of silver in Park avenue design, and a set of Concord crystal glassware.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Drew. Mr. Drew is manager of the West Monroe branch of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company. Mrs. Guier graduated from L. S. U., where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. For the past two years she has taught in Sterlington.

Mr. Guier, until nine years ago, was a resident of Pioneer. Since that time he has lived in Monroe. He attended Tyler Commercial college and has for the past two years been in the employ of the Louisiana Light and Power company, in which business connection he has shown great ability and promise.

T. E. L. Class Meets

The T. E. L. class of the First Baptist church of West Monroe held its regular social and business meeting August 20 at 8 o'clock in the evening in the home of Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt with Mrs. R. C. Mahaffy, Mrs. H. Boulware and Mrs. G. B. Folds acting as co-hostesses.

The guests were ushered into the flower-banked reception suite by the hostesses, who were dressed in beautiful summer pastels.

The devotional was led by Mrs. W. M. Thomas. A short business session followed. At the close of the business, several clever games and contests were introduced by Mrs. Rainbolt. Afterwards dainty sandwiches, frozen fruit salad and iced drinks were served to two visitors, Mrs. Webb Goodlett and Miss Gloria Taylor of Ruston, and the following class members: Mesdames P. E. Pilcher, O. H. Noble, T. O. Trawick, George Parkes, A. D. Hunt, Parker Colvin, John Lewis, Willie Brown, Fred Thatcher, Wayne McDonald, J. L. Gates, Mackie Lee, W. D. Clark, W. M. Thomas, John Young, Robert Green, Sidney Karr and W. R. Gates.

Adopted Simultaneously In New York, Hollywood, Paris--

Directoire Mode Is Fashion Prodigy

BY MARIAN YOUNG
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—With Paris showing dozens of costumes that were inspired by the Directoire period and adaptions of the costumes worn in the film version of "Anthony Adverse" being turned out by the score in this country, a winter of high waistlines, standup collars, pointed revers, slashed skirts and swallow tail jackets is inevitable. When a fashion is launched simultaneously in Paris, New York and Hollywood, it's due for an extended run, so you need not hesitate to invest part of your clothing budget in these stunning new creations.

A formal gown with square decollete and high waistline, worn by Olivia de Haviland in the screen adaptation of Hervey Allen's novel, inspired the lovely evening dress, sketched here at left. On the original, beads trim front panel and hemline as well as upstanding collar. The modern version, in vivid blue velvet, has beads only on the collar. Notice the way the bodice accentuates the lines of the bust, the raised waistline and the flattering fullness of the skirt.

Other Influences Seen

The dusty blue satin gown (center) is an "Anthony Adverse" adaptation, too. Distinctly Directoire in feeling, this has a raised waistline, off-the-shoulders decollete and is trimmed with huge sapphire clips.

The dinner dress (right), of black costume velvet, has a flaring peplum and a fragile-looking vestee of lace with gold threads. This is perfect for fall and winter parties when "he" wears anything less formal than top hat and tails.

Next in importance to the Directoire influences, are the Edwardian and Victorian trends, doubtless in the foreground because of the forthcoming British coronation.

These two influences are responsible for the lavish use of luxurious fabrics, princess lines, embroideries, low decolletages and rich colors.

Black is the color of the hour. After that, deep reds, prune browns, purplish blues and subtle, dark greens are important. Black with touches of one of these is smarter than black with plain white.

Broadcloth In Favor

Broadcloth is fashion's favorite fabric. You'll see dresses as well as coats, suits, jackets and evening wraps of this sleek, rich-looking material. Velour, also sleek and smooth, is second choice, and jersey is third. For evening, velvets, satins, lace, stiff brocades and metallic materials are highlighted.

All in all, the new 1936 fashion picture is one of elegance. You can't look casual in an outdoor sort of way if your wardrobe includes an evening gown that is cut on princess lines, waistcoats, reminiscent of the Directoire period, a fitted coat, luxuriously trimmed with fur, and dresses with basque waists and full, flaring skirts. In these, you are bound to look like a lady — a dignified, queenly lady, too.

Mrs. Brown Visits Fair

Local Women's Kin Fought With Houston In Battle

Mrs. Duffie Brown and son, Duffie, are in Dallas and Fort Worth visiting the centennial. Mrs. Brown, before her marriage, was Miss Belle Downs. Her sister is Mrs. Lizzie Morris, nee Downs. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Morris have an aunt, Mrs. Alice Downs Cook, of Oklahoma City, who is the only living daughter of one of the soldiers surviving the battle of San Jacinto, the decisive battle in which Sam Houston defeated Santa Anna to bring about the independence of Texas. This soldier, George Robert Downs, the father of Mrs. Cook, and the grandfather of Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Morris, was only 17 years of age when he enlisted under Houston. He was a good friend of Davy Crockett. For these reasons Mrs. Cook was particularly invited to come from Oklahoma City for the opening of the centennial on June 16. She was an honor guest in Dallas at that time. Mrs. Brown and son are also enjoying special courtesies because of their connection with George Robert Downs.

Dawson-Gobble

Of particular interest to a wide circle of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mildred Gobble, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gobble, 2202 Gordon avenue, to Mr. Olin Dawson of this city. The wedding took place at the home of Rev. L. T. Hastings on South Grand street, Thursday at 8 o'clock in the evening. The living room of the Hastings home was beautifully decorated in baskets and vases of cut flowers, and the ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of greenery.

The bride was smartly dressed in an early fall model of navy blue taffeta, with matching accessories and a bride's corsage. Her only attendant was Mrs. Carey Kirkland. Mr. Carey Kirkland acted as best man.

Only members of the immediate family and a few close friends attended the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson are at home to their many friends at 409 North Third street.

A whirl of social activities has been revolving around the house party in the home of Misses Clarice and Lee Slagle this week. The members of the house party were Miss Majory Kidd Nichols of Ruston, Miss Helen Wilkenson of Port Allen and Miss Mary Moss Madison of Bastrop. Attesting to the popularity of Clarice and Lee and their mother, Mrs. Elmer Slagle, were the many little get-togethers given for these much-feted guests. Mamie Davis was the power behind the gun in a clever box supper one night, Frances McHenry, for Cornelia, gave a picture show matinee party followed by a swim in their magnificent outdoor swimming pool, Tot Ellis asked them in for a pretty luncheon party, and Mary Flournoy and Laura and Jean entertained with a monopoly game one afternoon. Mrs. D. I. Garrett invited them down one night for supper. The guests left Wednesday.

Marriage Announced

The following from the Beaumont (Tex.) Enterprise is of interest to many in Monroe and vicinity.

"At 5 o'clock on Saturday, at the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Edgar Arthur, 2290 Pecas Blvd., there was celebrated the marriage ceremony of Miss Mildred Matthews, daughter of Mrs. Oscar Matthews of Beaumont, to Mr. Thomas E. Williams, Jr., of Shreveport, Louisiana. The ceremony took place in front of an improvised altar of greens in front of which were placed bridal tapers in floor candelabra, and a white prie dieu.

"Miss Ruby Reed on the violin, and Mrs. Joseph Singleton at the piano played the wedding music. The bride's sister, Mrs. Arthur, was her only attendant. She wore a gown of peach lace with modish jacket, puffed sleeves, arm bouquet of rainbow asters.

"The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Oscar Matthews, was in white lace with fitted jacket extending onto the floor in a short train. The waist of her gown had long fitted sleeves and a high neckline. The bride wore a finger length veil of white tulle, covering her head in cap fashion and held in place with a band of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of white asters.

"Mrs. Matthews, mother of the bride, wore forget-me-not blue lace with a corsage of roses and pink asters.

"After the wedding, there was a small reception for the guests. The bride's table was covered with a handsome lace cloth on which was a beautifully decorated ring-shaped wedding cake.

"Mrs. Williams' going away suit was a modish tailleur of shrimp light weight wool with which she wore black accessories.

"The bride is a member of pioneer families of east and central Texas, her ancestors being among the first settlers. She is a native of Nacogdoches, the daughter of Mrs. Matthews, and the late Mr. Oscar Matthews. She was educated in the public schools of Nacogdoches and at the University of Texas.

"Guests from out of town included the bridegroom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. T. E. Williams, Mrs. Wendel Nipper and children, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neff, Mr. James Dawson of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hanna, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hemphill, Miss Robbie Lee Hanna, Mr. O. N. McNeill of Monroe, and Mrs. Ashford Jones of Nacogdoches."

Garden Club Sponsors Education Movement For Children

Beauty Of Nature Is Being Stressed

Program Highly Valued In Cities Where It Receives Organizations' Support

The Monroe Garden club, as everyone knows, has always kept abreast of the times in spreading the love and knowledge of the beauty of nature, especially in regard to privately owned gardens. Of late a new movement has been on foot to begin educating for an appreciation of nature among smaller children so that they will already have acquired a favorable attitude by the time they become adults. In view of the tendency to educate the little children, Mrs. Buchanan, president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, of Alexandria, appointed Mrs. Elmer Richards last year and Miss Lucylle Godwin this year as chairman for the Junior Garden Club Federation of Louisiana. In this connection the following excerpts from The Flower Grower are especially interesting:

"Fort Worth, Tex., is to be congratulated on its activities in favor of the children and in favor of gardening and nature subjects generally. Here is the way they do it.

"Children in the public schools of that city take regular courses in the Garden center, an institution founded to foster the art and science of gardening. Their studies in the center form a part of their standard school activities, for which credits are given.

"Music forms a part of every program. On Thursday morning each week, school children meet in the center, or in the shelter house in the rose garden or back in the woods in the council ring on the main nature trail, for instruction and research work.

"Characteristic subjects for summer programs are hobbies, fishing as a fine art, fish collections, rocks and geology, wild flowers, and cotton. Reviews of books for children are given and legends of birds and flowers are related. The children enjoy the program so much that they come to the botanic gardens on their own.

"The Garden center has been one of the many centennial attractions in Texas during 1936, and special programs and demonstrations have been planned."

The following from Southern Homes and Gardens is also interesting:

"Nature study develops knowledge of nature and a consciousness of the relation between the child and the commonplace things in the great world about him. These are active and powerful agencies that exert a remarkable influence over him throughout life; they mostly control our attitude toward all things; whether we see a thing ugly or beautiful and whether we derive pain or pleasure from the experience.

"The whole field of nature study forms a wonderful foundation for sex education. Through the use of flowers, birds, insects, pets, the problems of sex education can be presented in such a manner that the child learns this mystifying subject with the proper concept and interpretation.

"It is through nature guidance as in no other field, that the foundation for a well balanced life can be built in the child. This guiding does not require of the parent specific training in the related scientific fields, but merely a love of the outdoors and a curiosity sufficient to make one look and observe. To feel the glory of the moon, to drink in the fragrance of the flowers, and to hear the many songs played by the insect orchestra of the field folk, with understanding and appreciation of all it involves, is reward enough for any mother's efforts She will indeed achieve true education for herself and child, which is happiness and contentment derived from a knowledge of the common things of life."

A lovely prenuptial function of the past week among the many in honor of Miss Elizabeth Drew, bride-elect, was the morning coffee given by Mrs. Irving Wolff in her home on Park avenue. Mrs. Wolff decorated her reception suite and her dining room in a wealth of pink roses. Those assisting the hostess in receiving were: Miss Elizabeth Drew, in a fluffy black of sheer material, Miss Norma Holden of Baton Rouge in black tailored sport dress, Mrs. Cloyd Drew in flowered chiffon, Mrs. J. S. Drew in pink lace, Mrs. Dean Selig in orchid net, Mrs. A. L. Peters in grey with orchid accessories. Mrs. Wolff wore navy blue.

The dining room table was covered with a rich madeira cloth and decorated with a centerpiece of pink radiance roses. Assisting in the serving of the varied refreshments were Miss Sadie Lou Peters in a white eyelet suit and Miss Violet Martin in navy blue with white organdy collar and cuffs.

Fifty guests called to accept the gracious hospitality offered and to pay their respects to Miss Drew and the hostess.

Mrs. C. E. Fauntleroy and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Halsell had some very interesting visitors in their home last week, three attractive children about whom follows an excerpt from the Daytona Sun Record:

"The youngsters, Louis, Kathleen and Billy, are among the most popular entertainers in Dallas, and their services are much in demand. A musical and dancing trio, each individual member is an artist in his or her own right. Louis, the eldest, is child cornet champion, member of the Oak Cliff junior civic band, the Rosemant school orchestra, the all-city orchestra, and the greater Dallas boys' band. He also plays the saxophone and clarinet.

"Kathleen plays the accordion, and Billy the saxophone. Together, the three star as tap dancers and personality songsters. One of their feature numbers is a Ted Lewis skit, done in top hats and smart costumes.

"Louis, who is soloist with the Greater Dallas Boys' band, was presented by Vincent Lopez in his parade of talent when the famous maestro appeared in Dallas."

Miss Flora Mae Dasko, who for the last two days has been the guest of Miss Madeline Buttitta, returned to her home in Alexandria Thursday. Miss Dasko was accompanied by Miss Buttitta, who will remain as her guest for the next week. Miss Buttitta entertained Miss Dasko with a dancing party with the following guests: Misses Flora Mae Dasko, Aline Moore, Nancy Buttitta, Ann Soebbing, Beverly Ann Jones, Annette and Madeline Buttitta, Dell Bielkiewitz, Mildred Buttitta, Messrs. James Guerriero, Vincent Sampagnaro, Frank Anzalone, John Varino, Louis Guerriero, Louis Breard, M. J. Varino, Lenard Lemle, Tommy Soebbing, Herbert Breard, John Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buttitta. Out-of-town guests were Mr. W. E. Moore, Jr., of Fort Necessity, and Mr. Milton M. Harrison of Winnsboro.

WE ARE HAPPY TO ANNOUNCE that we have been able to secure
MRS. RUBY (L. C.) RICHARDSON and she is now with our staff of coiffure experts and instructors to serve your beauty needs.

Mrs. Richardson has for the past year been in charge of a Beauty School in Southern Louisiana and we were very fortunate to be able to secure her services for the people of Monroe and vicinity.

Mrs. Richardson needs no introduction to the trade in Monroe and West Monroe sections, having served several years here prior to her taking over the work in another part of the state.

Mrs. Richardson is recognized as one of the best Coiffure experts and Beauty Teachers in the state. To quote the secretary of the state board, "She is a natural born beautician and instructor."

We feel sure that the Twin Cities and surrounding trade territory will join us in welcoming Mrs. Richardson back to Monroe.

Garden Club Sponsors Education Movement For Children

Beauty Of Nature Is Being Stressed

Program Highly Valued In Cities Where It Receives Organizations' Support

The Monroe Garden club, as everyone knows, has always kept abreast of the times in spreading the love and knowledge of the beauty of nature, especially in regard to privately owned gardens. Of late a new movement has been on foot to begin educating for an appreciation of nature among smaller children so that they will already have acquired a favorable attitude by the time they become adults. In view of the tendency to educate the little children, Mrs. Buchanan, president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, of Alexandria, appointed Mrs. Elmer Richards last year and Miss Lucylle Godwin this year as chairman for the Junior Garden Club Federation of Louisiana. In this connection the following excerpts from The Flower Grower are especially interesting:

"Fort Worth, Tex., is to be congratulated on its activities in favor of the children and in favor of gardening and nature subjects generally. Here is the way they do it.

"Children in the public schools of that city take regular courses in the Garden center, an institution founded to foster the art and science of gardening. Their studies in the center form a part of their standard school activities, for which credits are given.

"Music forms a part of every program. On Thursday morning each week, school children meet in the center, or in the shelter house in the rose garden or back in the woods in the council ring on the main nature trail, for instruction and research work.

"Characteristic subjects for summer programs are hobbies, fishing as a fine art, fish collections, rocks and geology, wild flowers, and cotton. Reviews of books for children are given and legends of birds and flowers are related. The children enjoy the program so much that they come to the botanic gardens on their own.

"The Garden center has been one of the many centennial attractions in Texas during 1936, and special programs and demonstrations have been planned."

The following from Southern Homes and Gardens is also interesting:

"Nature study develops knowledge of nature and a consciousness of the relation between the child and the commonplace things in the great world about him. These are active and powerful agencies that exert a remarkable influence over him throughout life; they mostly control our attitude toward all things; whether we see a thing ugly or beautiful and whether we derive pain or pleasure from the experience.

"The whole field of nature study forms a wonderful foundation for sex education. Through the use of flowers, birds, insects, pets, the problems of sex education can be presented in such a manner that the child learns this mystifying subject with the proper concept and interpretation.

"It is through nature guidance as in no other field, that the foundation for a well balanced life can be built in the child. This guiding does not require of the parent specific training in the related scientific fields, but merely a love of the outdoors and a curiosity sufficient to make one look and observe. To feel the glory of the moon, to drink in the fragrance of the flowers, and to hear the many songs played by the insect orchestra of the field folk, with understanding and appreciation of all it involves, is reward enough for any mother's efforts. She will indeed achieve true education for herself and child, which is happiness and contentment derived from a knowledge of the common things of life."

A lovely prenuptial function of the past week among the many in honor of Miss Elizabeth Drew, bride-elect, was the morning coffee given by Mrs. Irving Wolff in her home on Park avenue. Mrs. Wolff decorated her reception suite and her dining room in a wealth of pink roses. Those assisting the hostess in receiving were: Miss Elizabeth Drew, in a fluffy black of sheer material, Miss Norma Holden of Baton Rouge in black tailored sport dress, Mrs. Cloyd Drew in flowered chiffon, Mrs. J. S. Drew in pink lace, Mrs. Dean Selig in orchid net, Mrs. A. L. Peters in grey with orchid accessories. Mrs. Wolff wore navy blue.

The dining room table was covered with a rich madeira cloth and decorated with a centerpiece of pink radiance roses. Assisting in the serving of the varied refreshments were Miss Sadie Lou Peters in a white eyelet suit and Miss Violet Martin in navy blue with white organdy collar and cuffs.

Fifty guests called to accept the gracious hospitality offered and to pay their respects to Miss Drew and the hostess.

Mrs. C. E. Fauntleroy and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Halsell had some very interesting visitors in their home last week, three attractive children about whom follows an excerpt from the Daytona Sun Record:

"The youngsters, Louis, Kathleen and Billy, are among the most popular entertainers in Dallas, and their services are much in demand. A musical and dancing trio, each individual member is an artist in his or her own right. Louis, the eldest, is child cornet champion, member of the Oak Cliff junior civic band, the Rosemant school orchestra, the all-city orchestra, and the greater Dallas boys' band. He also plays the saxophone and clarinet.

"Kathleen plays the accordion, and Billy the saxophone. Together, the three star as tap dancers and personality songsters. One of their feature numbers is a Ted Lewis skit, done in top hats and smart costumes.

"Louis, who is soloist with the Greater Dallas Boys' band, was presented by Vincent Lopez in his parade of talent when the famous maestro appeared in Dallas."

Miss Flora Mae Dasko, who for the last two days has been the guest of Miss Madeline Buttitta, returned to her home in Alexandria Thursday. Miss Dasko was accompanied by Miss Buttitta, who will remain as her guest for the next week. Miss Buttitta entertained Miss Dasko with a dancing party with the following guests: Misses Flora Mae Dasko, Aline Moore, Nancy Buttitta, Ann Soebbing, Beverly Ann Jones, Annette and Madeline Buttitta, Dell Bielkiewitz, Mildred Buttitta, Messrs. James Guerriero, Vincent Sampagnaro, Frank Anzalone, John Varino, Louis Guerriero, Louis Breard, M. J. Varino, Lenard Lemle, Tommy Soebbing, Herbert Breard, John Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buttitta. Out-of-town guests were Mr. W. E. Moore, Jr., of Fort Necessity, and Mr. Milton M. Harrison of Winnsboro.

Miss Moyse Is Married

Local Residents In Ceremony Held At Capital

The following is taken from the Baton Rouge State Times for August 17:

"One of the most notable nuptials of the year and one which dalmed state-wide attention was the marriage of Miss Jacqueline Flora Moyse, the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Moyse, to Mr. Morris A. Kaufman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kaufman of Newellton.

"The roof was transformed into a picturesque tropical garden with an abundance of lofty palms and tropical garden plants as a background. The altar was skillfully improvised before the wide mantel at the west of the spacious room and was particularly artistic and beautiful. At the altar as a central ornament of great attraction was a large white urn filled with a graceful arrangement of tiny button asters of snow white intermingled with large white chrysanthemums and fern. At either side were smaller urns containing these same flowers.

"Rabbi F. K. Hirsch of Monroe officiated and stood on a small raised platform before which the bridal party was grouped in effective tableau.

"About the room many palms and ferns were placed, and a charming bower was created near the piano where Mrs. Henry L. Cohn sang beautifully "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Cohn is a cousin of the bride. Her accompanist was Mrs. Joe Levy, of Galveston, who also played the wedding march, the Bridal Chorus, from Wagner's Lohengrin.

"The wedding party entered through the wide doors leading from the hall into the ballroom and walked down a white carpeted aisle which turned at right angles and extended to the altar. It was marked by tall baskets filled with white asters and chrysanthemums, from which sprays of feathery fern cascaded, alternated with smaller baskets holding smaller floral arrangements. On either side of the altar space was reserved for the families of the bride and bridegroom.

"The gowns worn by the bride and her attendants were distinctive and very beautiful, as were also the flowers they carried.

"The bridesmaids were Miss Ray Sommer and Miss Edwina Hirsch, both of whom are cousins of the bride, Miss Julia Benedict Cohn and Miss Sara Weill of Abbeville, Miss Betty Jean Moyse, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moyse and first cousin of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid. All were gowned in beautiful models of peach-pink faille taffeta fashioned in princess style. Each was trimmed with a row of tiny self-covered buttons down the back, and the long skirts flared very full and gracefully. The short sleeves were formed by three tiers of tiny plaited ruffles. They carried pink muffs, ornamented with clusters of Betty Nutthall gladioli, and wore wide hats of transparent hair-braid in a matching tone.

"The bride chose as her matron of honor, her mother, Mrs. Moyse, and none in the wedding party was lovelier than she. Her gown was of delicate apple-green faille taffeta and with it she wore a picture hat of matching green hair-braid. She carried on her arm a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, tied with broad ribbons to match the gown. The charming maid-of-honor was Miss Suzanne Hirsch of Monroe, another cousin of the bride. She was also in apple-green taffeta, made like the gowns worn by the bridesmaids. Her flowers were Johanna Hill roses arranged in an arm bouquet.

"Mr. I. H. Rubenstein was best man.

"The lovely young bride, presented at the altar by her father, was wearing traditional ivory satin modeled in the newest redingote, forming a graceful train.

"She wore the veil of her grandmother, an exquisite creation of rose pointe lace and illusion, which fell over her satin train from a coronet of real lace, edged with a wreath of natural valley lilies and held in place by orange blossoms and a handsome pearl pin which had also been worn by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. Hirsch of Monroe. The bride's bouquet was made in shower effect of white roses, valley lilies and white orchids, tied with white satin ribbon. She carried the same real lace handkerchief that her mother, the former Leah Hirsch, carried when she plighted her troth to young Ike Moyse in Monroe just 23 years ago this summer.

"The groomsmen were Mr. William Kaufman of Lake Charles, Mr. Robert Dreyfous of Hattiesburg, Miss., Mr. Ewell Roundtree of Newellton and Mr. Alvin Soloman of Memphis, who is a cousin to the bridegroom.

"The reception held after the ceremony was very informal and charming. The bride's cake centered the Pointe de Venise lace-covered table and there was a crystal punch bowl at either end. A group of four lovely young girls served and their delicate pastel-hued tea gowns were complemented by wrist corsages of Johanna Hill roses. They were Misses Marian and Thea Mayer, Louise Maas and Mildred Soloman. The cake was a tiered confection ornamented with lilies-of-the-valley and flanked by white holders filled with bride's roses and valley lilies. The small cakes and mints reflected a note of peach-pink and green. Cole's orchestra played during the reception.

"Receiving in addition to the bridal party were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kaufman, the bride's grandfather, Mr. Simon Moyse, and her aunts and uncles. Dr. and Mrs. E. K. Hirsch, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Kahn, and Mrs. Lep Sommer.

"Assisting also in receiving were Mr and Mrs. Jonas Selig, Mr. and Mrs Abe Arent, Dr. and Mrs. D. I. Hirsch, all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Marion S. Kaufman and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kaufman of Alexandria.

"Traveling in a very smart tall two-piece ensemble of British tan and wearing a corsage of orchids, the bride left by motor with her husband for a motor trip through Florida. They will return to Louisiana to live in Newellton, where a new and completely furnished home, the gift of the bridegroom's parents, awaits them. There the many beautiful gifts received by them will be placed.

"The bride is the only child of Mr and Mrs. Moyse and has been unusually popular in Baton Rouge, where she came as a child with her parents, who moved here from Galveston, Tex. She holds two degrees from Louisiana State university, and membership in Sigma Delta Tau, national social sorority, as well as in three honorary groups, Mortar Board, Mu Sigma Rho and Kappa Delta Pi. No bride of the season was complimented more than she. The pre-nuptial parties given for her were both numerous and beautiful.

"Mr. Kaufman is well known here where he was a student at the university and a member of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity and the Daggers. He received his degree several years ago and has since been associated with his father in business."

As a culmination of the many wedding parties given for Miss Jacqueline Moyse before her marriage to Mr Morris A. Kaufman, a dinner was given at Hotel Heidelberg at Baton Rouge on Saturday night, August 14, after the rehearsal, with Dr. and Mrs. E. K. Hirsch of Baton Rouge as the host and hostess. Covers were laid for about 60 guests, including the entire wedding party, and guests from out of town who came to attend the wedding.

On Sunday at noon, Mr. and Mrs. Moyse, father and mother of the bride, entertained at a beautiful luncheon for 76 guests at the Heidelberg. Distinctive among the many delicious dishes on the menu was the dessert, ice cream molded in many different shapes, bride's slippers, old brown shoes of chocolate ice cream, lilies, roses, hearts, miniature brides and grooms.

Birthday Party

Little Mary Gertrude Rodriguez, daughter of City Commissioner and Mrs. William Rodriguez, having attained the age of three on Saturday, celebrated the event with a birthday party at the merry-go-round at 4 o'clock Before enjoying the numerous rides on the merry-go-round, each guest was provided with a candy sucker and a horn. All had a perfectly hilarious time. They were Bill Rodriguez, Tom, Marjorie and Marshall Ruth Eubanks, John and Jo-Marie Ellett, Ann Shafto, John Wooten, Palmer Huey, Elizabeth Leigh, Mary Wilton McHenry, Benton Tisdale, Wyche Ashcraft, Margaret Backschies, Speed Bancroft, Buck Brown, Martha Clayton Sparks, Elaine Kimball, John Schroeder, Joan Snelling, Jackie Ferrill, Byron James and Laurin Field.

House Party

Mr. and Mrs. Greene Haynes of West Monroe chaperoned about 20 of the college set on a house party at Pace's lake last week. They went out Wednesday and returned Saturday. For the house party they borrowed Arent's comfortable and well appointed camp. Among those enjoying this exciting affair were Miss Doris Reid, Boots Moore, Mary Elizabeth Smith, Nan Buckner, Eleanor Colbert, Sue Jane Molaison, Honey Glassell of Shreveport, Jane Terzia, Virginia Husted, Ellen Hale, Libby Haynes, Francis Pettis of Bastrop, Mary Hayward, Theodora Hart, Ellen Ralston, Sarah Virginia Craig, of Atlanta, and Helen Perry of Shreveport.

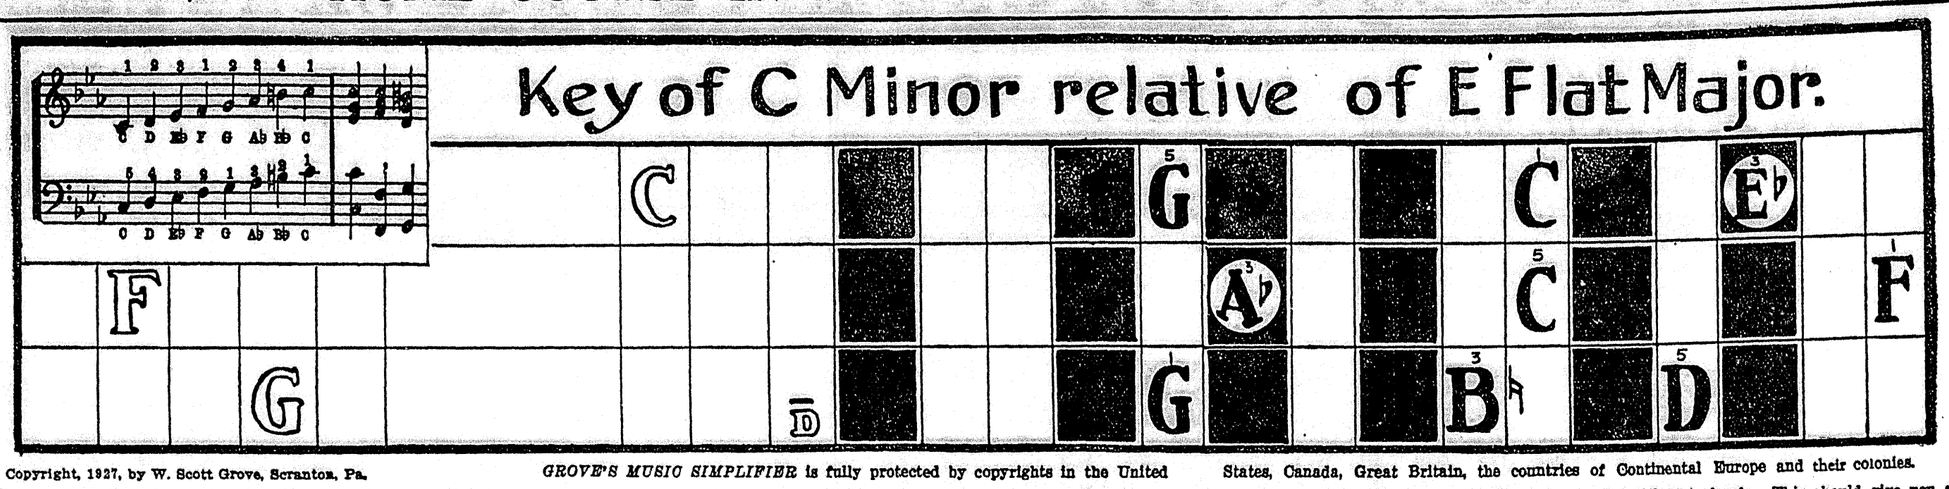
HOME COURSE IN PIANO PLAYING—LESSON NO. 20



Copyright, 1927, by W. Scott Grove, Scranton, Pa. GROVE'S MUSIC SIMPLIFIER is fully protected by copyrights in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, the countries of Continental Europe and their colonies.

This, the twentieth lesson for the piano or organ, according to Grove's home-teaching system presents the key of C Minor, which is the relative of the key of E Flat Major. It is the next step in acquiring a sound foundation for a musical education. As requested in the preceding lesson, memorize these chords by playing them over and over until you can play them without looking at the chart.

Miss Moyse Is Married

Local Residents In Ceremony Held At Capital

The following is taken from the Baton Rouge State Times for August 17:

"One of the most notable nuptials of the year and one which claimed state-wide attention was the marriage of Miss Jacqueline Flora Moyse, the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Moyse, to Mr. Morris A. Kaufman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kaufman of Newellton.

"The roof was transformed into a picturesque tropical garden with an abundance of lofty palms and tropical garden plants as a background. The altar was skillfully improvised before the wide mantel at the west of the spacious room and was particularly artistic and beautiful. At the altar as a central ornament of great attraction was a large white urn filled with a graceful arrangement of tiny button asters of snow white intermingled with large white chrysanthemums and fern. At either side were smaller urns containing these same flowers.

"Rabbi F. K. Hirsch of Monroe officiated and stood on a small raised platform before which the bridal party was grouped in effective tableau.

"About the room many palms and ferns were placed, and a charming bower was created near the piano where Mrs. Henry L. Cohn sang beautifully "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Cohn is a cousin of the bride. Her accompanist was Mrs. Joe Levy, of Galveston, who also played the wedding march, the Bridal Chorus, from Wagner's Lohengrin.

"The wedding party entered through the wide doors leading from the hall into the ballroom and walked down a white carpeted aisle which turned at right angles and extended to the altar. It was marked by tall baskets filled with white asters and chrysanthemums, from which sprays of feathery fern cascaded, alternated with smaller baskets holding smaller floral arrangements. On either side of the altar space was reserved for the families of the bride and bridegroom.

"The gowns worn by the bride and her attendants were distinctive and very beautiful, as were also the flowers they carried.

"The bridesmaids were Miss Ray Sommer and Miss Edwina Hirsch, both of whom are cousins of the bride, Miss Julia Benedict Cohn and Miss Sara Weill of Abbeville. Miss Betty Jean Moyse, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moyse and first cousin of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid. All were gowned in beautiful models of peach-pink faille taffeta fashioned in princess style. Each was trimmed with a row of tiny self-covered buttons down the back, and the long skirts flared very full and gracefully. The short sleeves were formed by three tiers of tiny plaited ruffles. They carried pink muffs, ornamented with clusters of Betty Nutthall gladioli, and wore wide hats of transparent hair-braid in a matching tone.

"The bride chose as her matron of honor, her mother, Mrs. Moyse, and none in the wedding party was lovelier than she. Her gown was of delicate apple-green faille taffeta and with it she wore a picture hat of matching green hair-braid. She carried on her arm a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, tied with broad ribbons to match the gown. The charming maid-of-honor was Miss Suzanne Hirsch of Monroe, another cousin of the bride. She was also in apple-green taffeta, made like the gowns worn by the bridesmaids. Her flowers were Johanna Hill roses arranged in an arm bouquet.

"Mr. I. H. Rubenstein was best man.

"The lovely young bride, presented at the altar by her father, was wearing traditional ivory satin modeled in the newest redingote, forming a graceful train.

"She wore the veil of her grandmother, an exquisite creation of rose pointe lace and illusion, which fell over her satin train from a coronet of real lace, edged with a wreath of natural valley lilies and held in place by orange blossoms and a handsome pearl pin which had also been worn by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. Hirsch of Monroe. The bride's bouquet was made in shower effect of white roses, valley lilies and white orchids, tied with white satin ribbon. She carried the same real lace handkerchief that her mother, the former Leah Hirsch, carried when she plighted her troth to young Ike Moyse in Monroe just 23 years ago this summer.

"The groomsmen were Mr. William Kaufman of Lake Charles, Mr. Robert Dreyfous of Hattiesburg, Miss., Mr. Ewell Roundtree of Newellton and Mr. Alvin Soloman of Memphis, who is a cousin to the bridegroom.

"The reception held after the ceremony was very informal and charming. The bride's cake centered the Pointe de Venise lace-covered table and there was a crystal punch bowl at either end. A group of four lovely young girls served and their delicate pastel-hued tea gowns were complemented by wrist corsages of Johanna Hill roses. They were Misses Marian and Thea Mayer, Louise Maas and Mildred Soloman. The cake was a tiered confection ornamented with lilies-of-the-valley and flanked by white holders filled with bride's roses and valley lilies. The small cakes and mints reflected a note of peach-pink and green. Cole's orchestra played during the reception.

"Receiving in addition to the bridal party were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kaufman, the bride's grandfather, Mr. Simon Moyse, and her aunts and uncles, Dr. and Mrs. E. K. Hirsch, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Kahn, and Mrs. Lep Sommer.

"Assisting also in receiving were Mr and Mrs. Jonas Selig, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Arent, Dr. and Mrs. D. I. Hirsch, all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Marion S. Kaufman and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kaufman of Alexandria.

"Traveling in a very smart fall two-piece ensemble of British tan and wearing a corsage of orchids, the bride left by motor with her husband for a motor trip through Florida. They will return to Louisiana to live in Newellton, where a new and completely furnished home, the gift of the bridegroom's parents, awaits them. There the many beautiful gifts received by them will be placed.

"The bride is the only child of Mr and Mrs. Moyse and has been unusually popular in Baton Rouge, where she came as a child with her parents, who moved here from Galveston, Tex. She holds two degrees from Louisiana State university, and membership in Sigma Delta Tau, national social sorority, as well as in three honorary groups, Mortar Board, Mu Sigma Rho and Kappa Delta Pi. No bride of the season was complimented more than she. The pre-nuptial parties given for her were both numerous and beautiful.

"Mr. Kaufman is well known here where he was a student at the university and a member of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity and the Daggers. He received his degree several years ago and has since been associated with his father in business."

As a culmination of the many wedding parties given for Miss Jacqueline Moyse before her marriage to Mr Morris A. Kaufman, a dinner was given at Hotel Heidelberg at Baton Rouge on Saturday night, August 14, after the rehearsal, with Dr. and Mrs. E. K. Hirsch of Baton Rouge as the host and hostess. Covers were laid for about 60 guests, including the entire wedding party, and guests from out of town who came to attend the wedding.

On Sunday at noon, Mr. and Mrs. Moyse, father and mother of the bride, entertained at a beautiful luncheon for 76 guests at the Heidelberg. Distinctive among the many delicious dishes on the menu was the dessert, ice cream molded in many different shapes, bride's slippers, old brown shoes of chocolate ice cream, lilies, roses, hearts, miniature brides and grooms.

House Party

Mr. and Mrs. Greene Haynes of West Monroe chaperoned about 20 of the college set on a house party at Pace's lake last week. They went out Wednesday and returned Saturday. For the house party they borrowed Arent's comfortable and well appointed camp. Among those enjoying this exciting affair were Miss Doris Reid, Boots Moore, Mary Elizabeth Smith, Nan Buckner, Eleanor Colbert, Sue Jane Molaison, Honey Glassell of Shreveport, Jane Terzia, Virginia Husted, Ellen Hale, Libby Haynes, Francis Pettis of Bastrop, Mary Hayward, Theodora Hart, Ellen Ralston, Sarah Virginia Craig, of Atlanta, and Helen Perry of Shreveport.

HOME COURSE IN PIANO PLAYING—LESSON NO. 20

Copyright, 1927, by W. Scott Grove, Scranton, Pa. GROVE'S MUSIC SIMPLIFIER is fully protected by copyrights in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, the countries of Continental Europe and their colonies.

This, the twentieth lesson for the piano or organ, according to Grove's home-teaching system presents the key of C Minor, which is the relative of the key of E Flat Major. It is the next step in acquiring a sound foundation for a musical education. As requested in the preceding lesson, memorize these chords by playing them over and over until you can play them without looking at the chart.

If you will compare the chords and bass notes of any particular chart in this series with a manuscript of music arranged in the same key this fact will appear: two-thirds or even more of the chords of harmony in the manuscript, except those charts. That is, the chords most in use are those that you have already learned used for modulation, are comprised in some position of the chords arranged in these black keys and then without the use of the chart. Commit to memory also the in previous lessons. The chords of modulation are those that permit a change from one key to another by easy steps.

When you are playing accompaniments each chord you strike should (in general) contain the note of the melody that is sounded with the chord. You can study this out from the charts but few persons should need more instruction on this point than the ear itself can give.

Persistence is necessary if you are to learn much from these lessons. You must play the chords over and over, first with the chart placed on the instrument before you so that the white spaces are over the white keys and black spaces are over the names of the keys that make up the different chords. This should give you sufficient knowledge for playing accompaniments. If you wish to go further in the study of the piano or organ, learn the fingering of the scales shown in the upper left hand corner of each chart.

Every triad in black letter is marked 1, 3, 5. Always read it so, no matter in what vertical order the notes may be written. Note that the small letter D with a dash above it must not be played.

NEXT LESSON—A Flat Major.

"Mission Lessons from the Bible" was the subject of the meeting of Circle four of the Baptist Missionary society at the home of Mrs. Mahlon Miller at the weekly meeting. A general discussion of the text was participated in by the members present. At the close the hostess served refreshments to the guests who were Mrs. W. R. Hatchell, Mrs. James Bethea, Mrs. C. P. Little, Mrs. R. O. Bales, Mrs. W. O. Little, Mrs. B. B. Brown, Miss Marguerite Boswell.

The Presbyterian auxiliary was delightfully entertained by Mrs. J. S. Agee on the lawn of her home. The devotional was given by Mrs. J. H. Collins and Mrs. R. K. Boney conducted a "quiz" on the governing boards of the Presbyterian church. Mrs. Agee served delicious ice cream and cake to the following: Mrs. E. E. Wallace, Mrs. George Ketchum, Mrs. W. T. Fairly, Mrs. A. L. Sevier, Mrs. R. R. Taylor, Mrs. R. L. Taylor, Mrs. R. E. Gilbert, Mrs. R. K. Boney, Mrs. J. H. Collins, Miss Amy Holmes, Mrs. Mary Wilson and Mrs. W. S. Craig.

A business meeting of the American Legion auxiliary was held at the community club with Mrs. A. L. Sevier presiding. Delegates elected to the state convention were Mrs. A. L. Sevier, Mrs. R. T. Campbell, Mrs. J. C. Smith and Mrs. C. H. Todd. The hostesses, Mrs. Herman Lancaster and Mrs. Harry Anderson, served refreshments at the conclusion of the session to Mrs. R. K. Boney, Mrs. Ira Baxter, Mrs. R. N. Ware, Mrs. A. L. Sevier, Mrs. Wray Bowie and Mrs. R. T. Campbell.

Mrs. C. W. Spencer entertained the members of her circle of the W. M. U. with Mrs. R. S. Gayle teaching the lesson from "Missions in the Bible." The guests included Mrs. G. M. Fuller, Mrs. Z. L. Chambliss, Mrs. J. K. Post, and Mrs. R. S. Gayle.

Swing Tunes Invade Old West In Crosby-Burns Picture

Radio Stars In Top Spots Of New Film

Stellar Cast Features Delightful Musical At Paramount Today

BY all odds the most tuneful, most amusing and mose unique of the films to feature Bing Crosby Paramount's new rollicking musical, "Rhythm on the Range," which opened yesterday at the Paramount theater, provides a balanced program of song, comedy and romance unmatched by any recent screen offerings.

Introducing Bob Burns, drawling Arkansas maestro of the gas-pipe bazooka, for his first important movie role, "Rhythm on the Range" casts Frances Farmer opposite Crosby and surrounds the trio with a score of the best talent in films.

A brief outline of the story serves to indicate the general comedy slant of the fast-moving musical romance.

Crosby and Burns are cowboys who take part in a Madison Square Garden rodeo in New York. Crosby, with his rodeo winnings, buys a prize bull and starts with the animal for his home ranch in Arizona, aboard a box car. Burns, always accompanied by his bazooka, heads for the same location aboard a passenger train.

Frances Farmer, wealthy society girl, flees a scheduled marriage and stows away aboard Crosby's box car, hoping to reach the ranch operated by her aunt, Lucille Webster Gleason, who is Crosby's employer.

Bull, girl and cowboy make their way across the continent by box car, on foot, and by auto and trailer. En route romance blooms.

Meanwhile Burns has been stormed by Martha Raye, comedienne with a rubber face and a line of insane nonsense who makes her film debut in this picture. Their romance, too, grows as the miles fall away.

Adding another touch of humor to the plot are the exploits of Warren Hymer, George E. Stone and James Burk, a trio of thugs who trail Crosby and Miss Farmer—and the bull—through several states, intent on kidnaping the girl and holding her for ransom.

Samuel S. Hinds, always skilled in character roles, plays the girl's father. Incidental comedy is injected by Charles Williams, a cowboy whose father was a subway man, and who isn't happy unless he is underground; by Leonid Kinskey, Russian cowboy who was a Cossack until "I got laid hoff by the ravolution," and by a score of others.

"Rhythm on the Range" introduces such song hits as "I Can's Escape From You," "The House That Jack Built for Jill," "If You Can't Swing It You'll Have To Swing It," "Empty Saddles, "Roundup Lullaby" and "I'm an Old Cow Hand From the Rio Grande." Music is provided by everything from the Burns bazooka to the hot swing band presided over by Louis Prima.

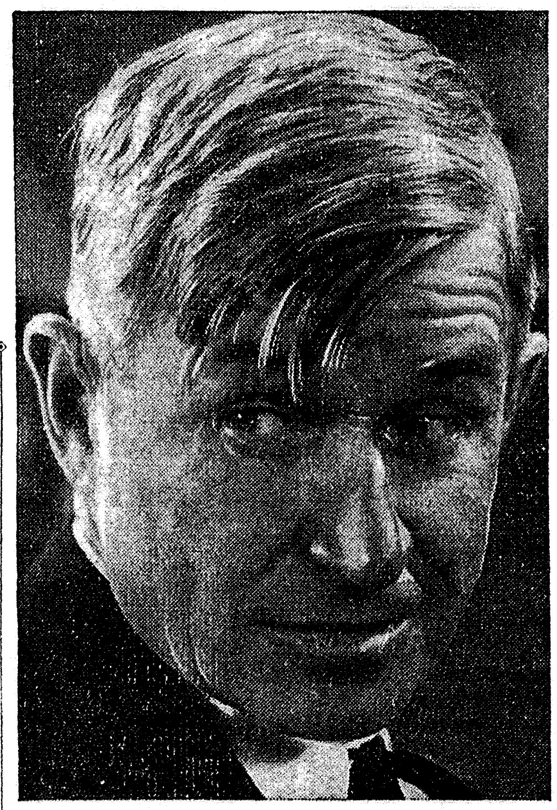
"Rhythm on the Range," with Bing Crosby and Frances Farmer, playing today and tomorrow at the Paramount.

At the Capitol today and tomorrow, "Nero Wolfe," played by Edward Arnold. Lionel Stander and Joan Perry are also in the cast.

Wallace Beery in "A Message to Garcia," with Barbara Stanwyck and John Boles, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Capitol.

Walter Abel, Edith Atwater, Charles Butterworth in "We Went to College," playing next Thursday and Friday at the Paramount.

Jessie Matthews in "It's Love Again," with Robert Young, at the Paramount Tuesday and Wednesday.



In the gay story of adventures in King Arthur's court, "A Connecticut Yankee," Will Rogers plays the greatest of his great comedy roles at the Capitol theater next Thursday.

Gloria Stuart and Robert Kent are featured in "The Crime of Dr. Forbes," playing next Friday at the Capitol.

CHAPTER VIII

The servant said, "A young man to see you, sir."

Brent Stuart stood before a window in the library of his home. It was a room filled with mellow charm and warm color. "I've told you, Simpson," Brent said, "that I won't see anyone today."

"Yes, sir. But this is the young man who waited for hours, Mr. Brent. He seemed so upset, sir, when you didn't come in last night. If you'll pardon my saying so, sir—"

"Yes, Simpson." Brent's tone revealed none of the anguish in his heart. He had spent all the night searching the city for Molly. He had telephoned, and Donna had told him that Molly was out with a strange man—a man she had met at "The Red Poppy." Donna had kept Brent on the phone while she talked about how dreadful it had been of Wick to take Molly to such a questionable night club.

Then Brent had dashed off to make the rounds of the dining and dancing places. He was thoroughly alarmed.

He had not found her at "The Red Poppy" which, somehow, was definitely associated with his fears. He had failed to find her anywhere. As the hours lengthened toward morning Brent had gone to the Milford home to find Donna sharing his anxiety. Molly's father was to arrive in a few hours and Molly must be found.

Perhaps, Donna suggested, there had been car trouble and Molly had been unable to reach a telephone. In the end, Brent had called police headquarters to see if any accidents had been reported.

Morning had come, and someone had telephoned that Molly had been found. It was all like a horrible nightmare—that message had torn Brent's world apart.

Molly was dead. Gay, laughing, beautiful, and sweet Molly was dead. With everything to live for, she had found life not worth living. She must have known how he loved her, and yet she had not wanted to stay here with him.

It couldn't be true! Yet Brent had seen her looking so peaceful and beautiful with all trace of suffering gone, her lips closed forever. Never to answer his desperate questioning. "Why, Molly darling, did you do it?"

Simpson was still waiting in the doorway, watching his young employer anxiously. What was the matter with Simpson? Didn't he understand how to do as he was told? Couldn't he realize how much Brent wanted to be alone now? It was not possible to talk with this stranger or anyone else.

"Forgive me, sir," Simpson was saying, "but the young man is so anxious, so excited, Mr. Brent. He said he couldn't leave without seeing you."

"Bring him in," Brent spoke hoarsely. "If he's a book agent—"

"No, sir, he isn't," Simpson had answered confidently, and then vanished.

A moment later he was ushering in a dark-haired young man. The stranger stood regarding Brent timidly out of dark, melancholy eyes.

"I have a message for you, Mr. Stuart. That is, I had a message for you and then I lost it."

"I see." Brent's tone was hollow. "Then what was the good of coming here?"

"I was pretty sure I knew what was in the message. The young lady trusted me. In fact, she paid me handsomely to bring it to you."

"I don't know what you are talking about," Brent said. "Won't you sit down?"

The young man must be out of his head, though he looked sane enough. And trustworthy.

"I hurried off as soon as I could," the visitor began abruptly. "I had to tell 'Frenchy' something, give him some excuse. He's the man who owns the place where I play in an orchestra. When I was half-way to town I put my hand in my pocket and the slip of paper the young lady had given me was gone. I must have pulled it out with my handkerchief. I remembered your name, though, and I looked up your address in a directory."

"Yes." Brent put quietly, "then you camped on my doorstep all night, I hear. Or practically."

"That's right." The dark eyes lighted for a moment, humorously, "Your man tried to throw me out several times. But he was very nice when I made him understand that my message was important."

"What made you think it was?" Brent queried. He thought, heavily, how different would have been the reception given this young man, if he had been here last night. He would have been sure then that the message was connected with Molly's disappearance. Of course it wasn't. Just a crank's story. Or maybe some silly girl had sent him a mash note.

"She seemed such a nice girl," the stranger said. "So worried and excited. She looked relieved when I nodded my head to let her know I would go. I think she wanted you to come very much. If I had only read the note—but I didn't. I'm pretty sure she was afraid something was going to happen. And it did, Mr. Stuart, while I was gone. The man she was with was killed by the police."

"Good heavens!" Brent exclaimed. Surely, the boy was crazy.

"He robbed a bank, they said."

"What was the girl like?" Brent inquired mechanically.

"Golden-haired. Pretty."

Brent's heart leaped. Golden-haired. Golden Girl. But the Golden Girl was dead. Only an hour ago he had stood by her casket.

"She was little," mused the young man. "She wore a green dress and a hat with a green feather on it. Wait a moment—I have something here I'd forgotten."

He pulled out a crumpled piece of paper. "She wrote some request numbers. This is one."

Brent barely glanced at the crumpled paper. Still holding it, he said, "I appreciate your coming here. It was good of you to be so interested. But I assure you there was some mistake. I don't know that girl, or if I do, it is in some quite casual fashion. I haven't an idea in the world why she should have sent me a message. But you've been put to a great deal of trouble. I should like to pay you—"

"No, thanks," the boy said. "She did that. It was $20. I only wish I could have reached you last night. Maybe you'd have gone back with me."

"Yes," Brent replied. "I would have gone with you last night. But everything has been changed. I have had a great shock today. You'll excuse me now."

The young man bowed and went out.

Simpson opened the door. "Did he think it was important?" he asked cautiously.

The young man shook his head. "I'm afraid not," he said. "But it was important. I'm afraid he will find it out some day, when it is too late."

The front door closed and Simpson turned away, mournfully. He had been quite taken in by the young man. If Mr. Brent didn't think it was important, it wasn't. There, that was the bell again!

The young man was standing there, hat in hand. "I forgot to tell him—"

"I suppose you'll say again it's something important?"

"Yes. Very important."

"I regret, sir, that it is quite impossible for you to see Mr. Stuart again."

"Then you'll take a message for me?"

"Gladly."

The young man spoke quickly, "He wanted to know what the girl looked like, the one who sent the message. Tell him she looked exactly like that girl whose picture is on the front page of the newspapers today."

"But that is Miss Molly Milford, and she's dead." Simpson's voice sank dismally.

"Yes, I know." The visitor brushed this aside impatiently. "But this girl was her living, breathing image. Tell him that."

The door closed and Simpson's breath came heavily. What a narrow escape! So all this time he had been talking with a lunatic. Last night he had been alone with this crazy man for hours. Of course it wouldn't do to worry Mr. Brent with this ridiculous message. Simpson knew better than that. Mr. Brent was suffering almost more than he could bear, as it was.

In the library Brent stood looking down at the piece of paper in his hands. The words, blurred at first by the mist in his eyes, were gradually taking shape, "Please play Butterfly's 'Some Day He'll Come.'"

Brent's hand began to shake. The writing—no, he must be losing his mind. He was about to say the writing was Molly's. The girl who had written this had been living last night. And Molly had been in a department store—dead.

Brent rushed into the hall. "The young man who was here," he called wildly.

"He's gone, sir."

"Gone?"

"Yes, sir."

Simpson took in his young master's eyes, the white, anguished face. Everybody was going crazy. Maybe he was doing wrong to tell Mr. Brent what the stranger had said.

Nevertheless Simpson went on, "He told me to tell you, sir, that the girl who sent you the message last night looked like Miss Molly. She was the living image of the picture in the paper, he said."

"Get me the paper," Brent cried.

Ed. Arnold Is Starred At Capitol

'Meet Nero Wolfe' Is Departure From Other Fiction Detectives

UNDER the frank and informal title, "Meet Nero Wolfe," Columbia Pictures introduces Rex Stout's famous fat detective in the first screen adaptatiaon of the sleuth's widely read fictional adventures. The new film is scheduled to head the screen program at the Capitol Theater, starting today.

Those who have read "Fer de Lance," the Rex Stout story on which "Meet Nero Wolfe" is based, will recognize the lazy, beer-imbibing amateur Hawkshaw in the corpulent person of Edward Arnold. As Archie, Nero Wolfe's superstooge, Lionel Stander acts as his master's eyes, ears, arms and legs—but never his brains. Stander gathers the facts and suspects, and between rounds of beer, Wolfe assembles the crime puzzle and isolates the guilty person. So effective is this method of crime deduction that Wolfe has found it unnecessary to leave his house in seven years.

In rapid succession, Wolfe learns of two murders. Both, at first, are believed to be death by natural causes, and unrelated. Convinced of foul play, Wolfe launches his own investigations and soon rounds up six suspects. His deductions are confirmed when a third man dies in the midst of his investigations.

A golf club, transformed into a gun which shot a poisoned needle, was the lethal weapon used in the first murder. A similar needle, shot through a blow-gun, served to accomplish the second. The bite of the deadly fer de lance, a snake common to the South American tropics, in whose poison the two needles were dipped, committed the third crime. How these mystifying elements are correlated and analyzed, leading to the apprehension of the murderer, comprises the crux of the famous story.

Supporting the two male leads is a large cast including Victor Jory, John Qualen, Joan Perry, Dennie Moore, Nana Bryant and Russell Hardie. The film was adapted to the screen by Bruce Manning and Howard J. Green, under the direction of Herbert Biberman.

INSURANCE CLUB HONORS SEYMOUR AND GIRAULT

Ed J. Seymour of Monroe, and E. S. Gerrault, of the Seymour Insurance agency, have been awarded membership in the "Macaulay club," an organization composed of representatives of the Sun Life Assurance Society of Canada, who have made unusual records in the volume of business they have written during the year. The members of the club will meet in St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, New Brunswick, for a three-day gathering during September. Expenses of the trip and entertainment while at St. Andrews are borne by the company as a reward for the accomplishments of Macaulay members. The two Louisianians will be accompanied by their wives on the trip to Canada. They will leave September 3 and will be gone about three weeks.

Swing Tunes Invade Old West In Crosby-Burns Picture

Radio Stars In Top Spots Of New Film

Stellar Cast Features Delightful Musical At Paramount Today

BY all odds the most tuneful, most amusing and mose unique of the films to feature Bing Crosby Paramount's new rollicking musical, "Rhythm on the Range," which opened yesterday at the Paramount theater, provides a balanced program of song, comedy and romance unmatched by any recent screen offerings.

Introducing Bob Burns, drawling Arkansas maestro of the gas-pipe bazooka, for his first important movie role, "Rhythm on the Range" casts Frances Farmer opposite Crosby and surrounds the trio with a score of the best talent in films.

A brief outline of the story serves to indicate the general comedy slant of the fast-moving musical romance.

Crosby and Burns are cowboys who take part in a Madison Square Garden rodeo in New York. Crosby, with his rodeo winnings, buys a prize bull and starts with the animal for his home ranch in Arizona, aboard a box car. Burns, always accompanied by his bazooka, heads for the same location aboard a passenger train.

Frances Farmer, wealthy society girl, flees a scheduled marriage and stows away aboard Crosby's box car, hoping to reach the ranch operated by her aunt, Lucille Webster Gleason, who is Crosby's employer.

Bull, girl and cowboy make their way across the continent by box car, on foot, and by auto and trailer. En route romance blooms.

Meanwhile Burns has been stormed by Martha Raye, comedienne with a rubber face and a line of insane nonsense who makes her film debut in this picture. Their romance, too, grows as the miles fall away.

Adding another touch of humor to the plot are the exploits of Warren Hymer, George E. Stone and James Burk, a trio of thugs who trail Crosby and Miss Farmer—and the bull—through several states, intent on kidnaping the girl and holding her for ransom.

Samuel S. Hinds, always skilled in character roles, plays the girl's father. Incidental comedy is injected by Charles Williams, a cowboy whose father was a subway man, and who isn't happy unless he is underground; by Leonid Kinskey, Russian cowboy who was a Cossack until "I got laid hoff by the ravolution," and by a score of others.

"Rhythm on the Range" introduces such song hits as "I Can's Escape From You," "The House That Jack Built for Jill," "If You Can't Swing It You'll Have To Swing It," "Empty Saddles, "Roundup Lullaby" and "I'm an Old Cow Hand From the Rio Grande." Music is provided by everything from the Burns bazooka to the hot swing band presided over by Louis Prima.

"Rhythm on the Range," with Bing Crosby and Frances Farmer, playing today and tomorrow at the Paramount.

At the Capitol today and tomorrow, "Nero Wolfe," played by Edward Arnold. Lionel Stander and Joan Perry are also in the cast.

Wallace Beery in "A Message to Garcia," with Barbara Stanwyck and John Boles, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Capitol.

Jessie Matthews in "It's Love Again," with Robert Young, at the Paramount Tuesday and Wednesday.

Walter Abel, Edith Atwater, Charles Butterworth in "We Went to College," playing next Thursday and Friday at the Paramount.

In the gay story of adventures in King Arthur's court, "A Connecticut Yankee," Will Rogers plays the greatest of his great comedy roles at the Capitol theater next Thursday.

Gloria Stuart and Robert Kent are featured in "The Crime of Dr. Forbes," playing next Friday at the Capitol.

CHAPTER VIII

The servant said, "A young man to see you, sir."

Brent Stuart stood before a window in the library of his home. It was a room filled with mellow charm and warm color. "I've told you, Simpson," Brent said, "that I won't see anyone today."

"Yes, sir. But this is the young man who waited for hours, Mr. Brent. He seemed so upset, sir, when you didn't come in last night. If you'll pardon my saying so, sir—"

"Yes, Simpson." Brent's tone revealed none of the anguish in his heart. He had spent all the night searching the city for Molly. He had telephoned, and Donna had told him that Molly was out with a strange man—a man she had met at "The Red Poppy." Donna had kept Brent on the phone while she talked about how dreadful it had been of Wick to take Molly to such a questionable night club.

Then Brent had dashed off to make the rounds of the dining and dancing places. He was thoroughly alarmed.

He had not found her at "The Red Poppy" which, somehow, was definitely associated with his fears. He had failed to find her anywhere. As the hours lengthened toward morning Brent had gone to the Milford home to find Donna sharing his anxiety. Molly's father was to arrive in a few hours and Molly must be found.

Perhaps, Donna suggested, there had been car trouble and Molly had been unable to reach a telephone. In the end, Brent had called police headquarters to see if any accidents had been reported.

Morning had come, and someone had telephoned that Molly had been found. It was all like a horrible nightmare—that message had torn Brent's world apart.

Molly was dead. Gay, laughing, beautiful, and sweet Molly was dead. With everything to live for, she had found life not worth living. She must have known how he loved her, and yet she had not wanted to stay here with him.

It couldn't be true! Yet Brent had seen her looking so peaceful and beautiful with all trace of suffering gone, her lips closed forever. Never to answer his desperate questioning. "Why, Molly darling, did you do it?"

Simpson was still waiting in the doorway, watching his young employer anxiously. What was the matter with Simpson? Didn't he understand how to do as he was told? Couldn't he realize how much Brent wanted to be alone now? It was not possible to talk with this stranger or anyone else.

"Forgive me, sir," Simpson was saying, "but the young man is so anxious, so excited, Mr. Brent. He said he couldn't leave without seeing you."

"Bring him in," Brent spoke hoarsely. "If he's a book agent—"

"No, sir, he isn't," Simpson had answered confidently, and then vanished.

A moment later he was ushering in a dark-haired young man. The stranger stood regarding Brent timidly out of dark, melancholy eyes.

"I have a message for you, Mr. Stuart. That is, I had a message for you and then I lost it."

"I see." Brent's tone was hollow. "Then what was the good of coming here?"

"I was pretty sure I knew what was in the message. The young lady trusted me. In fact, she paid me handsomely to bring it to you."

"I don't know what you are talking about," Brent said. "Won't you sit down?"

The young man must be out of his head, though he looked sane enough. And trustworthy.

"I hurried off as soon as I could," the visitor began abruptly. "I had to tell 'Frenchy' something, give him some excuse. He's the man who owns the place where I play in an orchestra. When I was half-way to town I put my hand in my pocket and the slip of paper the young lady had given me was gone. I must have pulled it out with my handkerchief. I remembered your name, though, and I looked up your address in a directory."

"Yes," Brent put quietly, "then you camped on my doorstep all night, I hear. Or practically."

"That's right." The dark eyes lighted for a moment, humorously. "Your man tried to throw me out several times. But he was very nice when I made him understand that my message was important."

"What made you think it was?" Brent queried. He thought, heavily, how different would have been the reception given this young man, if he had been here last night. He would have been sure then that the message was connected with Molly's disappearance. Of course it wasn't. Just a crank's story. Or maybe some silly girl had sent him a mash note.

"She seemed such a nice girl," the stranger said. "So worried and excited. She looked relieved when I nodded my head to let her know I would go. I think she wanted you to come very much. If I had only read the note—but I didn't. I'm pretty sure she was afraid something was going to happen. And it did, Mr. Stuart, while I was gone. The man she was with was killed by the police."

"Good heavens!" Brent exclaimed. Surely, the boy was crazy.

"He robbed a bank, they said."

"What was the girl like?" Brent inquired mechanically.

"Golden-haired. Pretty."

Brent's heart leaped. Golden-haired. Golden Girl. But the Golden Girl was dead. Only an hour ago he had stood by her casket.

"She was little," mused the young man. "She wore a green dress and a hat with a green feather on it. Wait a moment—I have something here I'd forgotten."

He pulled out a crumpled piece of paper. "She wrote some request numbers. This is one."

Brent barely glanced at the crumpled paper. Still holding it, he said, "I appreciate your coming here. It was good of you to be so interested. But I assure you there was some mistake. I don't know that girl, or if I do, it is in some quite casual fashion. I haven't an idea in the world why she should have sent me a message. But you've been put to a great deal of trouble. I should like to pay you—"

"No, thanks," the boy said. "She did that. It was $20. I only wish I could have reached you last night. Maybe you'd have gone back with me."

"Yes," Brent replied. "I would have gone with you last night. But everything has been changed. I have had a great shock today. You'll excuse me now."

The young man bowed and went out.

Simpson opened the door. "Did he think it was important?" he asked cautiously.

The young man shook his head. "I'm afraid not," he said. "But it was important. I'm afraid he will find it out some day, when it is too late."

The front door closed and Simpson turned away, mournfully. He had been quite taken in by the young man. If Mr. Brent didn't think it was important, it wasn't. There, that was the bell again!

The young man was standing there, hat in hand. "I forgot to tell him—"

"I suppose you'll say again it's something important?"

"Yes. Very important."

"I regret, sir, that it is quite impossible for you to see Mr. Stuart again."

"Then you'll take a message for me?"

"Gladly."

The young man spoke quickly, "He wanted to know what the girl looked like, the one who sent the message. Tell him she looked exactly like that girl whose picture is on the front page of the newspapers today."

"But that is Miss Molly Milford, and she's dead." Simpson's voice sank dismally.

"Yes, I know." The visitor brushed this aside impatiently. "But this girl was her living, breathing image. Tell him that."

The door closed and Simpson's breath came heavily. What a narrow escape! So all this time he had been talking with a lunatic. Last night he had been alone with this crazy man for hours. Of course it wouldn't do to worry Mr. Brent with this ridiculous message. Simpson knew better than that. Mr. Brent was suffering almost more than he could bear, as it was.

In the library Brent stood looking down at the piece of paper in his hands. The words, blurred at first by the mist in his eyes, were gradually taking shape, "Please play Butterfly's 'Some Day He'll Come.'"

Brent's hand began to shake. The writing—no, he must be losing his mind. He was about to say the writing was Molly's. The girl who had written this had been living last night. And Molly had been in a department store—dead.

Brent rushed into the hall. "The young man who was here," he called wildly.

"He's gone, sir."

"Gone?"

"Yes, sir."

Simpson took in his young master's eyes, the white, anguished face. Everybody was going crazy. Maybe he was doing wrong to tell Mr. Brent what the stranger had said.

Nevertheless Simpson went on, "He told me to tell you, sir, that the girl who sent you the message last night looked like Miss Molly. She was the living image of the picture in the paper, he said."

"Get me the paper," Brent cried.

INSURANCE CLUB HONORS SEYMOUR AND GIRAULT

Ed J. Seymour of Monroe, and E. S. Gerrault, of the Seymour Insurance agency, have been awarded membership in the "Macaulay club," an organization composed of representatives of the Sun Life Assurance Society of Canada, who have made unusual records in the volume of business they have written during the year. The members of the club will meet in St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, New Brunswick, for a three-day gathering during September. Expenses of the trip and entertainment while at St. Andrews are borne by the company as a reward for the accomplishments of Macaulay members. The two Louisianians will be accompanied by their wives on the trip to Canada. They will leave September 3 and will be gone about three weeks.

Ed. Arnold Is Starred At Capitol

'Meet Nero Wolfe' Is Departure From Other Fiction Detectives

UNDER the frank and informal title, "Meet Nero Wolfe," Columbia Pictures introduces Rex Stout's famous fat detective in the first screen adaptatiaon of the sleuth's widely read fictional adventures. The new film is scheduled to head the screen program at the Capitol Theater, starting today.

Those who have read "Fer de Lance," the Rex Stout story on which "Meet Nero Wolfe" is based, will recognize the lazy, beer-imbibing amateur Hawkshaw in the corpulent person of Edward Arnold. As Archie, Nero Wolfe's superstooge, Lionel Stander acts as his master's eyes, ears, arms and legs—but never his brains. Stander gathers the facts and suspects, and between rounds of beer, Wolfe assembles the crime puzzle and isolates the guilty person. So effective is this method of crime deduction that Wolfe has found it unnecessary to leave his house in seven years.

In rapid succession, Wolfe learns of two murders. Both, at first, are believed to be death by natural causes, and unrelated. Convinced of foul play, Wolfe launches his own investigations and soon rounds up six suspects. His deductions are confirmed when a third man dies in the midst of his investigations.

A golf club, transformed into a gun which shot a poisoned needle, was the lethal weapon used in the first murder. A similar needle, shot through a blow-gun, served to accomplish the second. The bite of the deadly fer de lance, a snake common to the South American tropics, in whose poison the two needles were dipped, committed the third crime. How these mystifying elements are correlated and analyzed, leading to the apprehension of the murderer, comprises the crux of the famous story.

Supporting the two male leads is a large cast including Victor Jory, John Qualen, Joan Perry, Dennie Moore, Nana Bryant and Russell Hardie. The film was adapted to the screen by Bruce Manning and Howard J. Green, under the direction of Herbert Biberman.

These Beautiful New Monroe Homes Designed And Constructed By Skilled Monroe Craftsmen

UTMOST CAUTION URGED IN WIRING

Careful Inspection Essential In New Construction Of Homes

Fortunately for home owners in urban areas, and also for the insurance companies, electric wiring is usually carefully inspected in new construction work. But in those rural parts of the country where no codes apply, the builder of a home should see to it that he has a complete specification for a first-class wiring job and should employ competent supervision to make certain that he gets what is specified. Once the walls are enclosed and the wires concealed, it will be impossible to detect any faults, and the first indication of poor wiring is apt to be the smell of smoke from a fire in the walls or ceiling caused by a short circuit due to careless or improper wiring.

There are three types of wiring used, namely, knob-and-tube, flexible cable, and wires run in metal conduits. The last is the most complete job and the one where the greatest degree of safety may be expected. The flexible cable is perfectly satisfactory if properly installed, but it should not be used where it will be exposed to dampness unless waterproof cable is used. The type most usual in present-day construction is an armored cable made of galvanized ferrous metal. The galvanizing is sufficient to protect the metal under normal conditions, but where severe moisture exists it may eventually lose its protective quality and the metal will rust. For instance, such cable should not be used where it will be exposed to the weather, or in a damp, poorly ventilated space under a house where it cannot be watched for possible deterioration.

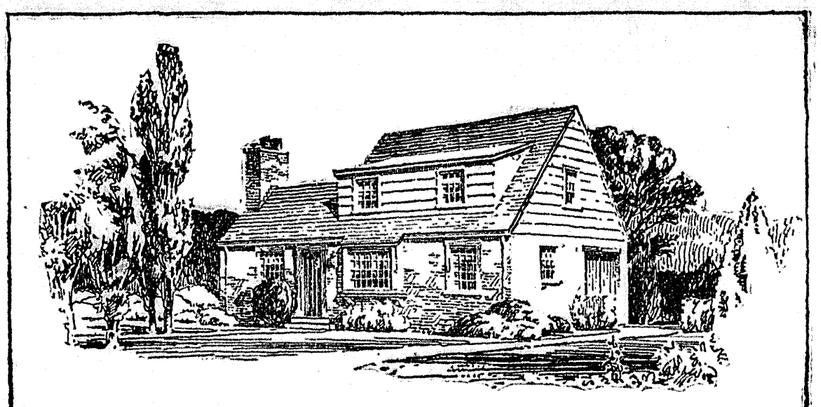
Knob-and-tube, properly installed, is satisfactory, but no wire should pass through any wood member without a protecting nonconducting porcelain tube, and all connections should be carefully insulated.

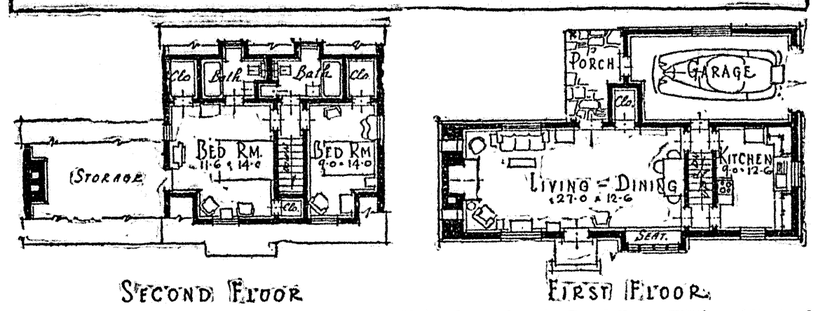
With good materials properly used, expert labor, and an intelligent layout, little or no danger should exist.

SEVEN-YEAR HIGH

The record of the first six months of 1936 in Philadelphia includes the construction of 1,000 new homes representing an investment in excess of $4,000,000, according to the Philadelphia Inquirer, thus setting a new seven-year record. The total in number and dollar value, the Inquirer said are three times those of 1935. But it was in 1934 that Philadelphia home building struck solid rock bottom, when 188 homes were constructed during the first six months at a cost of only a little more than $800,000.

Modern New England Home





The above house, built for $6,150 at Melrose, Mass., from plans by Royal Barry Wills, architect, of Boston, illustrates the possibilities of the story-and-a-half house. The informality of the fenestration, with the bracketed bay, the heavy window frames, and the fat chimney with the uneven chimney pots, suggests old England. Even the heavy oak door smacks of the days when a door was a barrier as well as a device for keeping out the weather. If the space on the second floor could have been spared, individual dormers would have improved the front elevation; but for full use of the second floor, the box dormer was necessary. The plan is interesting and illustrates the growing tendency toward the elimination of the dining room in small houses. The long living room allows the end near the kitchen to be definitely assigned to dining purposes without its complete separation. The inclusion of two bath rooms in a house of this size is a delightful extravagance. The large storage space is something not always found in houses that are squeezed dry of all excess space.

WOMAN IS BEST

Woman, it seems is the best man when it comes to home modernization. In a recent home modernization contest held in Kansas City, according to the Detroit News, women won the first, second, and third prizes, although the contest was open to both sexes. Women displayed the greatest imagination in the improvement contest, the News said, their modernization work embracing both interior and exterior. Each entrant was allowed the same amount of money.

BEAUTY ACCENTED BY LANDSCAPING

Value Of Home Enhanced By Proper Development Of Home Grounds

According to leading nurserymen and landscape contractors throughout the country, more landscape construction is being done on home grounds than has been experienced since 1926.

People are living out of doors now more than ever before. As transportation is becoming more convenient, it is possible for the home owner to go about and make comparisons between his neighborhood and home and those of other communities. This makes for better planning of the home grounds. It is not uncommon to see the room arrangement in new residences turned about so that, instead of facing the street with the living rooms, these rooms look out upon a garden development.

The federal housing administration, under title I of the national housing act, is insuring loans made by financial institutions to responsible individuals for permanent landscape construction about the home. It is possible to construct a pool for the children to wade in or for a garden feature at a very reasonable cost of materials and labor. It is also possible to surround the rear yard of the home grounds with adequate protection of fence, wall, or planting, inside of which may be grown trees to screen off objectionable views and give shade and comfort to the living room outdoors. In front of such treatment can be planted hardy flowers, and, where possible, a lawn can be constructed which may be used for lawn games and serving meals out of doors. On larger places a swimming pool can be constructed and garden walks made of cement, brick or flagstone and many designs followed which will not only lend interest to the property but will enhance its value over and above the expense involved.

The federal housing administration believes it is a sound proposition to insure loans for the improvement of home grounds, so that the modern use made of such areas will be comparable to the new equipment and furniture which is being found throughout the home itself. Up until recently the country has lagged behind in modernizing the grounds around its homes as compared to the modernizing that is taking place in the design and building of the residence itself.

Yard improvements as indicated above would certainly be a great improvement over the old woodyard, trash heap, garbage can, and other junk that used to decorate the rear yards of the average home.

METAL PANS UNDER TILE

Shower stalls should have non-corrosive metal pans placed under the tile flooring to prevent leaks. If possible, these pans should be carried up the side walls to a height of about six feet. Wire "hairpins" can be soldered to these metal walls at frequent intervals to provide a means of attaching the lath to the tile.

BONUS HOMES

About $5,220,000 of the $18,060,000 of bonus money paid to Colorado veterans will go into real estate in one form or another, according to J. A. Carlton, manager of the Denver regional office of the veteran's bureau. Mr. Carlton's survey reveals that $3,060,000 will go for new homes and that the balance will be used to retire old mortgages.

HOUSE SHORTAGE CRAMPS BUSINESS

Industries Must Transfer Operations Unless Homes Are Found

MOUNT GILEAD, O.—Unless it can build at least 50 homes within the near future, Mount Gilead faces the loss of the larger part of its income from one of its major industries. The executive vice president of one company reports that the housing shortage in the city has become so acute that, unless sufficient accommodations for new workers are supplied, the company will be forced to send much of its work to other cities.

The present situation is serious enough from the point of view of local merchants as well as employes. Forty-six per cent of the employes of the industry mentioned are living in nearby communities and commuting as much as 30 miles to their work Since the facilities of the small surrounding towns are already strained, the company, which wishes to expand its operations, is faced with a serious problem. At the invitation of the local Kiwanis club, Paul R. Kennedy, associated director of the federal housing administration's Columbus office, recently explained to business men in the city how the insured mortgage plan could be used to solve their problem. With the support of a leading institution in the city, which publicly expressed its desire to bid in the plan, it is hoped that at least 50 homes can be constructed in the near future.

One of the most serious problems to be solved is that of obtaining skilled labor to carry out the building program. Another meeting will be held in the near future, at which this phase of the problem will be discussed.

U. S. IS TOPS

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Geneva, the League of Nations announced that the United States topped all the nations of the world in building construction during the second half of 1935. Building permits were 95 per cent greater in the United States than in the corresponding period of 1934.

UTMOST CAUTION URGED IN WIRING

Careful Inspection Essential In New Construction Of Homes

Fortunately for home owners in urban areas, and also for the insurance companies, electric wiring is usually carefully inspected in new construction work. But in those rural parts of the country where no codes apply, the builder of a home should see to it that he has a complete specification for a first-class wiring job and should employ competent supervision to make certain that he gets what is specified. Once the walls are enclosed and the wires concealed, it will be impossible to detect any faults, and the first indication of poor wiring is apt to be the smell of smoke from a fire in the walls or ceiling caused by a short circuit due to careless or improper wiring.

There are three types of wiring used, namely, knob-and-tube, flexible cable, and wires run in metal conduits. The last is the most complete job and the one where the greatest degree of safety may be expected. The flexible cable is perfectly satisfactory if properly installed, but it should not be used where it will be exposed to dampness unless waterproof cable is used. The type most usual in present-day construction is an armored cable made of galvanized ferrous metal. The galvanizing is sufficient to protect the metal under normal conditions, but where severe moisture exists it may eventually lose its protective quality and the metal will rust. For instance, such cable should not be used where it will be exposed to the weather, or in a damp, poorly ventilated space under a house where it cannot be watched for possible deterioration.

Knob-and-tube, properly installed, is satisfactory, but no wire should pass through any wood member without a protecting nonconducting porcelain tube, and all connections should be carefully insulated.

With good materials properly used, expert labor, and an intelligent layout, little or no danger should exist.

SOLDIER OF FORTUNE

JUST AS THEY'RE LIFTING ANCHOR ON THE BELFRY YACHT, A LAUNCH COMES ALONGSIDE.

I SAY, BELFRY, WE'VE GOT TO SEE YOU. IT'S FRIGHTFULLY IMPORTANT.

THEN YOU CAN SEE ME IN NEW YORK.

NO, NO. THERE'S NO TIME TO LOSE. WE UNDERSTAND THAT YOU HAVE A PROCESS WHEREBY YOU CAN MAKE DIAMONDS, ARTIFICIALLY.

WHERE'D YOU HEAR THAT?

NEVERMIND. WE REPRESENT DIAMOND MINES IN SOUTH AFRICA. SIGNOR BAZOOLI REPRESENTS BRAZILIAN INTERESTS. WE-AH- WISH TO KNOW IF IT IS TRUE.

SEE FOR YOURSELVES, GENTLEMEN.

HERE ARE SOME SAMPLES. THEY RUN FROM TWO TO EIGHT—SOMETIMES TEN-CARATS, UNCUT.

HMMM! VERY NICE STONES.

GOOD HEAVENS! THEY'RE PERFECT.

COME, COME, BELFRY. YOU CAN'T FOOL US. YOU DIDN'T MAKE THESE STONES—YOU BOUGHT 'EM.

AH, GENTLEMEN, THAT'S A REAL COMPLIMENT. YOU CAN'T TELL THE MINED DIAMOND FROM THE MANUFACTURED.

WHAT'S YOUR PROCESS?

AS YOU KNOW, THE DIAMOND IS A CRYSTALIZED FORM OF PURE CARBON, CHEMICALLY IDENTICAL WITH CHARCOAL AND GRAPHITE, FUSED UNDER GREAT HEAT AND PRESSURE. CHEMISTS, AT ENORMOUS COST, HAVE SUCCEEDED IN MAKING SMALL DIAMONDS, EVEN FROM SUGAR, BUT THE STONES HAVE BEEN OF NO COMMERCIAL VALUE.

I, GENTLEMEN, AM THE ONLY PERSON ON EARTH WHO KNOWS HOW TO MAKE A LARGE, PERFECT DIAMOND. THE MANUFACTURING COST IS ONLY $2.50 A CARAT. I EXPECT TO MAKE 100,000 DIAMONDS A YEAR AND CLEAN UP!

GREAT SCOTT! YOU'LL—

SHH! LET SIR HENRY HANDLE THIS.

I SAY, OLD CHAP, IF YOUR PROCESS IS ALL THAT YOU CLAIM, WE-WE'LL PAY A MILLION DOLLARS FOR THE SECRET!

HUMPH! I CAN MAKE THAT MUCH IN A WEEK.

HERE, I SAY! WE HAVE LARGE INVESTMENTS TO PROTECT.

WE'LL PAY FORTY MILLION.

YOU FAIL TO REALIZE THAT I'M IN A POSITION TO TURN OUT DIAMONDS BY THE THOUSANDS, AT ONE-HUNDREDTH OF THEIR MARKET VALUE. YOUR PROPOSITION IS ABSURD.

WE-WE'LL PAY FIFTY MILLION!

SIXTY MILLION!

NO, NO! I PAY THAT MUCH, MEESTER BELFRY, FOR ONLY WAN HALF INTEREST.

GENTLEMEN, I'M NOT INTERESTED.

THE FOOL! HE'LL FLOOD THE MARKET!

HE'LL RUIN US!

IT'S A RACKET! HE'S A BANDIT! HE'S TRYING TO HOLD US UP!

GENTLEMEN, WE'VE GOT TO GET HOLD OF HIS SECRET.

IF YOU DON'T MIND, SON, SLIP THIS REVOLVER IN YOUR POCKET. FROM NOW ON, ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN.

ADVENTURE STAMPS

by I. S. Klein

Flaming Plunge to Death

8-23

ALBERTO SANTOS-DUMONT, wealthy Brazilian, was having trouble staying in the air with the peculiar balloons that he was building. Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, in Germany, was forced down in his first attempt in an airship that later was to produce such famous "progeny" as the Graf Zeppelin and the Hindenburg. So another wealthy Brazilian, Augusto Severo, decided to try his skill at the new sport of flying.

It was May, 1902, when this intrepid coffee planter took his strange ship to France. Under a huge balloon filled with gas hung a long boxlike car.

The day of the flight came. Severo kissed his wife, and she left for Issy, outside Paris, where Severo was to land.

On the way, Mrs. Severo looked up and saw the ugly, clumsy craft overhead. Something seemed to be wrong. The ship was wabbling. The rear propeller was barely turning.

Suddenly a gust of wind whirled the airship around crazily. Mrs. Severo was terrified. Flames shot out from one of the motors, then came a deafening roar. The balloon exploded and, with Severo, fell 1500 feet.

Brazil in 1929 remembered this martyr of the air with two stamps, one picturing Severo and the other his balloon.
